Greenwood

Albert Murray and wife from south of Cedar Creek came to buy some chicks from the Leesley Hatchery.

B. Goding, of Plattsmouth, was a business visitor in Greenwood last Thursday and was meeting his many friends.

Burlington Station Agent Walter G. Hatt was called to Lincoln one day last week to look after some business matters.

Official business called Sheriff Sylvester to the western portion of the county one day during the latter portion of last week.

Orson Johnson was a business visitor in Weeping Water last Tuesday and made a lively run home to escape the rain and hail.

Harry Leesley was a business visitor at Ashland last Friday, where he was delivering some baby chicks and securing some supplies for his hatchery.

C. W. Newkirk was a visitor in Plattsmouth last Thursday attending the democratic county convention as delegate from Greenwood.

Just now, the anvil of S. S. Petersen can be heard playing a merry tune from early morning until late at night. Sophas sure likes to work and is getting plenty to do.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hoffman, residing southeast of Elmwood, were at the Leesley hatchery on Thursday of last week, getting a few hundred baby chicks, realizing it is more economical to purchase than to hatch the chicks themselves.

W. A. Armstrong, who was chosen assessor for Salt Creek, has been hustling during the entire month of April and is getting the work pretty well rounded up. Mr. Armstrong is expecting to get the work all done in a week or so from now.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Etheredge were much pleased on Tuesday of last week when a number of friends whom Mrs. Etheredge had known in former years, came to spend the day and pay them a very pleasant visit.

Ed Palmeter, the new blacksmith, of Alvo, was called to Greenwood the fore part of last week to look after some business, and incidentally he was meeting a number of his many friends while here. Mr. Palmeter was engaged in this line of business in Greenwood a number of years ago.

To Begin Work Soon

The necessary preliminary work in getting ready for the building of an addition to the Greenwood public schools has now been completed and the active work of construction is to be started soon. The additional room has been needed badly for school purposes and the opportunity of securing the same now at a mere fraction of its actual cost, through the medium of a PWA grant is welcomed by all and gladly taken advantage of. When completed it will provide a place of meeting that has been badly needed in the community for a long time.

Painting the Water Tank

A crew of painters are painting the tank of the Greenwood water-works system, thus insuring preservation of the same and a better appearance as well.

The Storm Plays a Prank

The heavy dashing rain of last Tuesday not only inundated the low lands, but went up into the higher grounds to do something unlooked for. In the field just across the road from the C. D. Fulmer country home, a straw stack containing possibly two or three tons of straw, was inundated, so rapid was the rainfall, and carried with the water out of the field. It was finally halted at the road near the bridge, which it could not go under or over.

We needed the rain badly, and although it did a little uncalculated for, it is perhaps best that we got it, for the ground was getting terribly dry and spring planting time at hand.

TO WORK AT YELLOWSTONE

Miss Martha Gorder, a student at Peru State Teachers college, has signed a contract to work at Canyon Lodge in Yellowstone Park for the summers. Others going to Yellowstone from Peru State are Miss Anna Williams of Elmwood and Miss Blanche Freeman of Bellevue.—From Peru Pedagogian.

Machinery is Set for Payment of the Bonus

Postal Officials Outline Procedure for Distribution of "Baby Bonds" in June.

Washington.—Postal officials said Friday that machinery has been set up to assure quick payment of bonus money to veterans who desire to cash their "baby bonds" after they are distributed in June.

Following is the procedure outlined by officials:

A veteran applies for payment of his bonus certificate in $50 bonds by sending an application blank with his fingerprints and other data to the nearest office of the veterans' administration.

After it has checked over the application, the veterans administration certifies the application to the treasury department.

The treasury department makes out an order for the proper number of $50 bonds, plus a check to cover any odd amount. These are sent to the federal reserve bank in the veteran's district.

The federal reserve bank makes up a bundle for each veteran, containing as many $50 bonus "baby bonds" as the veteran is owed, plus the check to cover the odd amount.

