PROMINENT ELMWOOD MAN DIES

Music was furnished by Mrs. V. G. Clements, with Mrs. Myron Boyd as accompanist. Pallbearers were L. L. Caygill, Grover Hill, Joe Parriott, Ed Earnst, Herman Engelking and Fred Engelking. Interment was in the Elmwood cemetery.

Following is an outline of his life: Fourth Jay Fitch was born March 8, 1878 in Omaha, Nebr. He was the youngest of four children, two girls and two boys. Most of his early years were spent in the vicinity of Omaha.

He was married to Bertha Belle McFall of Elmwood, Nebr., on October 14, 1903. The first few years of his married life, he and his wife lived in Omaha. Here was born their first child, a son, who died in infancy. Mr. Fitch was at this time an engineer on the Union Pacific railroad.

In the year 1910 he and his wife moved to Elmwood, at which time he left the employ of the Union Pacific and established himself in the well-drilling business. He never returned to Omaha to live, for his desire had always been to make his home in a small town.

In the year 1923 he left the well-drilling business to enter real estate. As a colonization agent he sold land in many states of the union. He remained in this work until the time of his death.

Mr. Fitch joined the Christian church of Elmwood in 1922, the church of which his wife and daughters were already members.

He died at his home October 5, 1938 at the age of sixty years, six months and twenty-seven days, after an illness of several months.

He is survived by his wife, Bertha, and his three daughters, Mrs. Henry Knaup, Athene Fitch and Ruth Fitch, and one grandson, Rodney Fourth Knaup. Also living are his father, William Fitch, his brother Frank and his two sisters, Mrs. William Weber, and Mrs. Charles Thatcher, all of Omaha.

Mr. Fitch was an active worker in the Elmwood Christian church, having been one of the board members for several years. He was also a member of the local Independent Order of Odd Fellows.
