Little Girl Dies Sunday. Little Colleen Meyers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wolford Meyers, making their home a little over a mile north of Avoca passed away Sunday. The little girl has been affected for some time with partial blindness and affected her general health, which finally resulted in her death. The funeral was held from the Holy Trinity Catholic church some five miles southeast of Avoca and the interment made at the church yard there. Mr. and Mrs. Meyers have the sympathy of their host of friends here in this their great grief.

A Good Wheat Crop. Claude Hollenberg has been assisting at the elevator for the past two weeks, since the rush of grain incident to the harvest and threshing season. The season has been very busy and has brought much money into this vicinity, estimated at over fifty thousand dollars and still coming. The wheat crop seemingly has taken up part of the loss which seems certain to come to the corn crop.

Surprised Last Sunday. The family and friends of Uncle Louis Carsten sr., made a merry day for him last Sunday on his 73rd birthday anniversary when they came in force with well filled baskets of good things to eat and surprised him and made a most merry time with an excellent dinner in their remembrance of the passing of the natal day. hands did scamper to get the estates from the porch where the meal was to be had, into the house and the doors closed before the deluge of dust came. However they had a fine time and ate inside, notwithstanding it might have been a little warmer.

Installing New Track Scales. Weeping Water has almost tied Plattsmouth in her paving of Sixth street there, in the installation of some track scales for the Missouri Pacific, but there are plenty of people wanting to work. With the blasting and digging the work is extending into weeks before its completion. But we know it will be a good job when it is completed, like the paving at our sister city, Plattsmouth.

Solve Water Problem. With failure of the crystal lake which Weeping Water depended on for water, the well which was dug two years ago, has been supplying water for the city. The pumps are kept going all the time with the exception of stopping for oiling and packing and seemingly the water is inexhaustible, for it keeps supplying the water needed. However a new pump has been ordered and which is to be installed in the old railroad well and with both well it is expected the problem will be solved, for the present at least.

Eagle M. E. Church Notes. Sunday, July 26. D. J. Schuylerman, pastor. Golden Text: "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee the crown of life."—Revelation 2:10. 10:00 a. m. Sunday school hour.

"The execution of Stephen was the first Christian martyrdom," but we have "Modern Forms of Persecution" today—and such is the title of today's lesson.

11:00 Morning worship hour. No, there is no mistake in the time set here. Although many preferred the reversed order of service, it worked a hardship on some of our country friends. Therefore, beginning with today we shall go back to our old order of service. Our thoughts for this hour will be directed to the question of "How God Directs Them Who Love and Obey Him."

5:30 The young people will meet to go to Lincoln and find fellowship and new inspiration at the Assembly Epworth League Service which is in charge of the district cabinet. We must be here on time so that we will not be late in arriving at Epworth Lake Park.

Epworth Assembly begins Saturday evening, July 25th. Assembly singing begins at 7:30 under the direction of Rev. R. E. Carlyon. At 8:00 the Cosmopolitan class of the First Methodist church, Lincoln, will present the religious drama in two scenes—"The Silver Trumpet."

Fourth Quarterly Conference—A congenial group of the members of the Quarterly Conference met in the church basement for a covered dish luncheon. In the afternoon we had an enjoyable and inspirational message, "A Glimpse of General Conference," brought to us by Dr. R. N. Spooner. The message was followed by the usual business meeting. Reports from the different departments of the church were heard, and the committees and leaders for next year elected. We wish more could have been present.

Financial Clean Up: We shall begin to close the financial business of the year on July 27th. We must average about $6.50 per family or possibly a little more to clear our books and start the new year with a clean slate. With the spirit of sacrificial service, so characteristic of the true followers of our Master, all things are possible!

Adee Farewell: July 29th at 8:00 p. m. in the church. Everybody come and enjoy themselves. Bring a cake and the conviction that you will have a good time, for you will be correct.

W. C. T. U. Entertained. The W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Sarah Keil on the afternoon of July 17th, with Mrs. Palmer as