On June 15, these packages will start to move to veterans, thru the registered letter service of the post office department. Postmasters have been instructed to deliver these packages only to the veteran named on the package, even though the package may be addressed in "care of" another person, firm hotel or company. If the veteran has died or moved out of the postoffice's jurisdiction, the package will be returned to the reserve bank to await a new claim for it.

As soon as a veteran receives his bonds, he may take them to his local postoffice and apply for cash payment. The local postmaster will forward the bonds to the nearest paying center, (236 first class postoffices have been designated as paying centers) and a government check will be sent from there to the veteran.

If the veteran chooses to hold his bonds as an investment, he may draw interest at 3 percent a year until 1945. He may, if he chooses, hold the bonds, drawing interest for a few years, and then cash them at a date earlier than 1945. But no interest will be paid a veteran who cashes his bonds before the end of the first year, and no interest will be paid after 1945.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES

From Saturday's Daily: This morning at the Horton funeral home at Seventh and Vine streets, was held the last rites for Miss Emma DeHart, a resident of this city for the past sixteen years, who passed away on Thursday morning.

There were a large number of the old friends and neighbors present to pay their last tributes of love and respect for the friend who had gone from them. Rev. V. C. Wright of the First Methodist church, of which Miss DeHart had been a member and devoted worker in her time here, gave the sermon. The pastor brought words of comfort to the bereaved members of the family circle in the loss that has come to them.

During the services the Masonic quartet, composed of Frank A. Cloldt, Raymond C. Cook, H. G. McClusky and R. W. Knorr, gave two numbers, "Jesus Savior Pilot Me" and "Abide With Me."

The funeral party drove to Malvern, Iowa, the old family home where the interment was made in the family plot in the cemetery there.

MRS. ADAMS ILL

Mrs. W. T. Adams, who has been making her home for the winter at Lincoln, is still in very poor health and is now confined to her bed as the result of a third attack of bronchial pneumonia that she has suffered this past winter. Mrs. Adams is making her home with her son, Max and family at Lincoln, where Mr. Adams is the secretary of the state liquor commission. The many old friends here will regret to learn of her serious condition and trust that she may soon be able to show a rally.

VISITS IN CITY

From Saturday's Daily: Edward J. Knabe of near Nehawka, was in the city today and while here called at the Journal to renew his subscription. He reports the rain and hail storm near Nehawka a few days ago very heavy and which did some damage in the hail especially through that section.

JURY DISAGREES

Judge Daniel W. Livingston was in the city Friday afternoon to call in the jury in the case of Donald Whitmer, a minor, by his next friend, against Raymond H. Norris. The case was given to the jury Thursday afternoon and yesterday at 3:30 the jury was called by the judge and reported that they were divided so that a verdict could not be reached.

As the jury was unable to reach any agreement, Judge Livingston excused them from further deliberations and they will report back for service Monday.

The case will have to go over the term for retrial at the November term of the court.

From Saturday's Daily: Last evening Home Chapter of the Eastern Star of this city entertained at a benefit bingo party for the International Temple fund held at the Masonic building. The event was very largely attended and the earlier part of the evening was spent in playing bridge and in which a great deal of pleasure was derived.

A delightful program had been arranged also for the entertainment of the group and which was a much appreciated part of the evening. Bill Gayer was heard in a reading, Don Cotner favored the party with an artistic saxophone solo, Mrs. Wiley Sigler and children, Granville and Juniata, gave an instrumental solo, Robert Cole a piano selection, Mrs. J. E. Schutz and Mrs. Harry Nielsen gave a delightful vocal duet and Frank A. Cloldt a very fine vocal solo. Mrs. L. S. Devoe and Mrs. R. W. Knorr served as the accompanists.

The evening was closed with the serving of light refreshments to add to the pleasures of the occasion.

PRAISES SHERIFF

Editor, Plattsmouth, Nebr., Dear Sir:

I had occasion several days ago, in company with Sheriff Anderson of Atchison county, Kansas, to ask the co-operation of Mr. Sylvester, the sheriff of Cass county, Nebraska, in the recovery of some rye stolen in Atchison county, and sold at Weeping Water, Nebraska. Inasmuch as this happened on the Sabbath and Mr. Sylvester driving from Plattsmouth to Weeping Water in the rain, and assisting us in every way possible, I think the citizens of Cass county, should be congratulated in their choice of Mr. Sylvester as sheriff. I think it is only fitting that public officials that are willing to co-operate in every way possible, should at least be commended. I hope that you can find space in your newspaper. Yours truly,

Wm. MANSON,
Lancaster, Kas.

