

City Postpones Revision of Ordinances

Plan Would Place Most of Work in Omaha and Not Satisfactory—Have Short Session.

The city council had a short session Monday evening with the greater part of the time occupied in the discussion of the proposed WPA project of revision, coding and publishing of the city ordinances, a proposition that has been hanging fire since last summer.

The matter was brought up by Chairman Rehal of the judiciary committee, who reported that George Mann, attorney slated to have charge of the work was engaged in legislative matters, that the labor element that had been promised was not apparently to be supplied. A letter from L. L. Knopp, supervisor of the work stated that at the time there

Farmer Gets a Load On at Elmwood

He Filled His Car With Merchandise of Merit From BOTHWELL'S CASH & CARRY CLOVER FARM STORE

"Service That Satisfies" Norval Bothwell, Prop.

Certain business houses are successful in a community because they consistently and faithfully supply constant needs to the public. This well known firm certainly comes under this classification. Mr. Bothwell knows that groceries, meats, fruits and vegetables are a necessity which are wanted quickly and at any moment. He feels that success in this line will go to the firm that is able to supply the wants of the people at time of need.

In studying the needs of these people he has learned many things during the past. Important among these is that as complete a stock as possible must be kept on hand at all times.

Each customer must be given the same attention. These features have become a part of his business policy to please the public at all costs. Such service is bound to reap dividends. This store has fixtures and furniture of a type that aid in the prompt handling of all stock and make it a very convenient store from which to buy. In this review we are pleased to refer Bothwell's Clover Farm Store of Elmwood to all our readers. Mr. Bothwell and his employees are never too busy to pass the time of day with you or say "Hello" to a friend who may be a visitor. These elements in their dispositions could not help but make this concern popular.

had been sufficient skilled labor for the work but now but two such qualified were registered in the county. The work would cover only work for four persons for four weeks or a month. The WPA offices would be able to send in skilled workers from the outside to handle the work. The supervisor was not in a position to state as to Mr. Mann's ability to carry on the work as had been planned.

Paul Haberlaine, of the WPA staff was present and gave a short talk on the matter. He said that George Mann had been granted an indefinite leave of absence to work on the legislative revision. The preliminary survey of the city ordinances had been made, the speaker having been looking after this portion of the work. If agreeable to the council the preliminary work of typing could be started. While preliminary typing could be done here, it would be necessary to take the work to Omaha for completion. The classification would be made in two classes, ordinances of a special nature and those of a general nature.

There was some question as to what additional sums might be necessary for the city to pay in addition to that already made for material. It was stated that the city proportional share of the general office expense would be $7.21, but it might be necessary to have this increased. City Attorney J. H. Davis did not think that the need was great enough for the expense, that the amount spent might go into a larger labor hiring project of some kind.

DON'T

Take Your Produce to Griffin's Produce at Union . . . Unless You are Looking for Top Prices, Honest Weights and Courteous Service!

With produce a staple commodity in the American home, the price of produce, now seemingly low, is bound to rise. Every home in America must serve produce in some form in order to maintain a standard of health and vigor in their family. The chicken raiser and the dairyman have always been ahead of the grain farmer. Stick to the hen and to the cows.

Griffin's Produce at Union has provided a "money crop" for the farmers. The valuable year around "money crop" is in its poultry and dairy products. Cream checks, egg money and receipts from the sale of chickens is the money upon which the good farmer depends to carry along the every-day expenses of living. These returns pay the grocery bills, buy gasoline, buy a new radio, keep things in repair and establish the standard upon which the Nebraska farmer lives—a standard higher than known in any other district.

Griffin's produce prices are as high or higher than any place in the country. Their service truck is available for picking up poultry for any one near or far. They have built their station from the lower levels to the high standard it is today. Mr. Dale Karnopp has secured a blacksmith to continue on in his place. If you want to patronize a new station that pays the best prices for produce, we suggest you drop in at the Griffin's Produce at Union. They will appreciate your patronage.

On motion the matter was laid over until a later time after the close of the legislative session.

On the matter of the claim of the McMaken Transfer Co., for $84 for hauling the boulders for markers over the city, it was voted to allow the sum of $80 for the expense.

Councilman Webb of the tax and property committee urged that efforts be made to rent the upper floor of the Petersen building for apartments at once. He also reported that sale of tax lots and their improvements was progressing very well.

Chairman Tippens of the streets, alleys and bridges committee, reported that the work of cutting brush and clearing up Maiden Lane had been temporarily laid off. He also reported that John Kubicka, employee of the street department, was still off duty on account of an accident a week ago Saturday.

Chairman J. C. Comstock reported that on bids for electroliter globes that J. F. Wurga was the lowest on the canopy type and Robert Cappell on the plain or box type. Six of each of these had been purchased by the city for replacement purposes.

C. E. Markham of the WPA reported that there was more dirt found at the quarry where rock was being secured for the Chicago avenue sewer. This made the stripping more expensive, he had found a new quarry near Louisville that would be less expensive altho a greater distance to haul. He would take the matter up with the committee.

On motion of Councilman Vroman, crushed rock along the edge of Lincoln avenue rock road, will be moved into the center where the surface is lighter to stop washing.

The following bills were ordered paid by the council:

Cappell Elect. Co., globes and sockets	$ 30.80
Ivan Taylor, street work	41.40

CO-OPERATIVE PLAN O-K Farmers Co-Op Union

Managed by Ed Ernest is Doing An Increased Business.

There is no substitute for a farmers elevator. During the past years there has been many a substitute tried out and they have failed. Your Elmwood elevator stood the test of the most disturbing financial storms of all times. Every stockholder should be proud of his own institution. The personnel of the Farmers Co-Op Union of Elmwood is a home owned enterprise, owned by the citizens of the community. The future of agriculture is dependent on the choice of the farmer makes today—whether he co-operates with his fellows for the common good, or whether he continues to do business as a separate entity in a world in which cooperation in all lines grows steadily more necessary.

The latter course means a declining general demoralization of his business. The former course means eventual prosperity and a sound, progressive agricultural structure in this territory.

The Farmers' Co-Op Union was established in 1915, and has been managed by Mr. Ernest for 10 years. This firm has to offer for the approval of the farmers and citizens an up-to-date establishment that specializes in grain, coal, salt, posts, feeds and McCormick-Deering implements. In its 24 years this firm has been conducted upon high business principles and provides a superior service. We feel unusual satisfaction in recommending this elevator to the readers of the Journal.

A.A.A. Boosts Farm Gardens

To encourage larger vegetable gardens on farms, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has made an important change in its regulations governing soil depleting crops.

Officials of the department have approved the following statement as a correct description of the new status of home gardens on the farm:

"In the 1939 Agricultural Conservation Programme of the Department of Agriculture, home gardens on the farm are encouraged, by being specifically exempted from the list of soil depleting crops.

"This means a good deal to the farmer. In the past, if he grew a garden, its area was figured in his allotment for soil depleting crops—the cash crops, in other words, upon which he depended for cash income.

"Now he can make his garden without including it in his allotment and thus he is able to devote his entire soil-depleting acreage allotment to cash crops and in addition increase his garden acreage.

"In money value this means a substantial sum, and the new ruling should result in a great increase in farm gardens."

Regulations state that the crops which the farmer can grow in his garden include sweet corn and pop corn, potatoes, peas, and all annual and perennial vegetables which are consumed on the farm. Crops for raising are included so long as they are eaten by the home folks and not sold.

The actual cash value of this new ruling will vary so much in different localities that no figure can be given; but to the farmer who makes a good size home garden it will mean a substantial amount.
