147 Graduates of Eighth Grade Attend Exercises

Charles W. Taylor, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Speaks on Program.

Graduates of the eighth grade from all sections of the county attended the promotion exercises at the Plattsmouth high school auditorium Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Charles W. Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, gave the main address on the program.

Music was furnished by the Plattsmouth high school orchestra under the direction of Lee Knolle. Rev. Lentz pronounced the invocation. Miss Alpha C. Peterson, county superintendent, led the flag salute and pledge of allegiance.

Superintendent L. S. Devoe of the Plattsmouth public schools gave the address of welcome. He encouraged the students to continue their study through high school for increase in education brings opportunity to broaden one's life, study, and become a better citizen. Mrs. V. P. Rawalt of Avoca gave the response. She praised the parents for their "backing" of the teachers.

Mrs. E. H. Wescott presented beautiful interpretations of "America for Me," "Woman in the Shoe," and "June." She was accompanied by her husband, James Sandin read "Idiosyncrasies."

In his talk, Superintendent Taylor stated that many parents underestimate their children's abilities. He stated that a boy or girl of ten or twelve years can overcome anything of which he is conscious. He commended this age of propaganda and warned the students of the misrepresentation of facts.

Superintendent Taylor told briefly of the Norris schools and their system of teaching. He urged the students to find out what the right thing to do and do it.

Following the class march, Wilma Swatek gave a reading.

Sunday Brings Memorial Theme in the Churches

Special Sermons and Musical Selections Carry Thought of Honored Dead—Many Decorate.

While the formal program for memorial day was to be held this afternoon, a large part of the citizenry as well as many from out of the city were here to participate in the Sunday services and the decoration of the graves in the city cemeteries.

The greater part of the churches of the city made the memorial to the war dead as a part of their service and special sermons and music furnished an inspirational thought for the day.

At the First Presbyterian church Dr. H. G. McClusky gave a very fine tribute to the veterans of the nation's wars and especially to the civil war veterans who are now at rest. "Our Gratitude to the Boys in Blue." The choir of the church gave a number of Patriotic songs as a part of the service.

Rev. J. W. Tenzler of the First Christian church had as his subject, "Stones for Memorial" and the male quartet of the church gave a number of the songs of the boys in blue.

At the First Methodist church there was recognition of the day in the sermon, "Our Heritage" in which Rev. V. C. Wright gave a fine tribute to the services of those who have preserved the heritage of the country. Special music by the choir also carried out the patriotic thought of the day.

Both in the morning and the afternoon hundreds visited the Oak Hill and Catholic cemeteries to decorate the graves and arranged the lots in fitting manner for the day of tribute. The cemeteries were very beautiful this year as the grass has grown nicely and with the many flowers, the flag decorated graves that added to the beauty of the scene. There are hundreds of the war veterans and their wives in the silent city and these were appropriately marked by committees in tribute for their services.

VISITS IN OLD HOME

From Tuesday's Daily—
Mrs. Agnes Chapman, of Lincoln, departed this afternoon for Omaha and from where she will go on to her home after a three day visit here with relatives and old friends. Mrs. Chapman drove down with her son, Joseph Chapman, traveling representative of the IGA company and has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Val Burkel.

The family were long prominent residents of this community and it is always a pleasure to the old friends to have Mrs. Chapman "back home" for a visit.

From Tuesday's Daily—
Mayor Ziegenbein and City Attorney Tyler of Nebraska City were guest speakers at today's weekly Rotary club luncheon. The program was under direction of former Mayor John P. Sattler. Accompanying the Nebraska City city officials was Herman L. Thomas, former city clerk of Plattsmouth, who has been located in Nebraska City for the past two years as Missouri Pacific agent, and who is a member of the Nebraska City Rotary club.

Other guests included John, Paul and Margaret Iverson, and Elmer Webb.

Dr. Ziegenbein outlined the set-up of the commission form of government in Nebraska City, which has been in successful operation since 1906, and told of the division of duties and responsibilities among the three commissioners, who draw annual salaries of $800, $500 and $500, respectively, for mayor, finance commissioner and street commissioner, and of how the officers are nominated from a nonpartisan field at a primary election, followed by a general election when twice the number to be selected (the high six from the primary) appear on the ballot. In Nebraska City the one receiving the highest number of votes is declared mayor, second highest finance commissioner, and third street commissioner. Mayor Ziegenbein said he believed this should be changed, as sometimes there are misfits in office and a man who might make a very able street commissioner does not fill the bill as a finance commissioner or mayor.

City Attorney Tyler spoke on the legal phases involved, such as matter of the mayor introducing motions and casting a vote along with the other two commissioners, and being deprived of veto power.

Each commissioner has appointive power in their respective departments, but subject to confirmation by a majority of the commission—in other words, the other two members could block any appointment by the third, and place in such office the man of their choice.

Tyler said the Nebraska City commission voted unanimously on almost every matter before them, and felt that the fewer number enables the citizens to see each member and outline their viewpoints to them much more easily than would be possible under the councilmanic form with its eight to ten councilmen. He said the people of Nebraska City are very well pleased with the commission form, but admitted it had not solved the age old question in that town of where to locate the city dump, a controversial subject that has contributed to the downfall and elevation of many candidates for city office in years past, and which he predicted would continue to do so for years to come.

Following his discussion, numerous questions were asked which he and Mayor Ziegenbein joined in answering.

Presy Clouid announced a Rotary Ann picnic for the final meeting date of this month.
