Project Method Used Extensively in Local Schools

Fire Prevention, Map Studies, Homes and Transportation Among Topics Treated.

Project lessons are being recognized by leading educators as one of the most effective methods of teaching in the modern school. Interest is stimulated as the child works out, with his own hands, his interpretation of an idea. Project studies correlate art, reading, language, mathematics, geography, and stimulate creative thinking.

Pupil interest is the core of curriculum. Teachers in the Plattsburgh schools are attempting to devise a curriculum that will function in the life and home of the child.

A study of homes of the different periods of civilization is being made in the fourth grade at the Central building under the direction of Miss Evelyn Lee. Small homes have been built by the children. They represent those of the cave man, the lake house, home on poles, tree home, thatched roof home, American pioneer cabin, igloo, and finally the modern apartment house. As each home was built, the children studied the characteristics of the people and the reason for building a home of this type.

One of the cleverest projects under way in the Central building is the one on safety in the second grade. Miss Helen Farley is teacher. Fire prevention is the phase of work that is being studied. The children have built a model fire house, and a truck with full equipment of ladders, hose, etc. to place within the house. During the art class each child has completed a fireman's cap. Moving pictures of brown wrapping paper tell the story of fire prevention. The reading is studied by the pupils. On the wall is a frieze showing a street in a city with one house burning and firemen attempting to put out the blaze.

Miss Dorothy Glock, in the sixth grade, is preparing a unit on Mexico. Flower and salt mixture have fashioned a house such as Cortez found in Mexico in 1519. A study has been made of the discovery of Mexico and of the Aztec Indians in carrying out the project. Creative work in art is being stimulated in the Mexican scenes done in colored chalk.

Miss Marie Nolting and Agnes Muenster are also carrying out geography projects. Miss Nolting, in the sixth grade, has directed the drawing of a complete map of the city of Plattsburgh. The location of the home of each child is marked with a thumb-tack. A scrap book of pictures and clippings concerning the city is being kept. The next phase of the study is the county and the state. Maps and a wall hanging are under construction. Pupils of Miss Muenster's room have made a large map of the United States. Children are writing the names of persons whom they have visited in the states outside Nebraska on the state in which they have traveled.

Miss Margaret Iverson in Columbian has directed the building of a cave home in one corner of her room. A large branch of a tree shades the home and leaves give it an outdoor atmosphere. Even a doll is dressed in the cave man mode to stand guard at the entrance. Art, reading geography, history, and language have been correlated into the work. Grade four is doing the work.

Grades two and three in Columbian, taught by Miss Birdie Mae Johnson are studying transportation. All the forms have been studied and pictures representing them are being drawn upon a brown paper frieze.

Miss Berniece Welland is working out the dramatization of stories read in the first and second grades in the children's puppet theatre. A library project is also a part of the work done in the room. Each child has his own library shelf made from soap boxes. As he reads a book he is allowed to put a colored paper book on his shelf. Miss Rose Prohaska is sponsoring a Marco Polo and Columbus project in the fifth grade.

Project work extends into the high school also. Students of the art class are redecorating the stage background from the old Parmelee theatre. It is to be used on the high school stage.

Other fine work is under way in the school. From time to time the Journal will run stories on the outstanding projects that are being carried out.

Pittsburgh Smothers Irish 26 to 0

Fitt turned on the power Saturday at the Pitt stadium in Pittsburgh to administer to Notre Dame the most decisive defeat the Irish have encountered in many years. The final score was 26 to 0. O'Neill, of Notre Dame, is shown as he gets off his punt to La Rue despite surging charge of the Panther line in the first quarter. Pittsburgh plays in Lincoln Saturday, November 14th.

Monopoly Hit in Roosevelt Business Talk

Asserts New Deal Has Broken Its Grip on Trade, Politics—3 Other Speakers.

Washington, Oct. 23.—Arguing that the administration had "loosened the grip of monopoly" and "dragged private enterprise back out of the pit into which it had fallen in 1933," President Roosevelt asserted tonight that the new deal was resolved to "keep politics out of business."

At the same time, he said in a campaign address, "we ask that business refrain from coercion in politics."

No administration in history, the president contended, has done more for the system of private business, property and profit.

He asserted that as profits return and the values of securities and investments come back, "we must hold constantly to the resolve never again to become committed to the philosophy of the boom era, to individualism run wild."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke by radio from his White house study to banquets of business men in cities throughout the nation sponsored by the Good Neighbor League, a pro-Roosevelt organization. Other speakers on the programs included Secretary Morgenthau, Secretary Roper and Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman.

Morgenthau, speaking at a New York gathering, said that "we have so improved and strengthened the federal tax structure that it is providing additional revenues easily sufficient to insure an early balancing of the budget and thereafter a rapid reduction of the public debt."

The treasury secretary contended that business was displaying its confidence in the future by "laying down money on the barrel head."

"Some are broadcasting America short, no one is fool enough to sell America short," he said.
