Compete for Trip to National 4-H Camp

Cass county has two contestants entering for the honor of representing Nebraska at the National 4-H Club Camp to be held at Washington, D. C. next June. They are Frances Rehmeier of Weeping Water, and Malcolm Pollard of Nehawka. In order to be eligible to compete for this honor, club members must have finished at least three years of club work and one as a local leader. They must have been an active club member in 1936 and be either a club member or leader in 1937.

Frances Rehmeier has been in club work since 1929. In the intervening years she has completed four cookings, six clothing, three girls room, one canning, eight swine club, two poultry, one rope, one health, six dairy and one weed club project. In addition to her activities as a club member, Frances has been leader and assistant leader of both home economics and livestock clubs the past three years. Frances can cook and sew equally as well as she can grow champion livestock and has carried off about as many blue ribbons in home economics work as in the show ring.

Malcolm Pollard first enrolled in 4-H club work in 1927. He has been a consistent club member ever since, having completed nine years in pig club, one in rope club, one in corn club and three years in baby beef clubs. The past two years he has been leader of the Nebraska swine club and the year before that acted as assistant leader to his father, Oren Pollard.

Who will represent Nebraska at the National Club Camp? Two boys and two girls will be selected from the state, for this honor and the answer to the question will be determined by reports turned in to the state 4-H club office on February 15th. We sincerely hope that one or both of Cass county's contestants will merit a trip.

George Washington Fought Erosion

George Washington may not have been the first to practice soil and moisture conservation but he was among the first in America to recognize the devastating effects of erosion and to attempt to maintain his rich farm lands in their fertile state.

Washington's foresight as a scientific farmer is evidenced by letters on display in the Library of Congress. One hundred and thirty-seven years ago—four days before his death—the first president wrote final instructions to his farm overseer, Mr. Anderson. Listing erosion control as a major item in the plan of operations.

Washington had three farms, the "Muddy Hole Farm," the "River Farm," and the "Union Farm," and on each soil losses presented a problem. To Anderson he wrote, concerning his Muddy Hole farm:

"The washed and gullied parts of it ought to be leveled and smoothed, and as far as it can be accomplished covered with litter, straw, weeds, corn stalks or any other vegetable rubbish, to bind together and to prevent the earth from gullyng."

Not only did Washington realize the necessity of keeping a cover of vegetables—he termed it "vegetable rubbish"—on the ground but he practiced crop rotation and other methods of sound land use such as taking eroding land out of cultivation and planting it to trees or grass. The latter practice along with crop rotation is among the methods now being advanced in the statewide soil erosion campaign.

come, richly golden, to adorn the luncheon table. Some of the most familiar combinations in which cheese stars are cheese and macaroni, cheese and rice, and cheese and potatoes.

Endless variations may be achieved—for instance succulent mushrooms added to macaroni, and the whole treated to a dressing of grated American cheese turns a familiar family-dinner into a true party specialty.

Macaroni, flaked fish and cheese are an equally happy trio. The combination of fish and cheese is, of course, a natural, indispensable Lenten staple. Crabmeat and cheese, shrimp and cheese, salmon and cheese—these are a few, all equally delicious, all versatile, suitable for many menu needs.

And if you would be economical, make your own cheese at home. Extension Circular 924, "Cheese Making in the Home," gives directions for making cheddar, cottage and Neufchâtel cheese, and also includes some tempting recipes for the use of cheese. Copies of this circular are available upon request.

Seed Corn List Available

A list of farmers having seed corn for sale in this county is now available at the Farm Bureau office. This list has over two thousand bushels of 1936 corn, both white and yellow, for sale. It also gives the growers' name and the price per bushel. Write or call at the office if you want to buy good home grown seed.

Guard Against Southern Grown Alfalfa

The state agricultural conservation committee has just issued a warning to Nebraska farmers to the effect that they will not receive the $2.50 payment offered on the 1937 conservation program, unless they can prove beyond question of doubt that the seed sown is adapted seed. Southern grown seed may be tempting because of the price but in the long run it will be expensive because it will not stand the winter here. Wherever you buy your seed, save the slip and then there will be no question when the compliance comes.

Getting a Start on Spring Sewing

While it is a little early for outdoor activities, warm days are just around the corner. Before we reach the corner, then, it is a good time to check over our spring and summer wardrobe and see what's going to be needed in the way of repair and replenishment.

