

AIR CONDITION FUNERAL HOME

The Sattler funeral home at Fourth and Vine streets has just completed the installing of a fine air conditioning system that makes the first floor of the home most comfortable in the face of the intense heat that might prevail.

The conditioner is a Delco-Frigidaire and its vents open into the chapel of the funeral home and can keep it at a very low temperature even with a large group in the chapel.

The cooling force of the system is estimated to equal 600 tons of ice daily in preserving a temperature of comfort throughout the rooms of the first floor.

The system filters the air which is returned and is kept pure and at an even temperature.

The system was installed by Jess Warga.

The funeral home in addition to the new air conditioning system, also has been given a thorough cleaning and the family room of the home repaired and made most attractive while the operating room also has been redecorated and is now spotless in its condition.

Film Beauty—(Below) Jean Parker, lovely screen actress, as she appears in a forthcoming film.

Lucious native fruits grown between rows of 40-foot-high kapok trees are sold locally by natives between seasons in Java, the Netherlands Indies. The kapok is shipped all over the world for use in mattresses and pillows. Gentleman to the right playing Javanese flute uses long pole for knocking pods from kapok trees.

(Right) Don Schumacker gets out of a sand trap at the 7th hole during play in the Western open golf tournament held recently in St. Louis, Mo.

The Bear Facts—(Below) Sam Bear attempts to make a bare landing, but Barbara blarps and bears her teeth, while Sam grins and bears it.

Rock Bound—Susan Hayward rambles about the rocks on the shores of the Pacific. She was chosen from the model ranks for a movie contract.

Fun For Jelly-Makers! Frances Lee Barton, head of the nation's Jelly Making Club, tops her homemade spreads with decorative paper bonnets. The practical little covers—with such essentials as colander, wooden spoon, accurate measuring cup and paraffin pourer—are included in a special ten piece kit which the home economist designed for club members.

Remote Control Mower—Millersville, Pa.—With this remote control contraption, Alvin Lodge, lame, unemployed mechanical engineer, mows his lawn without moving from his chair. Made up of sundry gears and wires, it worked perfectly on the first trial run.

"Earthquake" Violin—Pasadena, Calif.—Working from the idea of the seismograph, Dr. Hugo Benioff, of the California Institute of Technology, has developed the "earthquake" violin, whose mellow tone has amazed musicians. In place of the wooden sounding box there is a small aluminum container under the strings.

Summer Showers—This little girl apparently doesn't like the portable shower at all and gives vent to her own "shower" of tears.

Measuring Your Breakfast—Business and industry constantly utilize new scientific developments to improve products. Consumers Information cites use of the spectro-photometer, shown above, which is being employed by a large producer of poultry feed to check vitamin content of eggs. You can't tell food value of an egg by looking at it, or even by tasting it, but this device tells the story in an instant and proves which feeds are best.

Hat Fashions—(1) For spectator sports—wear—a wide brim powder blue felt to shade the eyes. It has a crown with peaked drape at the front and is banded with wine colored belting ribbon. (2) An amusing hat and shirred bag of violet anellope, trimmed with lingerie ruffles like the "canaan" dancers' panties. (3) An aquiline blue kid with wide up-swept brim. The trim is stitched navy blue belting ribbon.
