Cold Weather Makes Busy Days for Water Corp'n

Exceptional Weather Conditions Keep Large Force Busy and Under Conditions Few Services Out.
The sub-zero conditions of the past few weeks has kept the Plattsmouth Water Co. employes busy handling the situation as to water services and conditions here are much better than in many places, less than three percent of the services being out from freezing in the street leads, altho a number of services in cellars which are not adequately protected have been frozen. Out of the 1,000 patrons of the company there has been but thirty services out of commission.
None of the large mains have been frozen so far and the fire hydrants of the city have been all kept open through the efforts of the company.
Superintendent L. O. Minor of the Plattsmouth Water Corporation states that he has a force of eleven men and two machines busy all the time to keep the services open and that in their excavations they have found frost and freezing conditions from eight inches to four feet.
Mr. Minor is asking that all those who have been letting their water run to prevent freezing, do so until they are notified by the company as the severe condition of the ground will continue for some time even with the warming weather conditions.
The company is working on several small mains over the city and which it is hoped will soon be back in normal condition.

Bob Simmons in Race Again for Senator

Former Republican Congressman Will File Soon for the Senate Nomination.
Robert G. Simmons of Lincoln, former congressman defeated by E. R. Burke for the United States senate in 1934, will seek republican nomination again, this time for the seat held by George W. Norris, he said late Tuesday.
His statement: "Within the next few days I shall make a personal filing as a candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator. An extended statement is not necessary at this time. During the campaign two years ago I debated the national issues before the people of this state. The results of the course of the government since that time have justified my stand. An ever increasing number of people in this state have affirmed their support of my position.
"We face not a contest of personalities but a contest of ideals and conceptions of the purposes, powers and functions of the national government. I shall oppose the new deal's un-American, uneconomic, extravagant, debt-increasing and tax-burdening policies, the seizing of power from local governing bodies, and the partisan spoils system. I shall agree with the new deal where I believe their purposes are right and the methods they follow are not harmful to our institutions of government.
"Communism in form and in fact must be wiped out.
"I believe that we can solve the complex problems of agriculture, revive business, re-employ labor, care for those in need, restore our citizenship to real prosperity and maintain the forward march of liberal and humanitarian movements, all within our system of constitutional government. I shall strive for the solution of our political, economic and social problems upon a basis that will preserve to the individual citizen his liberty of thought, action and opportunity. To that end I pledge to fight side by side with an aroused and aggressive citizenship."

K. OF C. CHIEF PROTESTS

Carmony said: "President Roosevelt's brotherhood day radio address was an expression of such lofty sentiment that it becomes increasingly difficult to understand the president's apparent unwillingness to concern himself with the present persecution of religion in Mexico."

"HIGH COST OF DYING" SHOWN

New York, Feb. 24.—With inheritance and estate taxes mounting, heads of American families of moderate means must take thought now of "the high cost of dying." Elizabeth Frazer points out in the March issue of Good Housekeeping.
All estates exceeding $40,000 are subject to the highest federal estate tax in the history of the nation, she says, and in 24 of the states there are taxes on estates of less than $10,000. She asserts the high taxes are not only "soaking the rich" but making serious inroads on moderate estates.
"The various expenses in the high cost of dying must be paid in cash before the wife receives her share," the writer adds.
"Common sense and business prudence suggest that men who wish to leave anything to their wives and children should inform themselves of the amount of shrinkage on their estates due to death duties. And having informed themselves, it is logical that they should carefully consider ways and means of reducing the inevitable losses by every legitimate method."

RAILROADS USE MORE MEN

Omaha.—The Union Pacific railroad here employs between 700 and 800 more men now than it did a year ago, officials said. Most of the "furloughed" employes, laid off during slack times, have been called back and some new employes added.
Burlington officials said that during the past few months employes on the "extra" list who have been off the payroll as long as three years have been called back, and new employes added.
Steady increase in railroad business, officials said, was chiefly responsible for the increase in employment. Employment jumped ahead noticeably during the last month, due partly to heavy snows ailing the lines, and partly to seasonal rehabilitation of equipment and work on roadbeds.
