

Regulations Made by Game Commission

In Addition to Opening Whole State for Pheasant Shooting Many Other Regulations Made.

The Nebraska game, forestation and parks commission in their rulings Tuesday, made a number of changes in the regulation of hunting and fishing in the state in addition to the pheasant season which was set from October 17 to 25. The shooting hours for the hunting will be from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. The daily bag will be five birds, two of which may be hens. After the pheasant season is closed certain areas will be classed as "restocking areas" and more birds will be placed there.

Two other "revolutionary" changes were made by the commission. There will be no open season this year on muskrat trapping because, O'Connell said, the "sandhills are in such a deplorable condition and we thought it best to wait until the situation is better."

Another new regulation will permit fishermen to keep all sizes of trout, sunfish, and perch. Heretofore the minnows were required to "throw back" these species if they were not a certain size. The latter rule, however, still stands for other kinds of fish.

With "exceeding regrets," the conservation official said, the commission adopted the federal biological survey's dates for duck, geese, coots, snipe, and sora hunting in Nebraska, from Oct. 9 to Nov. 7 inclusive. The season, he said, is "too early and undoubtedly will curtail the Mallard shooting and practically eliminate the big goose hunting in western Nebraska." The entire state is opened for these birds.

The federal dates of Sept. 1 to Nov. 15 inclusive for Mourning doves, also were accepted. The bag limits are 25 coots, 10 doves, 10 ducks, 5 geese, 15 snipe and 15 sora, either daily or at any time.

As before, no open seasons were prescribed for cranes, curlew, prairie chicken, grouse, partridge, plover, quail, wild turkey, antelope, deer, beaver, marten and otter.

Hunting seasons, shooting hours, areas open, and bag limits for other game birds and animals are:

Opposum, Nov. 1-Feb. 1, all hours, entire state, 3 bag limit.

Cottontails rabbits, entire year, 7 a. m. to 6 p. m., entire state, 5 bag limit.

Raccoon, Nov. 1-Feb. 1, all hours, entire state, 2 limit.

Squirrel, Oct. 1-Nov. 30, 7 a. m. to 6 p. m., entire state, 7 limit.

Woodchuck (groundhog), Oct. 1-Nov. 30, 7 a. m. to 6 p. m., entire state, 5 limit.

Trapping open seasons for fur bearing animals are:

Nov. 1-Feb. 1 for badger, opossum and raccoon.

Nov. 1-Feb. 15, fox and mink. All fur bearing animals not classified can be trapped any time of the year.

Platte river hunting will be permissible only from 7 a. m. to noon each of the open season and by "entire state" is not mean that game reserves, sanctuaries, or areas closed by state or city laws are included.

Recall Pioneer Plattsmouth Program from WOW

A lot of radio history has been made since that day when Plattsmouth was first in the middle west to put on a "community" program. Without doubt Plattsmouth lost a golden opportunity to follow with a radio station and become a pruned peddling metropolis. Be that as it may, this initial program was followed with four others from here—all delivered into the microphone at WOW studios—instead of sent out by short wave from a portable transmitter (then undreamed of) as this new KOIL program will be. The second of those community programs was given by the band, the third a high school sponsored program, the fourth a program and cantata by the Presbyterian church and fifth a Legion program boosting the district convention held here in 1926.

About that time chain programs came along and commercial receiving sets flooded the market. Practice of reading back telegrams (to encourage more telegrams) and dedicating numbers to friends back home was generally discontinued and community programs from the larger stations ceased while a mushroom of small stations sprang up to provide an outlet for "home" talent.

Still later, and within the past few years, radio is again going back to the people for inspiration—hence the portable transmitters, man-on-the-street and what-have-you type of broadcast today.

We repeat, a lot of radio history has been made since Plattsmouth pioneered with the first community radio program west of the Mississippi river and north of the Mason and Dixon line.
