Death Toll 568 for the Three Day Holiday

Automobile Accidents Lead the List of Causes of Violent Death Over the Nation.

By United Press
The nation's 1938 Independence Day celebration was the costliest in history from a standpoint of lives lost.

A United Press survey showed that 568 persons died violently throughout the country during the triple holiday weekend. This was an all-time high in casualties surpassing by 8 the record established during last year's July 4 celebration.

Automobile fatalities again topped the casualty list. At least 272 persons died in highway accidents—nearly as many as by all other forms of violence combined. Drownings took 144 lives. The remaining deaths resulted from suicides, shootings, stabbings, falls, minor plane crashes, freak accidents and other miscellaneous types of violence. Fireworks were responsible for only four deaths.

The remainder died in shootings, from falls, and freak accidents. There were only three fireworks fatalities, two in Virginia and one in Pennsylvania.

California and Illinois headed the state-by-state list of casualties with a total of 45 each. New York had 42, and Pennsylvania 35.

West Virginia, South Carolina, Nebraska and Montana were the only states which reported no violent deaths during the long holiday.

Seventeen persons were injured severely, last night at Portage Park, Chicago when a huge mass of fireworks exploded prematurely. A crowd of about 20,000 persons was thrown into a panic for several minutes as sky rockets, bombs, and pin wheels were discharged promiscuously. The accident boosted to 62 the number of persons injured by fireworks in the Chicago area.

A near panic occurred at Springfield, Ill., when a small boy lit a sky rocket which sailed into an outdoor display of fireworks. The explosion sent motorists and pedestrians scurrying to safety.

A ten-year-old boy was killed and 11 others injured, five seriously, when two racing automobiles locked wheels and careened into a crowd of spectators at a speedway in Hohokus, N. J.

Four persons were killed when their automobile was struck by a train near Joliet, Ill., last night. Three others were killed when two automobiles crashed near Rochelle, Ill.

Dr. C. S. Boucher New Chancellor of University

Named by Regents to Succeed Chancellor E. A. Burnett Who Retired at Own Request.

LINCOLN, July 6 (UP)—The University of Nebraska board of regents today announced the retirement of Chancellor E. A. Burnett and the appointment of Dr. C. S. Boucher, president of the West Virginia University, as the new chancellor.

Chancellor Burnett who has been in poor health during recent months retired at his own request after 11 years as administrative head of the school. He was accorded the rank of chancellor emeritus. The retiring chancellor is 72.

Dr. Boucher, 52, will assume his new post September 1. He received his undergraduate and graduate degrees from the University of Michigan, taught history at six universities and was dean of the University of Chicago arts college before taking over the presidency of West Virginia University in 1935. His salary will be $12,000 a year. Chancellor Burnett has been receiving $10,200 for several years as the result of an economy cut. He formerly was paid $12,000.

The regents expressed appreciation of Chancellor Burnett's service and stated they regarded Dr. Boucher as exceptionally well qualified. The board said it conducted a "careful search" of prospects and stated Dr. Boucher was endorsed by the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching.

Chancellor Burnett informed the board he desired to relinquish active leadership because of the increasing strain of the position.

His retirement came as a mild surprise although not entirely unexpected because he would have reached the retirement age of 73 in October. He and Mrs. Burnett will leave Friday for a brief visit with their son Knox in New York City.

Dr. Boucher will remain for several days in Lincoln, then will return to Morgantown, W. Va., to wind up his affairs. He will spend August at his summer home in Charlevoix, Michigan. Dr. Boucher is married and has one daughter, Jane Elizabeth, a graduate of Smith college. He has been active in many educational and historical organizations and is an authority on post-war southern history. The retiring chancellor has been a member of the University of Nebraska faculty for 39 years and was dean of the college of agriculture for many years before he was named chancellor.

SALES

Some queer sales in early Nebraska are reported by research workers of the Federal Writers' Project, WPA. In 1878 an Omaha man paid a dollar a pound for a hairless calf born in Pawnee county. The calf weighed 175 pounds and was three months old at the time of the sale. The same year, a man living on the Verdigris river sold his wife to another man for seven bushels of wheat, an old cooking stove, and a tent. He then very obligingly moved out of the house, leaving the purchaser in possession of it, and took up his residence in an adjoining milk house. According to newspaper accounts, some people thought he drove a hard bargain.

Hundreds Die in the Collapse of Reservoirs

Kobe, Japan, Is Scene of Disaster as City's Main Source of Water Supply Collapses.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6 (UP)—Approximately 40 Europeans and nearly 600 school children died when three water reservoirs collapsed sending a deluge of water down the streets of Kobe, Japan, radio operators aboard the S. S. President Cleveland anchored there informed Globe Wireless offices here today.

The torrent which placed Kobe's Broadway, the Matomachi, under 10 feet of water, left "death, distress and destruction" in its wake, the Dollar Liner vessel's radio said.

The disaster, according to Globe, occurred at 9 a. m. July 5 (6 p. m. Tuesday est.).

"Thousands of Japanese are said to be drowned," the brief messages from Kobe said.

Chief Radio Man H. Estep told Globe operators here that "the city's main source of water is gone."

Passengers aboard the vessel who were to have disembarked at Kobe are marooned aboard the steamer. The ship is commanded by Captain Otto Kohlmeister.

Estep accompanied by the second radio man, Carl Lowe, toured the stricken area where he reported they found the main street a "torrent of raging water."

