Mature Lecture Course to be Held at Peru

Principles of Scoutmastership Training to Require Six Weeks—Larson Lectures May 2

Outline of the "Principles of Scoutmastership" training course to be conducted by Prof. A. B. Clayburn, leadership chairman of Arbor Lodge district, at Peru college, beginning Sunday, April 18, was received here yesterday.

This course is a mature discussion and lecture course on Scouting and should appeal to everyone interested in boys. It consists of 12 complete lectures on different phases of the work, two to be given each Sunday for the next six weeks.

The first lecture will start at 2:30, followed by discussion, and the second at 4 p. m., closing about 5:30.

A large number of Scouters from over this district and the Falls City district plan to attend the lectures. This course, considered the "tops" in Scout training courses is seldom given outside of the more populous districts comprising the larger cities. At its conclusion, those who have attended all the lectures will be given the Scoutmaster's "Key," a much coveted award in Scouting circles, while those who attend only part, will be benefited that much.

One and possibly two car loads of Scouters from this vicinity will attend the first two lectures Sunday, leaving here at 1 o'clock and returning by 7.

The first lecture, "The Nature of the Boy; A Scout Program which Meets the Boy's Needs" will be given by S. L. Clements, superintendent of Peru Training school, followed by the second lecture on "Educational and Scout Objectives," by J. W. Tyler, professor of Rural Education at Peru.

Speakers for the next two lectures on the following Sunday will be Dr. P. A. Maxwell, head of the Department of Education and S. T. Baller of the Department of Physical Education at the college.

On Sunday, May 2, Raymond J. Larson, of Plattsmouth, will deliver the first lecture and lead the discussion following same. The subject is "Troop Program Building; Adequate Yearly Outdoor Program of a Scout Troop; Ceremonies in the Scout Program." The second lecture that day will be delivered by Prof. D. J. Nabors, of the Speech Department of Peru college. The subject is, "The Boy's Reading Program."

It is a distinct tribute to Mr. Larson's ability and long-standing record as a Scoutmaster that he has been chosen as one of the very few lecturers on this six weeks' program who are not college professors. Mr. Larson has made a deep study of the principles of Scouting and is one of the best informed and most capable Scoutmasters in the Arbor Lodge district, and his fellow Scouters here are well pleased that he has been selected to deliver this important lecture in the series of twelve.

The lectures will be continued on May 9, 16 and 23—two each Sunday—and provide a very complete training course in Scoutmastership.

There is no fee required and all interested in boys and boys' work are invited to attend one or more days in this six weeks' lecture series, April 18 to May 23, inclusive.

Removing Snow Fences

Louis Schmidt, road superintendent, thinks the winter is now over, and aided by Fred Shelhorn and Will Murfin has been taking down the snow fences along the highway and storing them for use again this coming winter.

With the prevailing high winds and the air so filled with dust from the "dust bowls" of the west, it might be well to leave the fences in place as a guard against dust drifts. However, we scarcely think conditions will ever get bad enough to warrant that.

Obituary of William F. Langhorst

William Frederick Langhorst was born in New Bremen, Ohio, December 28, 1862, and died Sunday morning, March 28, 1937, in his home in Wabash, Nebraska. He lived to be 74 years and 3 months old.

He was united in marriage to Annella Lampowski in the year 1883, to which union one daughter was born, Mrs. Anna Month, now of Brighton, Mass.

Mr. Langhorst, after being employed by the B. & O. railroad in Ohio, came to Nebraska in 1897. He settled near Arvon, Nebraska, and was employed by the Missouri Pacific railroad there for a time, shortly thereafter he was transferred to the station master at Wabash, Nebraska. He occupied the latter position for thirty years until his retirement at the age of seventy. He conducted a mercantile business in Murdock, Nebraska, for about three years nearly 25 years ago.

Mrs. Annella Langhorst preceded the departed in death four years ago. Since her departure, Mr. Langhorst made his home with the William Murfin family of Wabash, Nebraska, where he passed away on Easter Sunday.

The departed, during his lifetime, surrounded himself with many friends through his congenial and happy disposition. He will be greatly missed by them as a citizen of this village. His brother, L. P. Langhorst, who knew him best, speaks of him thus: "He has always led a Christian life and was for the betterment of humanity."

He leaves to mourn his death a daughter, Mrs. Anna Month and husband, six grandchildren, seven brothers and one sister, all of Ohio, with the exception of L. F. Langhorst, of Elmwood, Ohio. The latter accompanied the body to New Bremen, Ohio, where the remains were laid to rest at the side of his wife.

Many friends and villagers of Wabash gathered at the railroad station where he had worked so long for them, to show their last respects to an honored citizen as the body was placed on the train.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Harvey A. Schwab, pastor of the Murdock Evangelical church at 8:30 p. m. Monday, March 29, at the home of the departed in Wabash. Mrs. Leo Riki and Mrs. Arthur Ward sang, "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me" and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."
