The board has had in mind the retaining of a superintendent who can give all of his time to the work at the cemetery and due to this fact the board is faced with a problem.

W. A. Tulene, the present superintendent does not feel that he cares to devote all of his time to the work and this makes it necessary to try and secure other applicants.

The cemetery board will meet Friday, April 2, at 7:30 to consider applications for a superintendent of Oak Hill cemetery. Anyone with cemetery experience who are interested should have their application in the hands of the secretary, L. W. Niel, by meeting date.

WPA Workers Start Project on City Records

Check County and City Tax Accounts; Chart Sewers; Assist Tax and Property Committee.

From Tuesday's Daily— Another WPA project opened in Plattsmouth yesterday morning.

Three persons are employed in work upon the city records. Albert Olson, city clerk, is general supervisor.

Auditing of the special improvement assessment records is one of the most needed pieces of work in the city. A dual method of collecting these assessments is provided by law.

Payment may be made either to the county treasurer or to the city clerk. This necessitates the keeping of two separate assessment books. Some of the payments made to the county treasurer have not been clearly transcribed to the city book thus causing a great deal of confusion in clearing titles, securing abstracts, etc. This is particularly true of foreclosed assessments, which while certified from the district court records to the county treasurer's book, have never been transcribed to the city clerk's book. Gothard Lagerstrom is going over the old records and filling in the certifications from 1914 to the present.

A second project has been organized for the locating and charting of the sanitary sewers in the city of Plattsmouth. While the city owns the main trunk line of the sewer, the majority of the branch lines are owned privately. At the present time there is no chart of the private sewers and a person wishing to build or attach to a sewer system is at loss to know how to go about it. Leo Boynton is securing the location of the private sewer lines, finding their length, the year built, owners, etc. Charts with as many blue prints as are obtainable will be kept with the city records.

Ada Taylor is working with the tax and property committee under the direction of Elmer Webb.
