There is some talk that there is going to be a Sunday school picnic, and this time the story is true. Watch these notes for further information about it.

Lord, help me live from day to day in such a self-forgetful way That even when I kneel to pray My prayers will be for OTHERS.

Help me in all the work I do To ever be sincere and true And know that all I do for YOU Must needs be done for OTHERS.

Others, Lord, yes, others Let this my motto be; Help me to live for others That I may live like THEE.

SHOT ----- no argument

"On the 18th of April in '75," as every schoolboy knows, Paul Revere set out on his midnight ride from Boston to warn "the country folk to be up and to arm." The next morning, April 19th, still observed as a holiday in my home Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the country folk met the British troops and the first shot of our Revolutionary War was fired.

Throughout the 161 years since that day, there has been a friendly but intense dispute between the people of Lexington and those of Concord as to in which town that first shot was fired. Concord pre-empted its claim by erecting the Battle Monument, for which occasion Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote his stirring verses:

"By the rude bridge that arched the flood, Their flag to April's breeze unfurled, Here once the embattled farmers stood And fired the shot heard 'round the world."

Congressman Sol Bloom of New York, who got into the headlines by challenging the story that George Washington once threw a silver dollar across the Rappahannock, now is trying to find out which town has the rights of it.

Down East we settled it long ago by calling it the "battle of Lexington and Concord."

HEROINE ----- of the air

I've done a bit of flying on "liner" airplanes in the past few years, and have had a chance to see and talk with a number of the flying stewardesses. I don't think there's a finer body of young women anywhere than these girls who look after the comfort of air travellers.

It didn't surprise me at all to read of the heroic conduct of Nellie Granger, stewardess of the "Sun Racer," which crashed in the Pennsylvania mountains the other day. These flying hostesses are the stuff of which heroines are made.

It isn't easy to get one of these jobs, but there'll be a lot more of them open for the right kind of girls, and I can think of a few more interesting and exciting careers open to women.

WEATHER ----- long range

The Federal Weather Bureau at Washington has always been extremely cautious about making long-range predictions. Its observers have a world-wide reputation for scientific accuracy that they do not want to lose. Therefore, when the bureau let the word get out the other day that it is now possible to forecast the weather two weeks ahead, I took it quite seriously.

Up our way, at Canton, Massachusetts, there's a long-range weather forecaster who predicted last February the floods we had in New England in March and April. Now H. H. Clayton—that's his name—is forecasting heavy rainfall for the spring and summer over most of the country east of the Rockies. Our Yankee folk are taking that quite seriously.

The real test will come only through several years of long-range forecasting. It is interesting, however, that those who know most about the weather believe it can be done.

WAR ----- by radio

I got my daughter one of those modern new radio receivers for a birthday present the other day, and now the whole family sits up late—too late—listening to broadcasts from Europe.

They are all about war. Germany, France, England and Italy are filling the air with arguments or news all emphasizing the strained relations which prevail on the European continent. The Germans are talking, apparently, mostly for American consumption, for much of what we hear from Berlin is in English—pretty good English, too.

It all has brought home to us as nothing in the newspapers has done, how wretched and apprehensive all Europe is, and how the "Powers" are shaking their fists in each others' faces.

POLICE ----- Saturday night
Another evening amusement with

Centennial Queen

Frances Nalle, 21, of Dallas, has been chosen as the official hostess of the Texas Centennial exposition which opens in Dallas, June 6. A committee of painters and sculptors selected her as the typical "Bluebonnet Girl" from a group of 300.

The short-wave radio is picking up police calls and signals from all over the country. Saturday night is trouble night, when men get their weekly wages and spend some or all of it getting drunk.

"Car Number 12, go to house 212 Johnson Street. Man beating his wife." Reports of drunken drivers, of men lying on the streets or in alleys, of fights and hold-ups and motor-car accidents, come into our living room on Saturday nights from everywhere from Maine to Michigan.

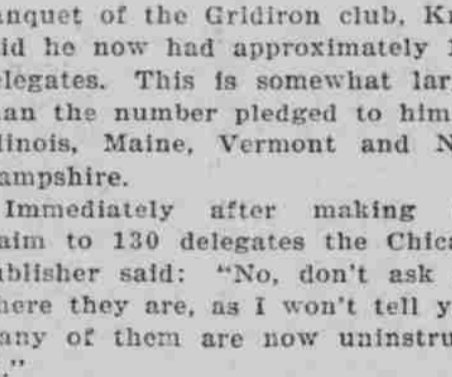

I don't know how it was during prohibition. There weren't any police radio cars then. But we have certainly gone back, since repeal, to the old American custom of getting drunk on Saturday night and raising Cain.

