J. M. Quackenbush Resigns as County Agent

Resignation to Take Effect on January 1st When He Will Take Up Other Lines of Work.

J. M. Quackenbush, who for the past several months has served as the Cass county extension agent, a part of the Cass county farm bureau activities, has notified the directors of the organization of his resignation to be effective on January 1st.

Mr. Quackenbush is to enter the service of the Skilly interests, who handle a large amount of farming lands in Gage and adjoining counties, representing a large English and eastern syndicate.

The residents over Cass county will regret to learn of his decision to leave the service of the extension department, as he has been very popular with the general public and showed a high type of ability in handling his part of the extension program in all parts of the county and in especially stimulating interest in the 4-H club activities.
