

Weeping Water

Mrs. Ross Shields has been suffering from a severe attack of the flu which has kept her from her work for a number of days.

Joseph I. Corley who has not been feeling the very best was over to Lincoln to consult his family physician last Monday.

Miss Anna Hart was hostess to the members of the Knickerbockers club last Tuesday, with a delightful supper at the Rest Haven hotel, following which they played bridge.

Mrs. J. E. Corley and Mrs. Vorhees both of Lincoln, were attending the funeral of the late William A. Corley at Adams and later came to Weeping Water to visit at the home of J. I. Corley.

The community building has proceeded so far as to complete the excavation for the footing, had to stop temporarily as the needed material cannot be secured just now. As soon as it can be secured the work will be continued.

Little Jean Elizabeth Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seward P. Day who with the parents moved from Weeping Water to Lincoln a few months ago was visiting in Weeping Water with her little friends for a number of days during the past week.

The woman's guild of the Congregational church were gathered at the home of Mrs. Edward Laurensen last Tuesday where they looked after the business of the society after which they enjoyed a pleasant social hour with a delightful lunch closing their pleasant gathering.

Weeping Water Masons Elect.

At the meeting of the Masonic lodge last week after the business had been disposed of the election of officers was held, the following being selected: Clarence E. Pool, worshipful master; Gardner R. Binger, senior warden; E. A. Stiekley, junior warden; Chris Rasmussen, secretary. The appointive officers will be selected before the next meeting.

Meets Serious Accident.

Randall Oldham, who makes his home at Los Angeles where he is in command of a bread route, while engaged in playing basketball on a concrete court was unfortunate in falling and fracturing one of his arms at the elbow. After having the fracture reduced, he was able to secure a driver and continued his work, not being as serious as first thought.

Produces a Riot of Fun.

The Junior class play, presented last week, was filled to overflowing with fun, humor and wit, as was proved when the audience was kept in an uproar from the raising of the curtain on the first act until the end. People attending tell of the excellent playing of little Robert Willis who took the part of a doctor and hotel keeper, ably supported by others of the class. The play was called "One Mad Night" and the way it took with the audience it would seem that it was rightly named.

Moves to Arkansas.

Some time ago a brother of Tom Edgemont moved to southern Missouri where he resided for some time and then moved over into Arkansas, has written Thomas to come as things look pretty good down that way. Last week Earl Oldham with his truck moved Thomas Edgemont to Arkansas where he is now located and working.

Returning, Mr. Oldham stopped at Branson and visited in the wilds of Tany county for a short time and was able to purchase some candlestick holders made from cedar on which was burnt in "The Shepherd of the Hills," as they were manufactured where the story written by Harold Bell Wright, "Shepherd of the Hills," was laid. He also visited at the old home of Mrs. Oldham at Dunnigan, Mo., arriving home Monday evening.

Entertain at Reception.

Mrs. Jane DeLaney was hostess in company with the husband as host to a reception last Monday at her home when she entertained some forty of the officers and personnel of the CCC camp. The evening was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Chauck. Mrs. Chauck was formerly Mrs. Freda Johnson who united in marriage with Mr. Chauck several weeks ago.

Wm. A. Corley Passes in South.

William A. Corley, 79 years of age last winter, who has made his home at Adams for more than fifty years, unmarried, and brother of our townsman, Joseph I. Corley, came to Weeping Water early in September, but being in poor health went to Eureka Springs, Arkansas for his health. He passed away there Friday of last week. The funeral was held at Adams. He was a devoted member of the Presbyterian church from which the funeral was held last Sunday and laid to rest in the quiet churchyard of that city.

Mr. Corley was born in Somerset county, Penn., March 8, 1859. He leaves to mourn his passing J. I. Corley, a brother of Weeping Water, two nieces, Mrs. Catherine Kideil Brigham of Pennsylvania, Miss Martha Corley of Madison, Wis., both being here to attend the funeral.

Garden Club Meets.

The members of the Garden club were meeting last week, making realistic the practice of gardening and learning to get some of the very fine fruits and flowers which mother nature so lavishly gives to all who seek to win her favor. The Garden club seeks to bring all its members a full measure of the good things which can be produced in the garden and what the garden can do to supply the living of the home.

Preparing for Christmas.

