NO CHANGE IN MAIL VOTE

C. L. Stone, Humphrey attorney, became a new director of the Loup River Public Power district when he added 22 votes to his total of 59 lead over Dr. E. E. Koebe, Columbus, who sought re-election for the six year term. There were 244 mail votes.

In the county supervisor's race John Brandl, a farmer and a republican defeated the incumbent democratic supervisor, Frank Ternus, by 11 votes in the Humphrey district. The mail vote loped off five votes from Brandl's lead of 16. Brandl won despite the enormous democratic vote Platte county polled in the Tuesday election. Ternus has been a supervisor since 1928.

Armistice Day Very Quiet in Plattsmouth

No Community Observance of Event Save in Programs Held in the City Schools.

The passing of Armistice day in this city was not observed by any community demonstrations aside from the recognition of the day given in the city schools.

The American Legion has speakers at the schools, Judge A. H. Duxbury, Attorney J. A. Capwell and William G. Kleck, district judge-elect being the speakers at the high school and in the grade schools of the city.

The day being a legal holiday, the bank as well as offices in the court house were closed for the day.

The passing of the day is one that recalls to many of the residents of the city, the original Armistice day as they were in France and participating in the great war that had taken toll of so many lives and bankrupted a world. Large numbers of Plattsmouth and Cass county men were in the front and throughout France when the signing of the armistice brought to the close the hostilities that for four years had deluged Europe in blood and drew almost every nation of the world into the conflict.

The largest group of Cass county groups at the front were those in the 89th division who were within sight of the historic city of Sedan, where in 1870 the French had been crushed and where in the last war, the final blow was struck that forced the close of the war and the collapse of the German empire as it existed. Other men from this locality were scattered in various outfits of the American army that covered a large sector of the Argonne front, or in the various camps that covered all sections of France.

With Armistice day at hand, the present condition of European nations presents a more discouraging picture than even in 1914 before the declaration of war by Austria on Serbia. All nations are arming and apparently preparing for the outbreaking of a great conflict, while Spain is in the midst of a great civil war that is destroying great cities and many lives.

Experienced in the past war it is refreshing that the American people stand definitely against again being involved in a foreign war that cost so many lives and financial burdens to the nation. We should have adequate preparedness, however, that would protect our own land from the greed of other nations of the world.

FROM THE PULPIT

"And they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning hooks: nation shall lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Isaiah 2:4.

"If it would be possible to characterize American life," said Rev. G. A. Pahl, Jr., in his sermon yesterday morning, "I would say it is long on holding on to traditions and short upon rationalizing them."

He gave as an example, Armistice Day observance. He said the use of parades, marching men in attractive uniforms, and martial displays, give a false impression—especially to youth.

"To me it is not a time for demonstration, nor a time to laud and sing praises for those who served in wars, however noble their sacrifices were—but it should be observed in the quiet of the homes—in small groups. The only way to observe Armistice day is with the thought 'that they might not have died in vain.'"

The minister told that Isaiah had the idea of world peace 2700 years ago, 750 years before the birth of Christ. He could not have received inspiration for the thought from the kings of the time who gloried in pomp and military prowess and in cleverness in strategy. Isaiah received the idea from God—the inspirer of noble ideas. "Only a small fraction of the ideas of man live through more than one generation," he stated "God's ideas are eternal."

He believes it is impossible for science to bring about a warless world through destructive methods; nor will "isuis" accomplish world peace; nor will world peace be brought about at any certain time.

He illustrated the source of world peace by the story of a British manufacturer of jigsaw puzzles. This man decided to make a most difficult jigsaw so selected a map of the world. He took the puzzle to his son, took it apart and said, "If you solve this puzzle in two hours I will give you two pounds. If you finish it by tomorrow, you will receive one pound."

Within a short time the son came into his father's study and said "Father, come see, I have it finished."

The father, astonished, asked "How did you do it so quickly son?" The answer was "You weren't so careful father, when you made that puzzle. I noticed that on the back was a picture of a man, so I put that together, knowing that if I got the man straight I would have the world straight."

"The world represents a jigsaw puzzle," said Rev. Pahl "and has always been a jigsaw puzzle since the first group of people formed themselves into tribes. The one deciding factor is the individual man."

"Too often we say 'Yes, I believe in world harmony, but until it is accomplished, I'm going to use the tactics other men use.' That's starting at the wrong end," he stated.

"Religion has power only when men have the intestinal fortitude to be Christians every day of the year. "In this physical universe there are two laws. The law of gravitation which draws things downward and the law of attraction which draws the spirit of men up to God."

"Jesus said, 'And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me.' If a nation be lifted up," the speaker said "it will draw others. Someday nations will say 'come let us go up unto the mount of the Lord . . . and he will teach us' and they will be lifted up."
