Maple Grove to Go After Years. Fifty years ago Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Troop, then engaged in farming, planted a maple grove just across the road west from where Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Troop now reside. The grove thrived and grew and in the course of years made a very fine grove, but the very dry years just past wrought havoc with that and many other like groves, the majority of the trees being killed by the drought and now all are being cut down. C. R. Troop with Mr. Brooks of Plattsmouth, Victor Wehrlein, George and Tommy Troop have been chopping the grove down. After a half century of care and cultivation this particular spot is to be denuded of its trees and returned to farming. Relative to the cutting down of trees Joyce Kilmer, who died in 1916 has immortalized himself by the following verse:

"TREES"
I think that I shall never see
A poem as lovely as a tree,
A tree whose hungry mouth is prest
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast,
A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray.
A tree that in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair,
Upon whose bosom snow has lain,
Who intimately lives with rain,
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

Former Plattsmouth Man Misses Wedding Date

Lester Kinnamon Who Had Disappeared from Council Bluffs Home—Returns from "Party"

Home from a one-week "disappearance," Lester Kinnamon, 42, of 1308 Eighth avenue, Council Bluffs, formerly of Plattsmouth, explained to his 16-year-old bride-to-be, Agnes Vincel, 1006 South Thirteenth street, that a swell party in St. Joseph, Mo., was responsible for his abrupt departure on their wedding eve.

With everything forgiven, Kinnamon and Agnes were making plans today for a new wedding date.

When Kinnamon vanished December 2, his mother, Mrs. Herman Fields, reported to police, fearing foul play. But Kinnamon returned home late Thursday night, and he and Mrs. Fields rushed at once to the home of the bride-to-be, where a joyful reunion was held.

"It Was This Way"
"It was this way," Kinnamon explained. "Thursday evening, December 2, I went to a meeting with some old war buddies with $80—part of my disability pension check—in my pocket. The boys suggested after the meeting we throw a party in St. Joseph, but I said: 'I can't; I'm going to get married tomorrow.'"
Then Kinnamon related, his buddies offered to take him home. He got into the rear seat of their car, he said, and a couple of them started talking fast and the first he knew they were near Glenwood, Ia.

As long as they had gone that far, he concluded, he might as well continue to St. Joseph. There, he said, they had a swell party until his money ran out. They all returned to Council Bluffs Thursday night.

Awaits New Check
On the heels of the Thursday night reunion the couple had a grand time Friday evening at Kinnamon's home playing an old-fashioned gramophone.

The couple had planned to be married December 3 before a justice of the peace at Glenwood, Ia.; now the groom-to-be said, he'll have to wait for another disability check. Both expressed belief the ceremony will be held during December. Sunday is Agnes' seventeenth birthday.

Kinnamon late in 1935 obtained a divorce from Mrs. Anna Blanchard Kinnamon after testifying their marriage followed his drinking a "drugged" bottle of pop. The two days he lived with her, Kinnamon testified, cost him a $400 car. A property settlement regarding the car accompanied the divorce decree.

their son, Eugene, who is a member of the U. S. navy and located at Los Angeles.

MUST HAVE SECURITY NUMBERS

Temporary Christmas employees, taken on by department stores, hotels and other business firms, were reminded today by Fred M. Wilcox, regional director of the Social Security Board in Minneapolis, that they must have social security numbers.

"This regulation applies to all temporary employees, no matter whether they work a few days or two or three weeks at holiday time," Mr. Wilcox pointed out, so that when employers make federal wage information returns in January, the wages earned by these temporary employees can be credited to their social security accounts.

Social security numbers can be secured promptly by calling at or writing offices of the Social Security Board in the following cities:

- Iowa—Des Moines, Council Bluffs, Davenport, Sioux City.
- Nebraska—Omaha, Lincoln, North Platte.
- Minnesota—Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, Albert Lea, St. Cloud.
- North Dakota—Fargo, Minot, Grand Forks.
- South Dakota—Aberdeen, Sioux Falls, Rapid City.