"We could only cross (the Motomachi) in certain places where wires were strong. Street currents were very strong. The water was about waist high," Estep reported.

"Thousands of homes have been destroyed and all transportation is stopped," Estep said.

OSKA, Japan, July 6 (UP)—Official figures issued here placed the known death toll in the flood area of Hyogo prefecture at 441 and estimated that more than 1,000 persons had been injured.

The figures included 185 dead in Kobe, 26 at Hanshin and 200 at other points in the prefecture.

DROWNS IN BLUE RIVER

BEATRICE, Neb., July 5 (UP)—Nebraska's record of no fatal accidents over the Fourth of July weekend was marred here early today when Louis Sand, 34, of Odell drowned accidentally in the Blue river near Riverside Municipal park where a Fourth of July celebration was underway.

Police said Sand's wife was the only witness of the drowning. She told officers Sand fell into the river accidentally, but swam around until apparently seized by cramps. He was a good swimmer, Mrs. Sand told police. Firemen and volunteers found the body after a half hour search but efforts to revive Sand were futile.

LUCKY URGES PRICE BOOST

LINCOLN, July 5 (UP)—Congressman Henry C. Luckey, D., Neb., telegraphed Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today to urge action halting the decline in wheat prices.

He said wheat quotations have dropped in other elevators to 60 cents per bushel and below and he described as "far below the cost of production." Lucky asserted farmers believe the present downward trend is due in large measure to "price manipulation by speculators."

Bible School Lesson Study!

Sunday, July 10th By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"Caleb: Life Time Devotion"
Numbers 13:26-33; Joshua 14: 6-15.

We are studying a character that has no equal in history; no faults are recorded, but his record says: (a) he is the only man in the Bible who "wholly followed God;" (b) he is the only man known who asked for a hard task; (c) he is the only man who got rid of all the heathen out of his inheritance—a unique character. No mention is made of Caleb until he was chosen as one of the twelve spies, to represent the tribe of Judah; looking up his history we find that his father's name was Jephneh, who is called a Kenizzite, from a tribe of people descending from Kenaz, a grandson of Esau (Gen. 36:11-15; I Chron. 1:36). He was not a full-blooded Hebrew, and yet, though a stranger by birth, he became one of Israel's most illustrious ornaments, and may be counted as one of the first fruits of the "Gentile harvest," of which were Jethro, Rahab, Ruth, Naaman, and many others were samples.

As one of the spies, he brought in a minority report, the opposite of the ten. He did not have the "grass-hopper complex," but a strong faith in the promise of God.

This sending of the spies took place when the Israelites had reached the southern border of the promised land at Kadesh-barnea. The twelve men saw the whole land, 150 miles long by 40 miles wide; Joshua and Caleb had seen what the other ten had seen; still their report differed. (Observe the report of the ten spies. Num. 13:27-29; a supplementary report, vs. 31-33). The last clause of verse 33 has always been a fascinating one for students and preachers: "We were in our own sight as grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight." What men think of themselves is reflected in the judgment of their fellow-men. If they are grasshoppers in their own sight, they will be accepted as nothing better than grasshoppers by others. The world has a way of taking us at our own estimate.

The result: Israel, after leaving Egypt 18 months, could have entered upon their inheritance, but instead must go back 38 1/2 years, according to the forty days the spies were gone, one year for each day. Caleb was forty years old when he went as a spy; now he is eighty-five, as the war of conquest took seven years.

All the tribes have been located, but Caleb's, who represented the tribe of Judah; he comes to Joshua and reminds him of an agreement he had with Moses, which Joshua knew. In retrospect, we see all the men above twenty who left Egypt, dead, except Joshua and Caleb, so the oldest men in Israel were now sixty years old.

Caleb comes with a strange request, knowing full well what he was asking, which is so contrary to the way of men that we are astonished; by asking for the hill country inhabited by giants, a fierce warlike tribe, he shows his fearlessness and can boast of his physical strength. We do not wonder at this; any man who lives close to God as Caleb did, will find that "godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come." (I Tim. 4:7) and "Godliness with contentment is great gain." (I Tim. 6:6).

The lesson here is: If a man will wholly follow God, live in the consciousness of God's presence, he will not indulge in things harmful to his body—which he regards as the temple of the Holy Spirit—he will conserve his strength. (This writer at 84 finds his faculties unimpaired, and his physical powers normal). Following the Lord "wholly" implies to be about the Father's business; seeking first the Kingdom of God; he knows we have here no abiding city, but seek one to come; he does not worry, but casts his burden upon the Lord—and leaves it there; he knows his Lord will come unexpectedly, therefore he is ever ready to meet him.

Caleb "followed wholly the Lord," we have this testimony from God, Moses and Caleb. We want some such men now. We must not dismiss old workers who are willing to continue the work. Have no faith in any Christian communion that wants to get rid of the old pastor who has borne the burden and the heat of day, who loved and suffered long before many of his critics were born. They were brave men in their day. Some of them are as young now as they were when they were forty.

Caleb got his wish. He received Joshua's blessing, then set to work and drove the giants out; he was victorious because he lived victoriously. Our failures in expelling the giants of the heart, in dealing with inbred corruption, and the assaults of Satan are almost entirely due to some failure in consecration. The Anakim, drunkenness, sensuality, avarice, luxurious living, must be destroyed, or they destroy us.