With Jean G. Jones, instructor of music in the Weeping Water schools as their instructor, and with from 50 to 60 voices in the chorus and much patient practice, there is being prepared a surprise for not alone Weeping Water but all of Cass county who may be within driving distance of Weeping Water when they shall come to enjoy the cantata which is being prepared. Christmas is to be realistic in its decorations, in the songs which are to revive the real Christmas spirit, and as well the scene of the "Nativity" the stable in the basement of the inn where there was "No place in the inn for the Saviour of mankind to be born." The churches are bringing this real Christmas spirit at a time when there is so much of unemployment and lack of funds to buy the gifts and in many cases inexpensive which is to make the hearts of the little ones glad of which the Christ said, "Suffer the little ones and forbid them not to come unto me."

The evening entertainment will be held in the Congregational church where more people can attend. This entertainment is to be filled with the Christmas spirit and you are entitled to see it. Come and bring the family.

Weeping Water Wants Sewerage.

The matter of a sewage system for Weeping Water has been greatly discussed pro and con, all admitting that it was necessary for sanitary purposes and as well to prevent damage from storms, but was considered as costing too much and making taxes higher. When the time came to vote it was the sense of the citizenry that the system be had, notwithstanding the cost will be $112,000. On account of the necessity for the materials which are hard to get in and the lateness of the season, the building of the sewers will be postponed until spring. However, it is to come and bring employment to those wanting work and as well bring health to the inhabitants.

HERE FOR WEEK END

Miss Jessie Robertson, of Lincoln, who is engaged in state library work, was here over Saturday and Sunday to visit her mother, Mrs. James Robertson, Sr., and the relatives and many old time friends. Miss Robertson has been engaged in the library work for the past several years and enjoys very much the fascinating work.

LOOK FOR BIG LOAN

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 14 (UP)—Chinese newspapers expressed belief today that a $50,000,000 U. S. loan to China had been arranged and would be concluded at Washington soon.

"COMON IN THE WATER'S FINE"—And why not? The water's always fine in this household. It comes crystal clear and pure right from the hot water tap without rust or dirt. New hot water storage tanks are made of rustproof monel to keep the water clean.

IN VACATIONLAND—(1) A bathing suit of black and white rayon moire for sea or pool. (2) A smart bathing suit and cape of plain and printed rayon jersey.

COPS HONOR KIDDER—Jay Irving, comic artist, who has been made an honorary member of police departments from coast to coast as a result of his drawings in Collier's depicting the doings of dumb cops. He has a whole collection of special badges contributed by police officers who enjoy his spoofs at their expense.

PERSONALITIES IN THE NEWS — (1) Dr. Ross T. McIntire, White House physician for five years, appointed surgeon general of the Navy with the rank of Rear Admiral. (2) Dr. Emil Hacha, President of the Supreme Court, elected President of the Czechoslovak Republic by the National Assembly, succeeding Dr. Eduard Benes. (3) Davey O'Brien, the Mighty Mite from Texas Christian University, who was recently picked as the most valuable football player of the year.

IN ROSE BOWL CLASSIC—Duke University's Blue Devils, who will oppose the University of Southern California in the Rose Bowl on January 2nd. Left to right: Bailey, Haas, Yorke, Hill, Johnson, Ribar and Ferdue. In the backfield are Spangler, Tipton, O'Mara and Eaves. Inset: Head Coach Wallace Wade.

LITTLE REBEL—This busy squirrel perches on the driest spot he can find and busily goes about his business. Maybe he doesn't believe in signs.

PRAISES FOOD MEN—Gertrude B. Lane, famous editor of the Woman's Home Companion, who told annual convention of Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America that scientific standards of food manufacturers have been growing steadily higher in the past 20 years.

BEHIND THE SCENES — (Left) "Hands up!" means only one thing to the state trooper — shoot. If he misses, another star is added to the roll of honor. (Right) Calls for bloodhounds frequently come from neighboring states—therefore this special two-compartment trailer for loading the dogs.

HOLLYWOOD FASHION WEAR — Ann Rutherford displays a hat of brown felt with feathered bird perched at center front. Gay colored stripes fashion the jacket and top coat, with monotone beige for the straight skirt. Mary Howard (left) chooses honey brown for skirt and top coat with over-blouse in mustard and deep brown with mustard band for the pull-on felt hat.

ICE SKATING ON BEACH—Venice, Calif.—Pretty bathers stage a skating carnival on the semi-tropic beach, as America's first beach-ice sports open here. But the sun can't melt this rink, as it is made with chemicals, the "hot ice" used in many movies.
