

MEXICO BUDGET HIGHER
 Mexico City.—President Lazaro Cardenas submitted to both houses of congress the 1937 budget totalling 27,480,000 pesos ($82,550,700). The total represented an increase of 15 percent over the 1936 budget.

FAVORS FEW NEW LAWS
 Hugh B. Ashmore, new member of the legislature, living in Hayes county, getting his mail at Palisade in an adjoining county, farmer and heretofore voting the republican ticket, was hailed with acclaim by many in the capitol Wednesday when he said:
 "I am a new member, ready to learn, but it is my opinion that the legislature should pass as few bills as possible, but of course including necessary measures and appropriations, and quit and go home and leave the people alone."

 Ashmore said he had raised some corn, between 8 and 12 bushels to the acre and that every farm in that part of the state has a small pile of corn produced in spite of the general drought. He will remain in Lincoln from now on for the duration of the legislative session, providing it does not last too long.

Sees Good Year for Cattle Men of State
 Tremendous Uncertainties of 1936 May be Resolved, Says Prof. H. J. Gramlich.
 "Nineteen thirty-six is fast passing into the Great Beyond," says Prof. H. J. Gramlich of the agricultural college. "To many it has been a year of tremendous uncertainties. To the livestock farmer in the corn belt it has been exceedingly capricious. Today this man is willing to forget that which has been and is asking what the future holds in store and what may develop in 1937 of special interest to the livestock men."
 "Agriculture in a sense may be likened to a row of ten pins. Upset one of the pins and the whole row gets out of gear. Let nature rob us of a crop, and the maladjustment produces certain problems which are difficult to surmount. Today the western part of the corn belt stands with a shortage of feed grains, due to an exceedingly dry season in 1936 which was preceded by several years but little better.
 "Such factors have affected hog production. Nebraska used to produce about six million hogs per year. About five million of this number were fattened in the spring. This number has been decreased. The average weight of hogs on the market has decreased. The corn-hog ratio during the breeding season has been relatively unfavorable. Somewhat the same situation however existed following the 1934 drought.
 Corn Crop Very Short.
 "To fully comprehend what is wrong with the hog business in Nebraska, it is only necessary to remember that while this state normally produces a crop of 230 million bushels of corn per year, it has produced this year around 20 million, a year ago 100 million and two years ago 20 million. A history of the climate of the state, tho, convinces me that we will get more favorable weather in the near future, and we know that with one or two bumper crops, we could quickly be long on corn and short on hogs.
 "What is the outcome for the cattle men? In the main, indications point to a rather optimistic future. There undoubtedly will be a shortage of long fed cattle. Prices of these will remain relatively high. I doubt, tho, if they get to the record high which was attained in the spring of 1935. It would probably be better for cattle feeders, cattle raisers, packers and consumers if the price of prime cattle does not get above $14 during the forthcoming year. This would be $2.25 under the price for such cattle in May, 1935.
 "During the fall of 1935 the fat cattle market was on the boom. Between the first of October and the first of December an advance of approximately $3 per hundred took place. Perhaps this stimulated putting cattle on feed. Those with but limited corn supplies resorted to the maximum use of substitutes. Many with silage have been feeding that liberally, supplemented with a high protein supplement and a rather liberal coating of molasses which is available in large quantities and at relatively low prices. I believe there have been enough cattle put on feed to prevent the tremendous gap which occurred in the late winter and early spring of 1935. If such is the case, prices probably will be stabilized around present levels rather than go to new and dizzy heights.
 "The sheep situation offers some interesting aspects. The price of fat lambs during the latter part of 1936 has remained relatively low and from the feeder's standpoint disappointing. The average price in November was about $2 under that of November, 1935. Numbers of sheep seem sufficient but their location presents another angle. The numbers are located east of the Mississippi river and will be a determining factor in the market. If these are rushed to market early in the season, lambs

New Bellevue School Ready in Short Time
 To Occupy New $75,000 Building When Second Semester Opens on January 15th.
 Bellevue, Neb., Dec. 28.—Bellevue's new 75 thousand-dollar public school building will be ready for occupancy when the second semester opens January 15, according to Superintendent of Schools Orrin A. Bell. Both grades and high school will move into the structure on that date, under present plans.
 One wing of the old building adjoining the edifice will be retained. There will be 18 classrooms, shops, a homemaking department, a gymnasium-auditorium 45 by 70 feet and a stage 32 by 20 feet.
 The school system also is being reorganized under the "6-6" plan covering the 12 years of grade and high school attendance. The seventh and eighth grades will follow the regular high school system of class schedules. Two classes in homemaking will be taught by Mrs. Ruth Greene, and two classes of general shop work by Mr. Bell. Both courses are registered as required for freshmen and sophomores.
 The homemaking department is being equipped on the "home style" basis instead of being equipped with the latest in modern equipment, the board of education deciding it best to fit it out with such equipment as is found in the average home. The same practical principles will be applied to the courses, and the preparation of economical dishes for the average and low-income homes will be given precedence.
 Miss Bernice Weible, who has served as grade school principal for the past eight years, has been named acting high school principal.
 may work to a relatively high level by the time the western Nebraska feed lots are ready to disgorge.
 "With 1936 about gone, it seems safe to say Nebraska will continue to be a major livestock state. It will be necessary, for man is an omnivorous animal. He is much more interested in beef, pork and mutton than he is in spinach and cauliflower.

PER CAPITA DEBT IS $314
 Chicago.—The total per capita public debt in the United States reached $314 at the end of June, 1936, Mabel Newcomer, Vassar college economist, told the American Economic association. Miss Newcomer, in a paper prepared for reading at the afternoon session of the association, said $200 of the debt was owed the federal government, $100 to local municipalities and $14 to the state. The figures were net.
 From the best available data, which she said was inadequate as to state and local debt, Miss Newcomer fixed the net public debt in the United States in 1936 at $40,344,000,000, divided as follows: Federal, $25,729,000,000; local, $12,792,000,000; state, $1,823,000,000. At the end of 1929, she said, the total net debt was $28,154,000,000. Miss Newcomer pointed out that if the debts of foreign governments to the United States were included in recoverable assets there would exceed 20 billions for computation of the net debt.
