Will Give Band Concerts
The Elmwood band, which has been rehearsing for some time, getting ready for their summer concert season, will give their first concert Wednesday evening, June 16th. There are to be ten of these concerts on successive Wednesday nights during the summer. This is a very pleasant feature arranged for the entertainment of the people of Elmwood and surrounding territory and attracts a large number of people to town.

Gave Nice Entertainment
Under the direction of the teacher of the Christian Bible school, the children of the smaller classes gave a very interesting portion of a fine program, which also included a pageant by the older scholars. The entertainment was given on Children's day, Sunday night, and was greatly enjoyed by the large number who were present. Mrs. Creamer had charge of the entertainment, and is deserving of much credit for the fine manner in which it was carried out.

Ate Breakfast at Ceresco
Members of the Epworth League, a group of young people of the Elmwood Methodist church, got up early enough Sunday morning to drive to Ceresco, where they enjoyed a 6:30 breakfast with the Epworth Leaguers of that place.

Married Last Saturday Night

At the home of the pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Norfolk last Saturday night, June 5th, Stanley Wood, one of the excellent young men of Elmwood, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wood of Clearwater, Nebraska, were joined in wedlock. The young people first met some two years ago and their acquaintance and friendship ripened into love, culminating with their wedding.

The bride has been engaged as a teacher in the public schools at Clearwater, which is located near Norfolk. The groom has been engaged in work on various highway projects and recently accepted the position of driver of the Standard Oil company's bulk truck.

Following the wedding ceremony, the young couple went to the home of the bride's parents, where they remained until Tuesday, when they came to Elmwood to make their home. At present they are staying at the home of the parents of the groom but expect to set up house-keeping for themselves in a short time.

Mr. Wood has purchased a new truck to handle the delivery of gas and oil to his customers.

The many friends of this splendid young couple are extending congratulations and best wishes for their future happiness, and are joined in this most heartily by the Journal.

Cass County Farm Bureau Notes

Copy furnished from Office of County Agent Waincotte

Federal Grasshopper Bait Arrives.

Materials for nopper bait have just arrived in the county. Two carloads of sawdust and a half car of bran were unloaded at the Sheldon Manufacturing plant this week.

The government is furnishing the sawdust, bran and sodium arsenite. The Farm Bureau is furnishing the amyl acetate, molasses, bags, mixing and delivering. Plans are to deliver into each precinct about two bags to the average farm. Notices will be sent to farmers stating when and where they can get the bait off the truck.

Many farmers are just beginning to realize how bad the hoppers are, so the distribution of this material should help a great deal. Although it cannot be definitely determined what the cost will be until a few tons are mixed, the charges should be about 40c per bag. This will cover the cost of the bag, the mixing charge, amyl acetate, molasses and delivering.

The Farm Bureau has already mixed about sixty tons and delivered it to the farmers at $1.15 per bag. Nothing was furnished by the government in this sixty ton of bait.

4-H Conservation Camp.

All 4-H club members interested in the Wild Life Conservation contest should make note that reports and stories, covering their activities, must reach this office by July 1st. This leaves about three weeks in which to complete activities and file reports, if you wish to be considered for the award of a trip to the annual state Wild Life Conservation camp to be held at Seward August 10 to 13 inclusive.

Miss Evelyn Wolph, Virginia Pollard and Marie Anderson, all of Nehawka, won trips to the state camp in 1936.

The basis of the award is (1) What has been planned and accomplished as indicated by report, 50%; (2) My (Our) Contribution to Conservation of Wild Life, 50%. The reports and stories should cover the activities of individuals and clubs beginning July 1, 1936, and ending June 30, 1937.

Any club member interested in entering the contest should write for the report form and other essential information, and begin writing up his activities at once. Remember July 1st is the deadline for having your reports and stories in the Farm Bureau office.

Women to Gather at North Platte.

Cass county will be represented at the first annual state-wide meeting of the Nebraska Council of Home Demonstration clubs at North Platte, June 15-16, by Miss Evelyn Wolph, Mrs. Everett Spangler, Mrs. Henry Tool, Mrs. Nelson Berger, and Miss Jessie H. Baldwin. Farm and town women from all sections of the state will assemble for the sessions to discuss 1938 home demonstration work.

