

Seek to Preserve Pioneer Burying Plot in City

Members of Billings Family Here to Look Over Private Burying Plot in South Part of City.

Monday Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Billings, of Deadwood, South Dakota, were in the city to look after the preservation of the Billings cemetery on Pershing avenue in the south part of the city.

This cemetery which contains the last resting places of some eight of the Billings family, was started in the late sixties and the early seventies by Spenser S. Billings, a pioneer of this community.

Mr. Billings was born in New England December 8, 1916, and after a career as a doctor and farmer, came west to Nebraska territory in 1861 and settled in the south part of the present city, taking a homestead there and which formed the means of a very extensive real estate building program.

As was the custom in the early days, a small section of the holdings was set aside as a private burial plot and where today rests the founder of the estate and his wife as well as several children that passed away in the early years.

Mr. Billings after securing the homestead built a large number of small residence properties in that section of the city and which were familiar to the older residents as "Billings town" and here many residents made their homes in the late seventies and the eighties.

A part of the homestead is now embraced in the grounds of the Burlington and which for years were used in the shop yards and is still the property of the railroad.

Spenser Billings, the founder of the family estate here, passed away in 1891 and since which time the holdings have passed into other hands and the identification of the family with that part of the city has been lost.

The relatives were brought here by the report that they had received that it was proposed to have the bodies taken from the old resting places in the private cemetery and which they do not wish.

WRECKERS PROVE NAME

The Nebraska City Wreckers Sunday afternoon proceeded to wreck the Merchants of this city in their engagement in the southeastern Nebraska baseball league schedule.

The Wreckers won by the score of 24 to 11, massing an early lead when they hit Streets hard in the second frame to take a lead that they maintained throughout. The locals had many shifts in their lineup in an effort to hit a clicking combination.

Sunday afternoon the 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Zelenka, of Omaha was injured when she was struck and hurled to the paving on highway No. 75, north of this city. She sustained several injuries as the result of the accident.

The family were driving south and had stopped the car near the sandpits north of the city and the child, attracted by flowers along the highway slipped out of the car unknown to the parents and ran into the path of a passing car, the distance being too short to avoid hitting the child glancingly, the car being overturned in the efforts to avoid hitting the child.
