

Nehawka

The Nehawka school basketball team is to play the Eagle team on Friday evening of this week.

Percy J. Wheeler, of near Plattsmouth, was looking after some business matters in Nehawka Tuesday afternoon.

Sherman and Roy Cols of near Myrard, were looking after business in Nehawka last Tuesday, driving down in their car.

F. W. Paape, Louis Gunzel and Adolph Paape, who reside near Otoe, were transacting business in Nehawka last Tuesday.

A. R. Dowler, salesman for a Nebraska City Motor company, was looking after some business matters in Nehawka Tuesday.

Mrs. Lyle Kruger returned home last Sunday from a week's visit at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Fred Gunde and family, at Palmyra.

George Hansen was called to Weeping Water on Tuesday of last week, where he was looking after business matters, and later drove to Avoca for a visit with friends.

Fred Nutzman, who has been sick during the past three weeks, is still confined to his home and the greater part of the time to his bed, although there has been some improvement in his condition. He enjoyed a visit from his friend, George Hanson, on Tuesday of this week.

Held Farm Loan Meeting

Members of the Farm Loan association residing in the eastern part of Cass county held their annual meeting in Nehawka last Tuesday afternoon and were looking after such business as would naturally come before an annual meeting of this nature, including some very complete reports of the past year's business.

Auxiliary Entertains Legion

The members of the American Legion Auxiliary of Nehawka entertained the members of the Legion at the Nehawka auditorium, when a most pleasant evening was had by all. A fine program had been arranged and there was also an abundance of good things to eat.

Burglars in Nehawka

Some sneak thief who thought more of getting something which he did not have to work for than obeying the law, entered the Missouri Pacific station and purloined a few pennies which had been left in the money drawer of the railroad company, but disturbed nothing else. They also entered the Clarence Hanson garage and took a gum vending machine which they carried outside, but did not even open it, probably being frightened away before they had the opportunity to break it open. As a result, they realized practically nothing for their efforts and at the same time laid themselves liable to a severe penalty under the law on a breaking and entering charge.

Commander Visits Posts

District Commander W. H. Kruger of the American Legion was in Lincoln last Monday evening looking after some business matters connected with the progress of the 12th district over which he presides and arranging for the district convention to be held at that place on February 26. On his way he stopped at Elmwood and Greenwood to confer with post officials at these two points relative to their membership standing. A week ago, Mr. Kruger attended a post meeting at Plattsmouth. He is ever on the job when it comes to advancing the interests of the Legion and puts in a lot of time looking after the details of his office. The 12th district now holds the trophy for greatest membership gains over prior years, and Bill is anxious to see it retained again this year.

Attended Basketball Game

A considerable number of students of the Nehawka public schools went to Lincoln one evening last week to attend the basketball game between the University of Nebraska team and the Wyoming state team.

Were Hungry for Beef

Gayle Sturm butchered a fine beef last Saturday and after cutting it into quarters, divided one of the quarters, placing the meat in a large receptacle, over which he placed a tub bottom side up, with a 50 pound cement block on top of the tub, thinking it would be safe, but Sunday morning he found the weight was off and the meat gone.

Some thought it might have been done by a dog, but it looks like it must have been done by a dirty two-legged dog, at that.

SALES GOING GOOD

Rex Young, the auctioneer, is one of the business men in this part of the state at the present time in handling farm and community sales over the entire eastern section of the state. Mr. Young states he has but a few open dates from now until the first of March and that the sales that have been held have been exceptionally good and the live stock especially has brought a good price and with plenty of bidders.

Inflated or ordinary dollars—either kind will still buy most if expended in your home community where a part is retained to help meet the tax burden and other community obligations.

Meat Canning Demonstrations.

Tuesday, January 28th and Wednesday, January 29th Cass county women will have the opportunity to get first hand information on meat canning problems.

Mrs. Ayars, home economist for Ball Brothers company, will present these demonstrations. Mrs. Ayars has taught canning to groups of women in nine states. These demonstrations have varied from the fig in the south to the cranberry in the north, from the wild squirrel in the mountains to the milk fed capon on the modern middle west farm.

Think through your meat canning procedure, jot down any problem or question you have and make arrangements to attend one of the demonstrations.

The meeting Tuesday, January 28th, will be held at the Methodist church basement at Nehawka, while the meeting the 29th will be at the Christian church, Elmwood.

