JOURNAL OPENS NEW QUAKER OATS ADVERTISING DRIVE

For a number of weeks prior to our issue of August 4th, the familiar Quaker Oats advertising has not been seen in the Journal—not because of failure to renew the contract, for we are now starting on the third year of well nigh steady (except for seasonal let-ups) publication of Quaker advertising.

This time, because the Quaker company has been changing advertising agencies, a little longer delay than usual has been experienced in getting the ads running again.

It was two years ago that Quaker cut down on their large paper advertisements to give the small town dailies and weeklies a trial over a six months period. So successful did that trial prove, that ever since, a great majority of the more than 500 papers in which advertising was ordered are still presenting Quaker's advertising message to their readers, as mounting sales repeatedly inform the Quaker company that they made no mistake in contracting ads in the smaller papers.

Local grocers are co-operating in this extensive new drive to publicize the health benefits and economy of Quaker Oats as a year-around cereal, by stocking new fresh supplies, arranging window and shelf displays and calling attention to their own ads to Quaker Oatmeal as nature's richest economical food source of Thiamin (Vitamin B) the food element that is essential for sound nerves and good digestion.

Read the new series of Quaker ads now appearing in the Semi-Weekly Journal.

PICK UP INJURED MAN

Sunday afternoon Clyde Kohler, who claims his residence at Tekamah, was found wandering along the highway near the Platte river and was brought on into this city as he had apparently been injured in a wreck. The injured man stated to Deputy Sheriff Cass Sylvester that he had been riding with a stranger and who had beat up on him and inflicted lacerations and bruises. Later the man claimed to have been in a small auto smashup and which had caused him additional cuts. The man was treated at the office of Dr. O. C. Hudson and remained at the Hotel Plattsmouth until the arrival of members of his family to take him home.

SPENT WEEK END HERE

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Tomlinson, of Indianola, Iowa, Mrs. Lydia M. Davis of Cantril, Iowa, and Frank L. Ozburn and family of Wauke, Iowa, were guests over the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Briggs. Mesdames Tomlinson and Davis are sisters of Mrs. Briggs.

During the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Franzen and three daughters, Mary, Jean and Dorothy, of Omaha, also joined the other visitors at the home of the parents of Mrs. Franzen.

HERE WITH RELATIVES

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Rys, of Chicago, with their son, George, have been visiting here with Mrs. Anna Rys, mother of Frank. Their visit has been very much enjoyed by all of the family.
