

Wide Range of Awards at Court of Honor

Everything from Eagle Palms Down Included—Eight Troops Represented by 33 Boys.

Bill Hula, Member of Arbor Lodge Scout Press Club. The entire range of awards from Eagle Palms down to Second class Scout were included in the presentations made at last night's Arbor Lodge district court of honor held at the high school auditorium here.

Eight troops—three from Nebraska City and one each from Auburn, Dunbar, Peru, Plattsmouth and Nehawka—furnished 33 candidates for merit badges and advancement in rank.

It is seldom a court of honor provides so complete and varied a list of awards as did this one.

The board of review and examination got off to a slow start, and it was past 8:30 when the court ceremonies began.

E. H. Westcott, J. A. Capwell and Fred Lugsch of the local troop committee, and Searl S. Davis and L. S. Devoe assisted the examining board in the absence of advancement directors from a number of the troop committees.

Plattsmouth troop was represented by four boys. One of these, Raymond Evers, received advancement to the rank of First class Scout. The four and the merit badges they received were:

Corbin Davis—Pathfinding, Personal Health and Scholarship. Raymond Evers—Bookbinding, LARS Larson—Civics and Firemanship.

James Webb—Bird Study, Camping, Lifesaving, Pathfinding, Pioneering and Salesmanship.

Searl S. Davis presented the Plattsmouth Scouts with their awards. Herbert Helms of Auburn received the coveted Eagle award in a most impressive ceremony that incorporated for the first time in Arbor Lodge district Scouting, the return presentation of a miniature Eagle badge by the boy to his mother after she had pinned the regular Eagle badge of Scouting on her son's uniform.

Both the father and mother were on the stage with their son. Presentation was made by E. H. Westcott, vice president of Arbor Lodge district, who acted as chairman of the meeting. Willis V. Elliott, field executive in this area, was here to act as secretary of the meeting.

Bill Rosencrans, Plattsmouth boy now attending the University of Nebraska, was scheduled to receive the Eagle award, but was unable to be present and will receive it at a later court, either in this district or at Lincoln.

At the conclusion of the court of honor ceremonies, E. J. Weyrich showed several reels of motion pictures taken by himself on western and other trips. They were largely in natural color and much enjoyed by the boys and adults present at the court of honor.

Camporee Early in June. Attention was called to the district camporee to be held here early in June, at Camp Wheeler, local Scout camp. This will be similar to last year's and include an overnight camp, after the boys hike in from the disembarkation point at the Murray corner.

MERCHANTS WIN OPENER

The Plattsmouth Merchants opened their season Sunday by trouncing the Four Mile nin 28-9.

"Stub" Sedlak and Les Thimgan did the twirling for the winners and looked very impressive, giving nine hits between them. The Merchants battered four visiting pitchers for 28 runs on 19 hits. The big inning was the third when the Platters scored 7 runs and included a home run wallop by Jack O'Donnell, fast local outfielder.

Joe Phillips was the leading stickler, having four hits for six trips, while "Chuck" Ault and O'Donnell had three apiece. Every regular got at least one safety.

Bible School Lesson Study! Sunday, May 7th By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"Paul Works a Hard Field" Acts 18:1, 4-11; I Cor. 2:1-5.

The material for our lesson is so vast that we can only briefly mention the main incidents, leaving the details to the teacher. Paul was driven from every city he had visited so far, leaving the seed planted for God to bring it to fruition.

Leaving Silas and Timothy at Berea, he passes on to Athens, there to await the coming of his co-workers. Finding a Jewish synagogue, he takes in the city and observes their religion, altars and shrines everywhere to all the "known Gods" and to make sure none are overlooked, an altar to the "unknown gods" was built.

This gave Paul the text for that matchless sermon recorded in Chap. 17, which he preached on Mars hill, in which we note an absence of the doctrine of redemption. His appeal was rather to the reason than to the conscience.

Yet the address was of the highest value, because it presented aspects of truth which were to be of fundamental importance in the coming conflict between Christianity and paganism. The result, however, was disappointing—one Areopagite was converted (Dionysius), a woman Damaris and some others were touched—but no church was ever founded in this city. Why not?

Were they too highly educated? Is education a barrier to religion?

It seemed foolishness to the Greeks (I Cor. 1:22, 23). But left with them this parting word—that they can be saved by repentance and faith in Christ; they can not claim ignorance because he (Paul) had told them the way; and some time they will meet this Christ as their judge (which not many today realize).

Why is Jesus appointed to judge the world? . . . Because as man he knows man's trials and temptations and can have compassion; as God he will not make a mistake, but will be just in meeting out to all their just dues.

No persecution in Athens, but something worse—ridicule and indifference. Not waiting any longer at Athens for Silas and Timothy, Paul starts for Corinth. His second missionary tour, described in Acts 15:36 and 18:22 is drawing to the end, with eighteen months of labor in this great metropolis of some 200,000 free inhabitants and 250,000 slaves. A great field to work in.

"Into this center of commerce, shrine of art, vortex of iniquity, Paul came in the autumn of A. D. 50."—James Strahan.

How long he had been in Corinth before he met Aquila and Priscilla we do not know, nor do we know whether they were Christians or not before they met Paul. These two Jews had been banished from Rome by an edict of Claudius—Jews have been on the go ever since the destruction of Jerusalem and the nation, A. D. 70. The present persecution is nothing new.

Paul became very intimate with these good people, because they worked at the same trade with Paul and their home was the place of Paul's preaching. This made Paul's long stay in Corinth possible. In the first place Paul appealed to their reason, both to Jews and Greeks.

If the Christian religion cannot satisfy reason, it cannot be believed. God will reason with man. (Isa. 1:18; 43:26; Rom. 12:1). In the second place, Paul related his experience in testimony, that Jesus was the Christ, in showing what Christ can do in making a man over. The result is invariably the same—either men accept the word of testimony or they reject it. As
