

DELINQUENT TAXES IN CASS COUNTY, NEBR.

Table listing delinquent taxes in Cass County, Nebraska, with columns for lot numbers, descriptions, and amounts.

Table listing property lots and their descriptions, organized by village (e.g., Avoca Village, Union Village, Murdock Village).

Best Indoor Flowers Grown in Rich Soil

Also Largest Selection, Including Early Tulips, Trumpet Daffodils, Calla Lilies.

Bulbs are not as easily forced into bloom in soil as they are in fiber or pebbles and water, but the best blooms are grown this way, and there are more subjects to choose from.

Three to five months is needed for forcing your bulbs in soil, depending upon the type and variety. The first step in planting is to pot them.

When the roots have grown enough so that they may be brought out into the light, they should be kept at a temperature of about 60 degrees.

Weeping Water

The Maytag shop delivered a new Maytag washer to Raymond Hathaway of Union Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Sitzman were visiting and looking after some business matters in Plattsmouth last Tuesday.

A. R. Dowler, auto salesman, was in Union Tuesday morning where he went to deliver a V-8 two door 1936 model to T. R. Bremner.

Charles E. Martin, candidate for county judge, was a visitor in Weeping Water Tuesday meeting the voters.

Edward Freeman and wife and M. M. Pillsbury were in Plattsmouth Monday of this week, called to look after some business matters and visit with friends.

Mrs. W. L. Hobson who had to have one of his feet amputated is getting along nicely at this time and it is hoped she will soon be able to be about again.

While the stenographer and clerk in the office of Clyde Fitzpatrick is on her vacation in the east, Mrs. Fitzpatrick is doing the work in the office, thus assisting Clyde in keeping up the work.

Miss Reva Stock, clerk and bookkeeper in the Maytag shop in Weeping Water, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Mabel Stock were in Lincoln Tuesday shopping and visiting with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Browne of Leshara, parents of Mrs. Eugene Ludwig were visiting at the home of their daughter and were accompanied by a son, Henry Browne, where all enjoyed a very pleasant visit.

County Attorney W. G. Kleck and County Judge A. H. Duxbury were looking after some business matters in Weeping Water Tuesday morning of this week and were also visiting other portions of the county near here.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Sudduth of near Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Duchanan and children of near Nehawka were guests for the day last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Askew where they enjoyed a very pleasant visit.

Dennis Oldham was in Omaha last Tuesday with a load of stock for some farmers near Weeping Water and was accompanied by his father, Earl Oldham who had a truck load of chickens to deliver to the wholesale houses in Omaha. They both brought back feeds.

Carl Richard of near Murdock where he is farming, was in Weeping Water last Tuesday and was telling of his two sons, Oris and Wm. and two sons of Carl Schlafhoff, John and Elmer who departed some time since for California and with the intention of later going to Oregon for the winter wrote from Wyoming where they secured work and where they are all staying a long as the work lasts, then

FARM INCOME IS GAINING

Washington.—Larger cash income from the sale of principal farm products in August, as compared with the same month last year, was reported for four of the six regions of the country by the department of agriculture.

It said cash received by farmers for their product in August this year had increased 30 percent in west central states, 26 percent in north Atlantic states and 17 percent in western states.

The decreases were 7 percent in south Atlantic states and 5 percent in south central states. Smaller marketing of cotton and tobacco caused the declines, the department said.

Fall & Winter FIRES

There is more danger of fire in your home or place of business during the fall and winter months ahead.

Insure for Safety

A few dollars spent for GOOD Insurance may SAVE you a heavy loss before spring. We will be glad to give you rates and information free of charge.

Advertisement for Duxbury & Davis Insurance and Bonds, Plattsmouth, featuring a logo and contact information.

expecting to continue on to California and Oregon where they are thinking of remaining for the winter.

Visited at St. Joseph. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Freeman were over to St. Joseph the middle of this week where they were visiting at the home of a brother of Mr. Freeman, Charles Freeman and family.

Opens Store in Louisville. Elmer Michelsen of the Weeping Water variety store has opened a new branch at Louisville where he has a suitable man in charge.

Building a New Barn. Out of materials furnished by the Binger Lumber company Troy Davis is having a barn constructed on the farm where Harold Spangler resides, which is 26 by 26 with sixteen feet plate which will comfortably care for the stock and grain of Mr. Spangler. Harold is living on what is known as the Spangler estate farm and is owned by Mr. Davis.

Bible School Convention Monday. The Cass County Bible school convention is to be held at the Alvo Methodist church beginning at 9 o'clock Monday morning, October 26.

The session will reconvene at 1:30 and continue during the afternoon. A recess will be taken and a short evening session begins at 7 o'clock.

Phone news items to No. 6.

Advertisement for Searl S. Davis, Insurance Agent, with text: 'The headlines of any newspaper should convince every car owner of the necessity for complete "automobile" insurance protection.'

ZEPHYR THROUGH HERE FRIDAY. At 12:30 Friday the new Denver Zephyr will pass through Plattsmouth in its non-stop trip from Chicago to Denver.

Napoleon at St. Helena Again

Scene from play, Evans as Napoleon, and Longwood.

NEW YORK.—A hundred thousand books have been published on Napoleon Bonaparte, more than have been devoted to any other subject since Jesus. Few plays are among them, and none that are enduring—except, perhaps, "L'Aiglon", and that, of course, is really about his son.

The latest effort, "St. Helena", by R. C. Sherriff, who wrote "Journey's End", and Jeanne de Casalis succeeds no better than other dramatizations in making the Hitler-Mussolini of the nineteenth century human, though it does turn a revealing spotlight upon a phase of the Corsican adventurer's career passed over by most cherishers of the Napoleonic legend.

Surprisingly, it throws an aura of glamor upon what was actually the least glamorous part of Napoleon's career. It is hard to reconcile the elegant settings and brilliant costumes of Jo Mielziner with the description of the cancer-eaten Napoleon's life in his two residences on St. Helena given by Las Cases, that dutiful Boswell whom these playwrights make something of a buffoon.

Napoleon Portrait Mediocre. "The Emperor Napoleon, who was once so powerful, and master of so many crowns, found himself reduced to a little hovel a few square feet in dimensions, with neither curtains, shutters nor furniture. He had to sleep dress, eat, work, live there, and if there was cleaning to be done he had to go out of doors."

Geilgud's Hamlet Fine

Whatever the merits of Mr. Evans' performances as Napoleon, premier acting honors in the newest offerings on Broadway go to John Geilgud, the first of the seasons two "Hamlets". Those who never suspected this play to be possessed of humor are in for a pleasant surprise, for Geilgud makes it as light and witty in some moments as he does tragic in others. It would be an affection for this reporter to compare the Geilgud "Hamlet" with others, for the only other "Hamlets" he ever saw were repertoire offerings of Fritz Lieber and Robert Mantell, and a modern dress version by Gasil Sidney. He has never believed that critics could really remember the fine points of a characterization of Salvini sufficiently years afterward to be able to speak with authority in proclaiming this or that actor the greatest "Hamlet" or Richard III.

The excellence of Guthrie McClinton's production and cast naturally creates exciting speculation concerning the forthcoming production of Leslie Howard, which promises to give New York a duel of "Hamlets" unparalleled since Macready and Forrest caused riots. Lillian Gish is Ophelia, Judith Anderson the queen, Arthur Byron, a brilliant Polonius. John Emery as Laertes, rises above even his vivid Willie James in last season's "Par-nell".

After this "Hamlet" Mr. McClinton certainly should stand no longer in the shadow of his wife, Katharine Cornell, even though she is the No. 1 actress of the American theater.