Good Prospects for Successful Year.

Prospects are bright for the success of the field tour planned by the Cass County Farm Bureau, State Extension Service and the local SCS camp, for Friday, June 18th.

About twelve farmers will be visited during the tour when farm operators, landowners, business men and women are invited to see and have explained all of the different methods that are being used.

Following is the schedule for the tour: 9:30 a. m. Leave Weeping Water (Meet at the Farm Bureau office).

9:45 See contour farming and buffer strips on George and Oscar Domingo farms.

10:00 Pasture terraces and seeded pasture on Parr Young farm.

10:30 Buffer strips and contour farming on F. J. Hild farm.

11:00 Gully control on Carrie Childt (Earl Iske) farm.

12:00 noon. Free lunch in John B. Kaffenberger grove, (6 miles west of Plattsmouth on Louisville-Plattsmouth road). Talks by D. L. Gross and others.

1:15 p. m. Contour farming, strip cropping, buffer strips, terracing and gully control on Ralph Meisinger, George Stoehr, Victor Stoehr and Lester Wagoner farms.

3:00 Large earth dam and other methods of gully control on Leslie Wiles farm.

4:00 Arrive Weeping Water. Adjourn.

It certainly will be well worth any one's time to take a day off and go with the crowd to see the results being achieved in Cass county.

4-H Clubbers to Washington.

The event to which all Cass county 4-H club members look forward to annually is hopes that they may some day attend in session in the nation's capital this week—the National 4-H club camp.

Attendees is a Nebraska delegation of four champions.

Frances Rehmeler, Cass county; Gladys Weltkamp, Washington county; Miles Cadwallader, Furnas county; and Joe Carter, Hitchcock county, were the four Cornhusker champions who entrained early in the week for Washington.

Accompanying them were Miss Jessie Greene and Walter Tolman of the state club office.

The trip to the camp is regarded as the biggest honor that can come to any 4-H club member.

All boys and girls enrolled in the work are eligible to compete each year for the honor. Those who have made the trip from this county in past years include: Clarence Norris, Henry Sexton, James Wall and Malize Foreman.

"Slow Death" to Hoppers.

Continuing their "war" on grasshoppers and apparently making some headway, Cass county farmers this week were giving "slow death" to the pests which have hatched in large numbers. Arrival of federal bait has speeded up the poisoning activities in the county.

Sixty-one tons of bran and sawdust and twelve barrels of sodium arsenite were received last week with which to mix federal bait. Mixing operations were being speeded up at the plant at Nehawka so that between three and four hundred sacks per day have been turned out for delivery into the different precincts in the county.

That the kill received by poisoning the hoppers may not be plainly visible was indicated this week by O. S. Bare, extension entomologist at the Nebraska college of agriculture. He said the maximum results are not secured for 3 to 7 days after poisoning. Beetles and ants, he said, also carry away the dead hoppers. When dead also, the small hoppers dry up and resemble only a shell of their normal body.

Spreading the poison properly according to directions eliminates danger of livestock poisoning. Bare also said.

Every possible effort is being made to get the federal bait mixed and into the hands of farmers as soon as possible. Federal bait is available to the precincts only on the days and places specified on the notices which are sent to every farm operator within the precinct. Poison bait mixed by the County Farm Bureau is kept on hand at the Farm Bureau office and may be obtained there any time.

Music Appreciation.

4-H club members interested in the music appreciation and identification contests should make a practice of listening to the national 4-H club radio broadcasts the first Saturday of each month.

Each program consists of discussions by 4-H club members, supervisors, and others, and a thirty-minute period of music. The music series this year will feature American composers. These compositions will be played by the U. S. Marine band and will be accompanied with interesting information about the music and the composers. This information often brings out characteristics about the piece which helps one to recognize it.

Remember these broadcasts are always on the first Saturday of each month from 11:30 to 12:30, central standard time, over the national network of NBC stations. The lists of selections and composers are available at the Farm Bureau office. Write or ask for Extension Form 0-20-2, 4-H Music Appreciation Test.

Many Attend District 4-H Judging Day.

