WINS AN ACQUITTAL

From Tuesday's Daily: This morning Charles Lamphere was arraigned on a long standing charge of assault and battery on Claude Landis, who it was claimed had been beaten up by Lamphere last April near the O. K. garage on Washington avenue.

The plea of not guilty was made by the defendant and the court ordered the testimony to be given by the state and the defendant.

Mr. Landis, the complaining witness, stated that the defendant had struck him in the face and caused the blackening of his eyes, that the defendant had at the time been accompanied by Bert Lamphere.

The defendant denied that he had struck Landis and the only part that he had in the fight was in pulling his brother, Henry, off of Landis and that the blows had been struck by Henry. He also stated that Bert Lamphere was not along at the time and that Landis had called him Bert several times by mistake.

The testimony of Lamphere was sustained in the evidence of a passer-by who testified that he had seen Charles Lamphere attempting to get his brother off of Landis, that Charles had not struck a blow that he had seen.

There being no sustaining evidence that Charles had struck any blows in the affair he was released by the court from further custody on the charge as preferred.

National Farm Loan Association Announces Rate

Interest Rate on Loans to Continue to Be 3½ Per Cent During the Coming Year.

Farmers holding Federal Land bank loans through the Alvo National Farm Loan association of Alvo, Nebraska will continue to pay 3½ per cent interest during the coming year, according to Carl D. Ganz, secretary-treasurer of the farm mortgage association.

Mr. Ganz has just been notified that congress has amended the farm credit laws to extend the low rate to July 1, 1937. Under the previous law the 3½ rate would have expired June 30 this year. The amendment was approved June 25.

Extension of the 3½ rate means a material saving to the 293 farmers belonging to the Alvo association, the secretary-treasurer said. He estimated the saving to borrowers at $9,000.00, as compared to what they would pay at the regular contract rates of their loans. The association's books show $1,801,100.00 outstanding in Federal Land bank loans.

The 3½ rate applies only to Federal Land bank loans. There is no change in the 5 per cent on land bank "commissioner" loans, as fixed in the original farm credit act of 1933.

In notifying Mr. Ganz of the continued low rate, Charles McCumsey, president of the Omaha land bank, said that under the new law borrowers on July 1, 1937, will resume paying interest at the rates at which their loans were originally written.

The temporary interest reduction provided by congress does not change the contract rate of any land bank loans. It was pointed out. Farmers who obtain new loans at the present contract rate of 4 per cent will get the benefit of the 3½ per cent interest during the year ending July 1, 1937. After that date, new borrowers, like all other borrowers, will pay the rate at which their loans were written.

SIDEWALKS OF PLATTSMOUTH

The next few days will see the final completion of the sidewalk on Sixth street from Vine to Pearl and which covers all but a half a block in the new paving district. The walks are a nice piece of work and will give that part of the city a fine modern sidewalk that has been well made and will last for many years. The walks were made possible by the WPA that has supplied the workmen for the job while the property owners have bought the material that has been used in the walks and which cut down materially the cost of putting in the walks. The men that have been working on the job proved good mechanics in the concrete laying and finishing and have a fine job to their credit.

While the paving and sidewalks have taken considerable time in constructing the work has proven the means of employment to a considerable force of men and brought a neat sum into the community in wages.
