Nebr. Farmers Face Loss from Swine Disease

these losses would be to have spring pigs vaccinated against cholera about two weeks after weaning, and to maintain proper sanitation on farms," the Foundation's bulletin declares. "Cholera cannot be cured, once it strikes, but it can be prevented by having a veterinarian administer the 'double immunization' treatment with serum and virus.

"There also are vaccines for a number of other diseases, while many ailments of a non-infectious nature can be corrected by proper diet and handling. Delay in diagnosis is also the cause of many heavy losses which could be prevented. If the farmer would call his veterinarian as soon as his hogs showed signs of illness, he would save himself a good many hundreds of dollars worth of pigs over a period of years."

Continued high prices for hogs led authorities today to urge farmers to make a special drive against barnyard diseases this spring, with the claim that losses could be cut in half by the simplest of precautions.

Twenty-seven non-infectious diseases, twenty-six infectious diseases, and 14 forms of parasites were listed as causes of the sixty-million-dollar loss to American swine producers. Greatest toll-taker was hog cholera, with enteritis, swine plague, influenza, pig scours and pneumonia runners-up among the infectious diseases.

"One of the greatest single strides farmers could take in preventing

CHAPTER III

Mary waited patiently in the doctor's reception room for her appointment. Finally her turn came and the trim secretary ushered her into the examination room. Dr. Hayes studied her chart for a minute and proceeded to give her the fourth examination. Blood pressure normal. "Fine," said the doctor. "Weight, hump—Im sorry, Mrs. Reynolds," he said, "that you are not sticking to the diet I gave you more closely."

"But, doctor, I am," replied Mary. "I follow those nutrition charts religiously. John laughs at me sometimes, but I really am faithful. What makes you think I'm not following your directions?"

"Well," said the doctor, "you are gaining a little more weight than I would like to see. Are you sure you are not eating a little extra food? How about your bridge parties, social engagements, bed time snacks and candy?"

"You are right," Mary confessed, "we've had a good deal of company recently and I've eaten several late lunches, and, of course, we always have something to eat at my bridge club. It's awfully hard to resist some of those delicious deserts."

"I know," said the doctor patiently, "how weak we mortals be. You must remember, however, that you have a duty to perform; a duty to someone near and dear to you. If you neglect that duty you will always regret it. The object of the diet which I prescribed for you is to supply your body needs and those of your growing baby."

"Don't allow yourself to get the mistaken idea many mothers have that you must eat an extra amount of food to nourish the baby. The diet I gave you is ample with the possible exception of minerals. Let me see, this is about the fourth month of your pre-natal period. Right at this time the baby's bones and baby teeth are beginning to calcify. Bones and teeth, you know, are made up largely of calcium of lime and phosphorus. Your diet may be rich enough in these minerals, but I don't want to take any chances. I am giving you a prescription containing calcium and phosphorus. Take this as directed for the remainder of your pregnancy. You know the crowns of the baby teeth are all formed before the child is born. Don't take most important for you to build them as strong and healthy as possible so they won't decay after they come into his mouth."

"You must also get into the sunshine every day. Take a sun bath if you possibly can. Expose your skin to the direct rays of the sun. The ultra violet rays of the sun falling on your skin causes vitamin D to be formed in your body."

"Vitamin D is most necessary to your health because it enables your body to make use of the calcium and phosphorus you eat. Don't take a sun bath behind window glass, because window glass will screen out most of the beneficial rays. Have your husband build you a screened in sun bath in the back yard. Later, when the weather becomes unfavorable, it will be necessary for you to obtain your vitamin D from another source, cod liver oil, or one of its preparations."

By the time the doctor had completed his examination his assistant came in from the laboratory to report Mrs. Reynolds' urinalysis as satisfactory. "Fine," said the doctor. "Before you go, Mrs. Reynolds, have you seen Dr. Young?"

"Yes," replied Mary. "I just came from his office. You may remember that I had four small cavities to be filled. Those are all cared for now and I am simply going back once a month to be sure nothing new develops."

"That's fine," said the doctor. "Did your dental operations prove very painful?"

"Not at all," said Mary. "Dr. Young was most considerate. He gave me very short appointments, as he said he did not want to overtax my endurance. One cavity was a little deep so he gave me a local anesthetic before he operated, as he said there was no use subjecting me to any more pain or discomfort than necessary."

"Dr. Young has the right idea," said Dr. Hayes, "short painless dental appointments and the removal of all dental infection during pregnancy is essential to your health."

RECORD IN INCOME TAXES

Omaha.—All records for filing income tax returns in Nebraska are expected to be broken before the final day for filing which is Monday. Collector O'Malley said returns so far this year are 1,200 in excess of 1935. Because of the larger number of filers, O'Malley has shifted every available worker from social security and other divisions to aid in making out the returns. He stressed that any return postmarked before midnight of March 15 would be accepted without penalty.

Small factories will find welcome and the opportunity to expand (through river transportation) in Plattsmouth.

MAY RELEASE RA FUNDS

Washington.—Midwestern congressmen looked forward to a release of resettlement administration funds for drought stricken farmers in need of seed and feed loans. Representative Coffee, chairman of a farm bloc sub-committee said arrangements made contemplate the immediate allocation to RA of funds which had been earmarked for expenditure in May and June.

The resettlement administration then, he said, would be able to relax its existing regulations so as to provide $200 or $300 feed and seed loans to farmers now unable to qualify for farm credit on RA advances. The arrangements were made after the drought committee carried its plea to President Roosevelt. Members said the president told them he believed he "could take care of" the situation in this way. Coffee planned to report to the farm bloc or prairie states congressmen's committee, at a special meeting Saturday. He said his committee will continue to function "to see that the loan are expedited."

AUBURN MAN BADLY BURNED

Auburn, Neb.—Floyd South, 25, of Auburn, was burned severely Thursday afternoon in a fire which destroyed a tractor and shed at the Nemaha county rock quarry a mile west of here. A physician gave South a 50-50 chance for life. He was brought to an Auburn hospital.

South was putting gasoline into the tractor. The fuel ignited from an unknown cause and he was burned about the face, legs, thigh, and arms.

Russell Huey, a fellow workman, was standing near the door of the shed but was unhurt. He called to several other county employes and they rescued South. Destruction of the shed and tractor amounted to about $1,000 damage, workmen estimated.

GEN. DRUM TRANSFERRED

Washington.—The war department issued orders assigning Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum to command the Sixth army corps area at Chicago. The transfer is effective upon completion of his present tour of duty as commander of the Hawaiian department of Honolulu. He will succeed Brig. Gen. Charles D. Herron, who has been acting temporarily as commander of the Sixth corps area.