Attended Organized Agriculture.

Mrs. Hall Pollard of Nehawka spent a most enjoyable week attending the meetings of Organized Agriculture. This trip was made possible thru the Ball Brothers Canning company. For the past two years Ball Brothers have sponsored both a county and state canning contest. Mrs. Pollard as winner of the state contest in 1934 was awarded this trip.

Mrs. Delbert Lindsay, of Union, and Margie Ruth Pollard of Nehawka received cash prizes in the 1935 contest. Mrs. Lindsay as county winner competed in the state contest for project club members and Margie Ruth was entered in the state 4-H contest.

The Extension Service is sponsoring similar contests in 1936. Project club members might keep this in mind when canning their winter meat supply, and can a jar or two to be used in exhibits.

Buyers Warned Against Peddlers

Trucking Low Quality Seeds. Any trucker who is not a common carrier and who hauls misbranded seed from one state to peddle it in another state violates the Federal Seed Act, the U. S. Department of Agriculture warns. Transporting misbranded seed from one state to another is forbidden by law, but common carriers are exempt. Selling the misbranded seed in interstate commerce is also an offense, and the peddling trucker could be punished for either or both of these acts.

Complaints received from state officials by the Division of Seed Investigations, which administers the act, indicate that much of the seed sold by truckers from other states has been sold at unusually low prices. But this cheap seed is also of unusually low quality—or otherwise unsuitable. Truckers should be able to handle seed that is correctly labeled and is of high quality. Past experience indicates, however, that it is poor business to buy seed from a stranger or person whose reputation is not known. Buying cheap seed has resulted in injury to many farmers who have not realized the importance of buying seed that is clean and free of noxious weed seeds, seed that germinates well, and seed of a variety adapted to the buyer's locality.

An investigation made by department officials in one case revealed that a truck owner was buying screenings from a large seed house and selling it across the state line as good seed. Of course he was forced to misbrand the seed to get buyers. If the seed had been truthfully labeled, farmers would have known better than to buy it.

Unless he keeps a record in black and white, a farmer has no recourse against the person who sold him the seed. There have been extreme cases where the seed was not labeled, where the buyer did not even know the name of the trucker or his address, and did not even make a record of the state and number on the license plates. It is impossible for seed law officials to be of any assistance in a case of this kind.

The Department of Agriculture officials think it is unwise to buy seed unless it is completely labeled and unless the buyer gets a written record of the transaction. Any questionable transactions should be reported to the state seed official who may report the case to the federal authorities if it appears the Federal Seed Act has been violated.

Timely Topics From the Farm and Home.
Corn-Hog Wheat Association officers of the county will attend a meeting in Lincoln January 16th to hear the details of the conference of agricultural leaders held in Washington last week.

Plans of procedure will be explained to county committeewomen, and undoubtedly some action will be taken officially in the near future.

A tour of inspection of 4-H Baby Beeves by the Agriculture Agents of the county last week showed that the boys are doing a good job getting the calves tamed down and started on feed.

It is surprising to see the boys come out of the barn leading the calves at the end of a rope halter. Most of the calves came off the range in the northwest last October. They are pretty well tamed now and seem to like this Cass county ensilage, alfalfa, hay, oats, and corn. 4-H Baby Beef boys soon learn that a good calf properly fed and cared for, makes a good 4-H project.

Since the fate of the AAA it has been interesting to note the reactions of farmers coming into the office the last week. It seems they are divided into two classes. Those that had dis-favored the plan seem to have but one thing on their minds now—"Will we get our checks." Those that have favored the program say, "No question but that we will get our checks for the 1935 program and that we will have another program, but we are worrying about whether things can get squared away in time to have a program in 1936."

If you want to see a place where there is no unemployment step into the hen house of Leo Rikli of Murock. Leo spent a few dollars this fall for some lumber, and strung his hen house between the studding on all sides, and put in a straw loft. Now his 200 hens are laying about 130 eggs per day. He feeds a simple mash of ground wheat, ground oats, and ground barley with some meat scraps and about 12 gallons of skim milk per day. Leo says the ten dollars he spent on lumber and straw to make his house warm, has been the best investment he has made lately.

The supreme court's ruling on the AAA doesn't seem to have affected the corn sealing phase of the program. County corn sealers are sealing cribs every day and the railway commission says the decision has not affected this feature of the program.