The first essentials are a sewing machine in good running order, good sewing equipment and a good place to keep the sewing equipment and partly finished work. Spare hours may then be utilized to get ahead with machine sewing and spare minutes for pick-up work, for most of us have to fit our sewing around and after the routine work of the home.

A separate sewing room is a luxury most women dream of but seldom achieve. However, a good substitute is a sewing corner. One woman used a screen to hide her sewing corner, fitted the reverse side with pockets for patterns and small articles needed for her work, and put a hook on it for hanging up partly finished dresses.

DOCTOR PLEADS GUILTY

Gering, Neb.—Dr. George E. Hart of Lyman pleaded guilty in district court to charges of performing an illegal operation upon a Scottsbluff woman last Feb. 7. Judge Irwin deferred sentence until March 19, and Dr. Hart was released on $1,000 bond. Co. Atty. Rush Clarke, who filed the information, said Dr. Hart performed the operation at Lyman.

Take time now to clean and adjust your sewing machine. It should be cleaned, oiled, the needle supply checked, and the belt made sufficiently tight and the machine tried to see if it is in good running order. Extension Circular 714, "Know Your Sewing Machine," will help you to become better acquainted with all the parts of your sewing machine. It gives directions for cleaning and adjusting, it lists common troubles and ways to correct them, and shows clearly how to adjust the tension, select the proper needle, wind the bobbin, etc. You will find it a very handy reference and a copy is available for you at the Farm Bureau office.

All-Purpose Mash.

After five years of experimentation, poultrymen at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture have discovered a simplified method of poultry feeding which will prove of untold benefit to producers. It involves the use of the same mash for all classes of poultry.

The "all purpose" mash is fed from the feeding of chicks throughout the growing state to maturity and during egg production rather than changing formulas for each of the three periods. Normal growth, health and egg production were in no apparent way disturbed in the first or in succeeding tests of this kind. Observations on this plan of feeding have been made in a statewide flock testing project conducted annually at the North Platte experimental station. It has been so successful there that the sub-station uses the all-purpose mash entirely. This comes after feeding it for five years to about 800 hens, 4000 chicks and 500 turkeys. The practice saves time and storage space and eliminates mistakes that occur in weighing, mixing and feeding different mash mixtures. Cass county farmers interested in the results of this experimentation can get a copy of Extension Circular 1463 at the Farm Bureau office which describes the mash in detail.

Drouth Rate Changes

Reduced drouth rate freight certificates have been changed slightly. W. W. Derrick of the Nebraska college of agriculture advised the agricultural agent this week. The revised certificate is to be issued only for the benefit of a resident of the specified drouth county. The feed shipment carrying the benefits of reduced rates may only be distributed within the specified county and farmers securing benefits of the drouth rates must not sell the feed.

Under the revised certificate it is impossible to sell feed brought in under drouth rates to farmers in adjoining counties that are not included in the area eligible for the benefits of the rates. All but 19 Nebraska counties, however, are now eligible for the rates. Over one hundred permits have been issued by the Cass county agricultural agent authorizing the reduced rates on shipments of cottonseed, corn, oats, barley, hay, etc. The reduction is one third of the regular freight rate and has been a saving of several thousand dollars to farmers in this county alone.

Grants for 1936 Conservation Program Being Signed

The final signing of farmers for their 1936 conservation checks will start this week. Many delays and changes of conditions together with a late start in 1936 have delayed the program considerably but the applications for grants are now ready and sign-up days will be held throughout the county on the following days:

- Thursday, February 12—Greenwood and Tipton precincts at Bennett's hall in Alvo.
- Friday, February 19—Elmwood and Stove Creek precincts at G. A. R. hall in Elmwood.
- Saturday, February 20—Salt Creek and South Bend precincts at Fairland school house.
- Monday, February 22—Eight Mile Grove and Plattsmouth precincts at the Mynard Community Bldg.
- Tuesday, February 23—Avoca and Louisville precincts at the Farm Bureau office.
- Wednesday, February 24—East and West Rock Bluff, Nehawka and Liberty precincts at the Murray Garage.
- Thursday, February 25—Weeping Water precinct, at Farm Bureau office.
- Friday, February 26—Center precinct at the Farm Bureau office.

Those who do not go to the regular signing places for their precincts can sign their applications at the Farm Bureau office, Saturday, February 27th. The county committee urges that every one possible go to the meeting place for his precinct to sign his application. If this is not followed out it will cause a great deal of confusion and delay the sending in of the applications for several days.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tend up the system, thus lessening the discomfort from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three orials of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood; 2.
