

Wabash News

William Van Every, formerly a resident of the vicinity of Wabash, but now manager of an oil company at Weeping Water, was in town one day last week delivering gasoline, and while here lost a spare tire from his truck. Although he looked diligently for it, he was not able to find the tire.

Thomas Casey of Plattsmouth was a visitor in Wabash for a time last Wednesday afternoon, and was calling on his friend, Sherman Hardaway, they having been friends and fellow residents of the town of Fairplay, Mo., in years gone by. Mr. Casey was looking after business matters as well while here.

Oscar C. Zink, living northwest of town, has been sick for some ten days with an attack of influenza and has been kept to his home and his bed a good portion of the time. He is feeling much better at this time, but not so far recovered as yet to resume his work on the farm.

Moves to Wabash

Louis Schmidt, who has been making his home north of Murdock, is moving today to Wabash to reside. Mr. Schmidt is road overseer for Elmwood precinct and finds he can be closer to his work living here than at Murdock, so concluded to make the change when opportunity offered.

Wabash Loses Church Building

Last week the first church building erected in Wabash, built in the year 1886, was sold to Henry Schleuter, who is moving it to his farm north of town. The seats and furniture were removed and have been taken to Columbus, where they will be used in a Baptist church, this being the denomination of the building disposed of.

The price paid for the building was $157.50.

At the time this first church building was erected, Wabash had a population of around 800 people. A few years later, in the early 90's, a second church building was constructed here for the Methodists.

The first pastor to have charge of the church was the Rev. Carey, and the first Methodist minister here was a man named Parker. Mrs. Charlotte Smith was the first Bible school superintendent. Her daughter, Miss Hattie Smith became Mrs. Walter Perry and with him moved to the western part of the state, where they resided for a time and later moved to Los Angeles, where it is claimed they make their home at this time. John Schank and family were also among the early church workers here.

Another church building here that flourished for a time and then passed from the picture was that built by the Free Baptists just across the street diagonally from the Stanley store. This building also built in the early 90's, was later torn down and moved away, being gone for many a year.

Telephone Booth Restored

Responding to the petition of the people of Wabash and vicinity, a telephone booth has been installed in the hotel building in order that people may be able to place out-of-town calls.

Old Elevator Being Moved

The east elevator which was once owned and operated by T. J. Richey, being built many years ago and operated by a number of people at different times until more recent years, when it has not been used, was recently sold by the railroad company and is being moved to the home of Frank Marshall, where it will be used as a barn.

New Law Gives Aid to Debtors on Mortgages

Extension to March 1, 1937 of Provisions of Law to Give Relief to Resident Debt Incumbered.

The Journal has been asked to publish the law recently passed by the legislature as an emergency measure and which extended the emergency moratorium to the debtors who might owe real estate mortgages, real estate taxes that were to be foreclosed and other obligations. The law is as follows:

Section 1. It is hereby declared that the provisions of this Act are made necessary and such necessity is hereby found to exist by emergencies growing out of the present economic crisis, world-wide in its scope, and by the additional facts that the State of Nebraska in the year 1936 experienced an unprecedented drought, and in certain parts of the state suffered from insect pests which resulted in practical total loss to the agricultural interests of the state of the 1936 crop, and thereby threatening a collapse in the value of all real estate in the State of Nebraska, such condition being dangerous to the general welfare and prosperity of the state and its people; and in order to relieve such condition, this Legislature hereby invokes the police power inherent in the State of Nebraska and any and all of its branches of government; and the regulations herein contained being designed to promote the public safety and the public welfare of the state, and to enable its people to meet an emergency which it deems of immediate importance. Therefore:

Sec. 2. That Section 20-21, 159 C. S. Supp., 1933, as amended by Chapter 41 of the Session Laws of Nebraska for the year 1935, be amended to read as follows:
