DENTISTRY and PUBLIC HEALTH
Approved by American Dental Association and the United States Public Health Service
PLATTSMOUTH DENTAL SOCIETY

CHAPTER XXIX
"Speaking of pain," said Dr. Young, "and fear of dental operations, it is often the parent or some older member of the family who plants the idea of fear in the child's mind. Youngsters often overhear their elders relating some particularly painful experience in the dental chair. In many cases the experience has been painful; often, the adult's description of the ordeal is greatly exaggerated. After all, we human beings are very much alike; we each desire the spotlight. Our personal experiences are just a little more dreadful than those of our friends. If they are not, we are likely to build them up a bit. The very young child, of course, accepts these statements as truths. He has no way of knowing that his parent or older relative is exaggerating. Thus, when someone at the dinner table says 'I spent all afternoon at the dentist's today and he nearly killed me,' the child actually envisions the death of one near and dear to him. In his imaginative mind, he pictures the dental office as a torture chamber and the dentist as a demon.

"Sometimes older children, with the cruelty of youth, deliberately scare the younger child with hair-raising tales of their experiences in the dental office. Occasionally some thoughtless parent will use the dentist and the physician as a whip over the child. 'Johnny, if you don't mind me, I'll take you to the dentist and have him pull all your teeth out, or, 'Mary, if you don't come in the house immediately, I'll call the doctor and he'll give you some pills and make you stay in bed.'"

"Naturally, children reared under those conditions and in such an atmosphere of horror are going to develop extreme fear when they are confronted with dental or medical care. It is a good plan never to discuss dental, medical or surgical operations in the presence of children. Teach the child that the dentist and the physician are his friends; teach him to have the utmost confidence in that friendship; then, when the occasion arises that the child needs the services of the dentist or the physician, he accepts their services without having first to overcome his fear and apprehension."

MANLEY NEWS

C. J. Elgaard is departing today (Monday) for the Black Hills, where he expects to spend a week.
David Brann and wife visited in Plattsmouth last Monday and while there Mr. Brann secured his driver's license.

Mrs. Sadie Burks of Greenwood, a cousin of Mrs. Grover C. Rhoden, visited at the Rhoden home here during the past week.

David Brann and wife visited at the home of relatives of Mrs. Brann at Wyoming, located just over the line in Otoe county south of Union, one day last week.

Most of the people of Manley and vicinity attended the county fair at Weeping Water during the past week and all were well pleased with the 1937 exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Keckler left yesterday (Sunday) for points in the northwest, expecting to visit in the states of Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, and will then come back east, going to Alabama and other southern states.

John Flaischman, accompanied by his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Trayer, of Louisville, were guests at the home of Fred Flaischman and family Monday. They were accompanied by another daughter, Mrs. Genevieve Mickie.

Mrs. Herman Rauth, who is a lover of flowers and has many beautiful varieties at her home, responded to a request to take charge of the flower exhibit at the Cass county fair and through her influence there was arranged one of the finest displays of flowers ever seen at the fair.

Herman Rauth has been getting his land ready to sow his fall wheat. Experience of the past few years has been that wheat provides a more certain return than corn, and besides it is best to have more than the one crop to depend on. Next spring, in case the wheat field does not come through in satisfactory manner, the land can still be planted to corn.

Rides Bicycle at 83
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Flaischman were guests last Sunday at the home of Mrs. Flaischman's father, Henry Taylor, who is 83 years of age. Noticing a nice new bicycle standing in the room, Mr. Flaischman inquired as to who it belonged to and was informed by his father-in-law that it was his own personal property and that he finds much pleasure in riding it every day, something that many people scores of years his junior would shrink from doing. Doubtless it is this manner of living that keeps the aged Mr. Taylor young. Many might well emulate his example in their search for the fountain of youth that was so relentlessly pursued by Ponce de Leon.

Getting in Their Fuel
August Krecklow has been busy during the past week hauling in a number of loads of anthracite coal for users of this fuel in Manley. On last Wednesday he made a trip to Plattsmouth to purchase a supply of hard coal for Andrew Schliefert. During his absence, David Brann looked after business at the store.

LEWISTON SOCIAL CIRCLE
The Lewiston Social Circle held day, Sept. 14th at the home of Mrs. Harry Gobelman.

A short social hour preceded the business meeting. Miss Gwendolyn Hansen and Mrs. Charles Wolfe were winners.

The new officers took office at the beginning of the meeting. Roll call was answered by each member with a definition of "personality."

Capsul friends were drawn for the new year. Tentative plans were made for a homecoming jubilee to be Oct. 14 at the home of Mrs. Martin Sporer.

All officers and general chairmen are to be the committee in charge. Plans will be worked out in detail by this committee on Oct. 5 at the home of Mrs. Klimm.

Mrs. Klimm resigned the office of reporter and Mrs. Donald Harris was elected.

The hostesses, Mrs. Harry Gobelman and Mrs. Roy Becker, served a delightful lunch at the close of the meeting.

Chester Renner departed Thursday morning for Washington, Mo., with the Patton-Tulley Trans. Co., for whom he is engaged in working. He also took with him Walter Fulton and Clyde Bragg, of Plattsmouth, who will work there.

Wabash News

Wm. Knaupe had a horse attacked by the sleeping sickness, but the animal is now much better and it is believed will recover.

B. F. Colbert was making hay on last Wednesday from the sudan grass which he had sowed along the Weeping Water creek and which returned a very bountiful crop.

Frank Marshall, the elevator man, was delivering a truck load of oats to the farm of Cam Klesper south west of Weeping Water last Wednesday, the load containing 240 bushels.

John Wood and Minton Wood have been busy hauling gravel from South Bend to the several roads in the vicinity of Wabash and Murdock during the past few weeks, completing the road west from Murdock last Tuesday and later hauling a considerable amount for the road running directly west from Wabash, the same being spread along this road several miles west of town.

R. L. Stanley, the merchant-farmer of Wabash, had the misfortune to have his best horse, valued at nearly $300 become afflicted with sleeping sickness, which has become quite prevalent throughout the middle west. He hastened to secure the services of a veterinarian and now the animal is showing symptoms of improvement, with hope entertained that it will entirely recover.

Reflooring Bridge Wednesday
Louis Schmidt and his assistant, Wm. Murfin, were over west of Murdock Wednesday afternoon of last week, where they were placing a new floor on a bridge which had a number of broken boards and was considered dangerous, thus placing the bridge in shape to prevent danger to vehicles and animals.

Visited Friends in Wabash
Dr. and Mrs. W. L. McBride, of Seibert, Colorado, where Dr. McBride is engaged in practice, and John McBride and his mother of Topeka, Kansas, were guests during the past week at the home of Miss Myrtle Woods and as well at that of John Woods of Wabash and Minton Woods and wife of Elmwood for a number of days during the past week.

Nightwatchman at Fair
Guy Hinds was appointed as a nightwatchman at the Cass county fair at Weeping Water and had some startling experience the first night on duty when he was kept busy routing young boys who were intent on syphoning gas from cars, and taking radiator and gas tank caps as well as such other things as they could get their hands on. A few shots from Guy's trusty six-shooter soon scattered the boys, but it was difficult to catch them, as they were too fleet on foot and got away without being apprehended.

Small factories will find welcome and the opportunity to expand (through river transportation) in Plattsmouth.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste
Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered, and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.
You may suffer nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, sweating, puffiness under the eyes—feeling weak, nervous, all played out.
In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your druggist.

I'M A NEW WOMAN THANKS TO PURSANG
Yes, Pursang contains, in properly balanced proportions, such proven elements as organic copper and iron. Quickly stimulates appetite and aids nature in building rich, red blood even in cases of simple anemia. When this happens, energy and strength usually return. You feel like new. Get Pursang from your druggist.