Wabash News

The home of H. H. Gerbeling was badly damaged when the windows were broken by the hail and the interior soaked by the subsequent heavy rain.

The roof of the Wabash store received a pretty hard pelting from the hail storm last week and is in poor condition as a result. Arrangements will be made to have it repaired at once.

Fred Weyers, who makes his home near Wabash, was a passenger on the Missouri Pacific railroad on last Wednesday morning. Fred has his car and truck in the garage having them repaired and so had to patronize the railway.

Jesse Hinds, of Burns, Wyoming, was here to attend the funeral of his father, the late H. P. Hinds, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. L. Copple last week, and whose funeral was held at the home with interment in the Wabash cemetery on Monday, departed for his home in the west on Wednesday morning of last week.

Heavy Property Damage

The hail storm last Tuesday did not miss Wabash, in fact it seemed to give vent to much of its fury in this vicinity, causing heavy property damage. All the windows in the two church and the public school building facing a north and west exposure were demolished by the force of the hail stones as they were driven by the wind. In the church on the east side there were fourteen sash as well as the glass to replace. The replacement of all this glass will entail no small expense on the school district and the churches, and one which the latter will find it hard to meet, as the churches are for the most part struggling along in these years of depression seeking to raise enough revenue to keep their doors open for services and in no position to meet an emergency of any sort.

It is certain, however, that some attempt will have to be made to raise the money needed to put the building in condition again.

Ladies Aid Held Meeting

The Ladies Aid of the Wabash church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marshall in Weeping Water on Wednesday of last week, having a most enjoyable time as well as considering matters for the good of the church. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon meeting.

Freaks of the Storm

Among the freaks of the storm last Tuesday was the washing of a straw stack from the field of Paul Schewe and Herman Kupke down through the fields of Herman Schewe and Gust Wendt and lodging on the fences of Gust Wendt's pasture and piling up on the road running south from Highway number one to Wabash. Also, another freak was the removing of the old tractor which I. C. McCrorey has placed in the ditch and which in the deluge of water during the storm was partially washed into the field where J. E. Golden now farms.

Card of Thanks

We desire to express our deepest appreciation of the many acts of kindness shown us at the time of the sickness and death of our dear father, H. P. Hinds.

We also wish to thank those taking part in the funeral services and for the beautiful flowers.—Mr. and Mrs. Claud Hinds; Mr. Jesse Hinds; Mr. and Mrs. Will Copple; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Norris, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hinds.

Pioneer Resident Called to Rest

H. P. Hinds passed away on Saturday, April 25th, after a short illness of but five days' duration.

The funeral services were held Monday afternoon, April 27, from the Evangelical church in Wabash, conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. Weber.

Interment was in the Wabash cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest besides those of his wife, who preceded him in death a number of years ago.

The male quartet of Wabash sang, "We are Going Down the Valley One by One," "In that Land So Far Away" and "Gathered Home."

Horace P. Hinds, son of Silas and Catherine Hinds, was born at Shabbona Grove, Ill., September 29, 1851, and departed this life April 25, 1936, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Will Copple, of Alvo, Nebraska, aged 84 years, 6 months and 26 days.

On April 18, 1876, he was united in marriage to Susie Phillips at Decatur, Nebraska, she having passed away August 8, 1934.

Their golden wedding was celebrated ten years ago this April. To them were born six children, as follows: Claud, of Marshfield, Oregon; Jesse of Burns, Wyoming; Mrs. Will Copple, of Alvo; Mrs. Ray Norris, of Weeping Water and Guy of Wabash, together with a daughter who died in infancy. There are twelve grandchildren and ten great grandchildren. One brother, Byron, of Santa Ana, California, also survives him.

Mr. Hinds came west to Nebraska as a young man in 1875, first making his home at Decatur, Nebr., where he engaged in farming.

