Looking for Water Here.

The city of Nehawka have had a man and machine in town for several days sinking holes for water as the well which they have failed to supply enough water. The wells are good wells for a farm or home but will not provide enough for the entire city.

A WINDOW that isn't closed gives poor protection against any storm.

A home without adequate insurance has little protection against all types of disasters.

DISTRICT NO. 42

June Keil, Teacher, Wins Tenth and Final Weekly $25 Rural School Prize

Ten weekly $25 awards have now been made to ten different schools. And there still remain $250 in grand prizes to be awarded at the close of the contest on April 8th.

School with greatest number of votes at close of contest takes first choice, second highest takes second choice and so on down the line.

Schools now near the bottom of the list may still become first division prize winners—all it takes is votes. It is very apparent some schools have been holding back votes, so some real surprises may be looked for in the final standing.

Every school should make these last ten days count and boost their respective standings as high as possible.

This is the last time the vote standings will be published until the contest is over and the winners are announced. Watch the ads during the last week for special announcements of Bonus Votes, and urge all your friends to do their pre-Easter shopping with Contest Merchants who are making possible the giving of this fine lot of school equipment to the rural schools of this territory.

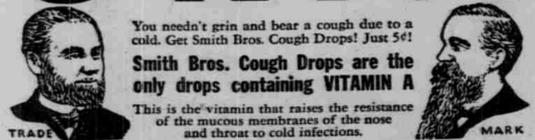

Here is Saturday's standing of all schools that have turned in votes:
