The "Community Editor Speaks" program on radio station KOIL that has been broadcast at 12 o'clock noon on Saturdays, is being changed to start at 12:15 p. m., effective May 20, according to word received from R. Bruce Wallace, station manager. On this program, important news stories from Iowa and Nebraska daily and weekly papers are broadcast. The Journal has been one of the participating papers ever since the program was started in March, 1938.

The letter from Mr. Wallace also advises that due to a special broadcast of the Holland Tulip Festival this coming Saturday, May 13, the Community Editor program will be heard from 2:00 to 2:30, instead of the regular noon hour time.

Then, beginning the following Saturday, May 20, and thereafter, the program will start at 12:15.

Through this medium, the Journal has been able to broadcast general news of interest from its columns to the large audience that listens to KOIL daily.