In 1888 he and his young wife sold their Burt county farm and with their two little boys moved to Banner county and took a homestead. There they endured the hardships of real pioneers in a new country, living twenty-five miles from a town (Kimball) in the days of horse drawn vehicles.

Their home became the stopping place for the old stage coach between Gering and Kimball. Settlers were few, and friends far apart, with friends very dear. Wild range cattle then roamed the plains with buffalo often with these herds.

Mr. Hinds helped to draw up the plans for the village of Harrisburg which became their post office and later the county seat.

He served two terms as county judge of Banner county and taught in the public schools for twelve years.

In 1902, he sold the western Nebraska ranch, and with his family moved to Schuyler, Nebraska. In 1904 they moved to Wabash, where he continued to live until the death of his companion.

Since that time, he has made his home with his children, in whose homes he will be greatly missed.

In early life he joined the Methodist church and served for many years as Sunday school superintendent.

He was a kind and loving father and friend and a real pioneer has gone to rest. Relatives attending the funeral from a distance were: Jesse Hinds, Burns, Wyoming; Mr. and Mrs. Burt Cornelius, of Tekamah, Nebraska; Mrs. Roscoe Baker, of Tekamah, and Roscoe Raver of Craig, Nebr.

Novel Fabrics Mark New Summer Styles

Designers Turn Fashion World Topsy Turvy by Decreeing Velvet for Swim Suits and Wool for Gowns

Linen beach suit

White sport suit

Chiffon dinner dress

By JANE SMYTHE,
International Illustrated News
Feature Writer

New York, April 29—Velvet will go to the beaches this summer and wool to the ballroom.

For designers, turning the world of styles topsy turvy for resort fashions, have decreed bathing suits in the new and practical wash velvet and evening gowns of a sheer wool which is as pliable as chiffon.

The velvet swim suits are highlights of the trend toward glamorous beach wear. Others are the harem beach dress, voluminous skirts of fishnet, hair wreaths of flowers to replace the time-honored bandana and sun hats and bags in a new pliable patent leather.

Golden wedding is forecast as the season's most important high-style color, others in the order of their importance being strawberry, plum-berry, raspberry, a deep shade of turquoise, and a bright scarlet, which has been named "hibiscus."

Swim Suits Even Briefer

While brevity remains the soul of chic for swim suits, the separate brassiere and trunk outfit has been replaced by the suit that is "all of a piece." In the realm of knit suits, the careful moulding of the brassiere top to conform to the natural lines of the figure is fashion news, as is the latest band around the top, which permits the shoulder straps to be dropped by sun-tan seekers. The redingote beach coat, usually developed in linen, gives glittering lines to the figure as do slim suits of silk and jersey.

Second only in importance to wool for evening wear, is the harem skirted dinner dress, which promises to go to the smartest parties at resorts during the coming months. These dresses are usually in heavy silk crepe, with a classically tailored blouse atop the harem skirt. Another type of evening gown that suggests the romance of a summer night and the fragrance of jasmine blooming beneath the stars, is the "souffle" chiffon frock, composed of layers of this material in graduated tones of a single color. The tailored influence is also evident in the dinner gown with a shirtwaist blouse of pleated chiffon and a slim crepe skirt which suggests trousers.

New Fabrics are Amusing

Sports wear is featured by amusing fabrics, prints ranging from Monte Carlo designs with everything from a roulette wheel to a royal flush, to complete alphabets. Even the daily press has yielded its quota of inspiration in the "front page" print, and for the girl who would read her future in the stars there is the astrological print, with the signs of the zodiac sprawled in vivid hues across white backgrounds.

Chapeaux have gone democratic and cast off their crowns this season. Christened by designers as the "open air" style, the crownless hat gives piquant glimpses of its wearer's hair between crossed bands of ribbon, which hold the brim in place. Many of the smarter sports hats are of patent leather, with stitched shantung also widely in use.

Among accessories expected to catch the sartorial spotlight for resort wear are sports gauntlets with detachable patent leather cuffs, and matching bags and shoes in bright colored patent leather.