Cass county 4-H club members were very much in evidence at the district 4-H judging day held in Lincoln Thursday, June 10th. A total of 26 members and 11 leaders attended to take advantage of the classes for practice judging.

These club members represented Summer Clothes, Canning, Learning to Cook, Poultry and livestock club annual classes were judged and the members gave oral reasons for their placings.

Sudan Grass for Pasture.

Cass county farmers are turning to Sudan for summer pasturage and have seeded hundreds of acres to this temporary crop. Reports to the Farm Bureau office indicate a greater acreage than normal of this crop.

Sudan has found favor this year particularly because seed has been about the cheapest in relation to other seed prices. Seed has been selling for around 5 to 6 cents per pound. The crop is a hot weather one, ordinarily planted the latter part of May or early June. It comes on very rapidly and with even a very limited amount of moisture furnishes grazing until the fall months when frost comes. Many farmers getting some pasturage from weed-infested pastures now are turning to Sudan due to the fact that downy brome and little wild barley will furnish but little grazing from now on.

There is still time to plant a patch of Sudan. In many cases, farmers will plow up a part of a killed-out permanent pasture where the ground is tillable, work the ground down and seed Sudan. This has the double advantage of furnishing summer pasturage and cleans up the ground so less weeds will be present when reseeding the permanent grasses and legumes is made later.

That there is evidence that playing cards were in use in Egypt in the time of Joseph and that they appeared among the Hebrews after their return from the Babylonian exile. The Chinese dictionary, "Ching-Tze-Tung" (1678) states that they were produced in China for the amusement of Seun-Ho's harem in the year 1120.

Hydrocyanic or prussic acid poisoning which caused considerable trouble in Sudan pasturing in 1936 will probably be much less of a factor this year if the season is more normal. This toxic condition develops primarily when growth is stunted by "abnormal" conditions.

Attend 4-H Club Camp Via Radio.

It is hoped that all 4-H club members, leaders, and especially the folks "back home" will enjoy going to "National 4-H Club Camp," by tuning in to the two broadcasts which will go on the air over a network of 63 radio stations. The first program, to be broadcast on June 21, will feature Honorable Harry L. Brown, assistant secretary, U. S. Department of Agriculture, who will extend greetings to club members of the camp and to the one million club members throughout the country. Talks and interviews in which ten representative club members participate will tell of accomplishments and the part 4-H club work is taking in agricultural development and rural life. This broadcast may be heard over station WOW from 11:26 to 12:30 on June 21.

During the second program on June 23, from 12:00 to 12:30 over station WOW, Morse Salisbury, chief, radio service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, will interview state extension leaders on the theme, "Our Young Rural Americans." Tune in and keep in touch with our 4-H'ers.

Pullorum Eradication Program.

Pointing out results obtained in eastern states with statewide Pullorum control and eradication campaigns, J. H. Claybaugh of the Nebraska college of agriculture this week called attention of Cass county poultrymen to the need for such a plan in Nebraska.

A systematic and supervised program is essential to the industry. Claybaugh said. Many producers now do some testing but a more comprehensive program is needed.

In New Hampshire, for example, the percentage of hens reacting to Pullorum tests during 1937 was 2.6 of 1%. In 1926 the percentage was 25%. During 1937 disease carriers were in only 8.5 of the flocks. All this was the result of an active statewide eradication campaign.

FARMERS STILL WORRYING

Kansas City, Mo.—Southwestern wheat farmers have weather worries again. This time it is too much rain. Last year about mid June the drought was pitching camp at the farmers' doorstep, a situation which Tuesday gave southern Canada farmers concern and caused wheat prices to jump 4 to 5 cents a bushel.

Farmers fear black stem rust, already reported by the department of agriculture to be prevalent in many localities in eastern Kansas, western Missouri and southern Nebraska, will develop, if rains continue. Severity of infection varies in different localities. In Oklahoma where the harvest is just getting underway, growers are being hampered by too much moisture.

We take this means of expressing our deepest gratitude to the many kind friends and neighbors for their acts of loving kindness and sympathy in the death of our daughter and sister. We wish also to thank those who sent the beautiful flowers and assisted in the funeral services.—Peter Mumm and children.