Miss Mary-Ellen Brown of the Nebraska college of agriculture this week announced final plans for the meeting have been completed. Special music will be furnished by three outstanding rural women's choruses from Lincoln, Dawson and Kearney counties.

Mary Rokahr of the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be one of the leading speakers on the program. She replaces Miss Grace Frysinger who was forced to cancel her Nebraska engagement. Miss Rokahr is a Nebraska woman, known to all farm women enrolled in project work. Together with Director W. H. Brokaw, she will be one of the headline speakers.

Cass county women, numbering 867, enrolled in extension project work will watch the North Platte meeting closely.

Crops Field Day.

Blindweed, agricultural legislation, so-called new crops, moisture conservation and new experimental crop developments, all will be talked at the annual Agronomy Field Day scheduled for the Nebraska college of agriculture on June 15. Some Cass county farmers probably will attend.

Dr. T. A. Kieselbach is billed to discuss new and so-called new crops. New and old species of grasses showing promise for regrassing are to be described by Lawrence Newell. Dr. E. D. Keim is scheduled to sum up progress on blindweed experimental work. His discussion will include chemical treatments, new tillage ideas and smother crops.

Moisture conservation, a lively topic in any farm gathering, will be discussed by M. D. Weldon while Elvin F. Frolik will describe new crop developments to be seen in the field during the afternoon. D. L. Gross is to describe necessary steps in setting up districts under the soil conservation and bindweed laws recently passed.

4-H Leaders Attend Training Meetings.

Sixteen 4-H club leaders in charge of Learning to Cook and Summer Clothes clubs attended training meetings held by the home extension agent last week. Special training was given these leaders on subject matter, reports, judging and demonstration work, and other phases of 4-H activities.

Illustrative material designed to bring out the main points on subject matter was presented and served to acquaint the leaders with the standards toward which the girls will work.

Bad-Flavored Milk.

If the milk you get in the morning from the doorstep or out of the milk supply on the farm has an off-flavor—perhaps you had better blame the weeds in the pastures.

With grazing land infested heavily with ragweed, pepperglass, stinkweed and the like, many farmers now are reporting a lot of trouble with weed flavors in milk and cream. M. N. Lawritson, extension dairyman at the Nebraska college of agriculture, says taking cows off pasture three or four hours before milking time would help.

Aerial Contracts Let.

Flying at a height of 12,000 feet with special equipment, airplanes will soon start the job of mapping more than 12,000 square miles of Nebraska farm land in 25 different counties. The maps will be used for performance work under the Agricultural Conservation program.

Cass county is one of the counties in which the work will be done. Flying is to start as soon as bonds have been submitted by the successful company getting the contract.

Land in Cass county to be mapped is a part of the 350,000 square miles throughout the country that will be mapped this year. AAA officials have found that aerial mapping is an improved and less expensive manner of determining performance under the conservation program. Maps made from pictures taken from the air show all features of the land very accurately and for most farms they form a permanent record which can be used from year to year.

New Game Circular.

Extension Circular 538, "Children's Party Games," prepared by N. W. Gaines and Ralph D. Copenhaver, extension specialists in community organization, has just been made available. Many requests have been received for games for little children, little realizing that some of the games that are played by adults, are also appropriate for little children. This new circular gives a variety of activities that may be used upon that group classified as children. It contains both outdoor and indoor games helpful to any individual in planning a party for a group of youngsters, or even older folks. You may obtain a copy by writing or calling at the farm bureau office.

Selling Many Sanitary Units

E. W. Thingan, of Plattsmouth, master Chic Sales house builder for the government, under its WPA sanitation project, has disposed of a number of these in this vicinity. The purchasers include school districts, private homes and business houses. The only cost involved is for the lumber and material, which is trucked to Plattsmouth from the home lumber yard of the purchaser, and then converted into modern outhouses by a group of workmen under direction of Mr. Thingan. The wages of the workmen and transportation costs, together with the expense of erecting the same is borne by the government.