STRENGTH CLAIM OF KNOX

Washington.—Delegate strength greater than that possessed by Governor Landon of Kansas for the presidential nomination was claimed by Col. Frank Knox. Here to attend the banquet of the Gridiron club, Knox said he now had approximately 130 delegates. This is somewhat larger than the number pledged to him in Illinois, Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Immediately after making the claim to 130 delegates the Chicago publisher said: "No, don't ask me where they are, as I won't tell you. Many of them are now uninstructed."

Shocks Senate

Here is Vance Muse of Texas, manager of the southern committee to Uphold the Constitution, as he testified before the senate lobby committee, revealing the names of numerous wealthy contributors to the organization and admitting that he had helped distribute "all over the south" pictures of Mrs. Roosevelt entering a "Negro meeting with two Negro escorts."

Yellow Flowers Make a Cheerful Border

Combine Them with Blues for a Delicate Color Scheme; A Long List to Choose From.

Yellow is a cheerful color, and is a favorite with many amateur growers. A yellow border with some blue plantings to go with the pale yellows, scarlets and clear reds for the brilliant yellows, and a little lavender for the orange yellows, gives a strip of brilliance and beauty.

Among flowers, the annuals furnish a fine list of yellows of various textures, tones and intensities. The dwarf sunflowers are good for the tall portion of the border. They are dwarf only as compared with their tall varieties, which may grow from 8 to 10 feet. The dwarfs reach only 3 feet and have delicate flowers and foliage compared with the old-fashioned barnyard sunflower. They are known as the cucumber-leaved strain, cucumerfolius, in the catalogs, and range from creamy white to intense yellows with black centers, and the latest development gives a strain with red zonings.

They are easily raised annuals and fine for cutting, the petals being long and often gracefully twisted. Along with the sunflowers for tall yellows is the helenium or bush California poppy.

The calliopsis, annual coreopsis, with golden flowers zoned with crimson is indispensable in the yellow borders, and the marigolds, both tall and dwarf with their cousins, the favorite calendula or pot marigold, will furnish beautiful cutting material. The California poppies furnish low growing brilliant masses of yellow.

The annual chrysanthemums give softer yellows. In a burst of orange of glistering texture unknown in other annuals are the African daisies, dimorphotheca. There are other shades from white to creamy yellow as well as brilliant oranges, all excellent for cutting.

The annual blanket flowers, or galliardias, will furnish the touch of red along with yellow needed for the border, and they too are fine cutting material.

ROCK ISLAND IN ARREARS

Chicago.—The Reconstruction Finance corporation began new efforts Monday to realize on its $13,700,000 loan to the Rock Island railroad, whose three years under section 77 of the amended bankruptcy act have not produced a reorganization plan. Federal Judge James E. Wilkerson was asked to dissolve an injunction which restrains the RFC from selling collateral pledged by the line, bonds with a face value of 40 million dollars listed and unlisted. A previous attempt to dissolve the injunction took the RFC to the supreme court. In refusing to lift the order the court said that to do so would tend to hinder or defeat the reorganization.

James Sprowl, RFC attorney, said the court added that unless a reorganization plan was forthcoming, the order could not stand.

CAMP AT JERSEY CAPITAL

Trenton, N. J.—A small delegation of the unemployed "camped" in the New Jersey assembly chamber after the legislature adjourned without providing relief funds.

Ray Cooke, state chairman of the Workers Alliance of New Jersey, organization of the unemployed, indicated they would remain until the legislature acted. He distributed his poorly dressed group about in the seats of the assemblymen and announced more were being brought by truck from Camden, Burlington and Essex counties to take up their peaceful occupation of the state house.

MARITAL LAW ORDER VOID

Oklahoma City.—Gov. Marland's right to drill oil wells on state lands in restricted Oklahoma City residential districts was upheld in state district court, but his order creating a military zone around the capitol area was held invalid. District Judge Ben Arnold dismissed the city's injunction suit seeking to halt the drilling, but held the martial law order was void and the militia within the civil jurisdiction of the court.
