Bible School Lesson Study!

Sunday, February 14th By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"Jesus, the Good Shepherd"

John 10:1-16.
One of the most beautiful characteristics of Jesus is here given. His tender, loving sympathy is portrayed by John as the "good shepherd." This brings up memories of the long ago past.

The scene pictured in this lesson was very familiar to Jesus' audience; they had the picture before them; these Judean hills had been the pastures of flocks for centuries.

This allegory should have been easy to understand; but prejudice and sin had darkened their mind to such a degree that Jesus told them that they were "blind and their sin remained." (John 9:41). This allegory represents Christ as the head of his church and the sheep those that have accepted his leadership.

Laughing Around the World

With IRVIN S. COBB

Time Was No Object

By IRVIN S. COBB

A COLORED man was idling along the sidewalk on the opposite side of the street from where the county jail stood. From a barred window high up in the structure across the way came the voice of a member of his own race:

"Say, nigger," called the unseen speaker. The pedestrian halted and faced about. "What you want?" he demanded. "Well, ax it. It's listennin'." "Is you got a watch on you?" "Suttinly I's got a watch on me."

"What is time to you?" answered the man in the street, without making any move to fetch forth his watch. "You ain't fixin' to go nowheres!"

SAYS TRUCKS JUNK

From Wednesday's Daily—

Editor of Journal:
In reading last night's paper, I think there should be some explanation. In the first place, if the city would put out some half way decent trucks there would not be a high repair bill, the trucks were fitted for the junk pile when I worked on 6th St. last winter.

Every man on WPA is willing and will work on this Wintersteen Hill project. And I also think it was time there was something done on Wintersteen Hill, as I pay out as much as the average. Why should we have to wear rubber boots to go to town on account of the mud and ice?

CLAUDE LAHODA.

John Chappell Receives Letter from Flood Area

Receives Word From Friend of Conditions Prevailing in Ohio River Valley.

John Chappell received a letter this morning from a friend who has suffered from the flood. Simon Bour, who writes, lives 12 miles south of New Albany, Ky., a half mile from the river and on relatively high ground.

"Well, John, the 1937 flood was the worst disaster that ever hit the Western Hemisphere. We had a drought last summer. I raised about enough feed to tide me over but the flood took all by buildings except my house, hen house, and cellar. I got my live stock out but all my hay was in the barn and went down the river with the building.

He speaks of different homes which were carried away. "There are only a few houses left between New Albany and dam 43—a radius of about 28 miles. There is only one house left in Bridgeport, and to be sure it is a wreck.

SHOWING IMPROVEMENT
