FINLAND CONTEMPLATES ISLAND FORTIFICATIONS

HELSINGFORS, Finland, May 26 (UP)—Reliable sources indicated today that inland might proceed with fortification of the strategic Aland islands despite the objections of Soviet Russia.

Although no official information was available, indignation was mounting in responsible government circles against the attitude of Moscow which has insisted on postponement of a decision on fortification of the islands and has indicated suspicion of Finland's motives.

(The Aland Islands at the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia might be used in war time to bottle up the Soviet fleet and would be of vast importance to Germany in keeping open her communication lines with Sweden's iron mines.)

Finnish officials expressed hope that Britain and France would join them in persuading Russia to accept the fortification proposals. Failure to achieve satisfactory settlement of the question, it was indicated, might influence the attitude of Finland and Sweden toward the League of Nations. The islands lie between Finland and Sweden which have said they sought only to strengthen their neutrality by fortifying them.

NORTHWESTERN HEAD RESIGNS

CHICAGO, May 26 (UP)—Samuel Cady, vice-president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company announced today that Fred W. Sargent has resigned as president and director of the road because of illness.

Cady said Sargent handed in his resignation Wednesday, severing all connection with the Northwestern "because of ill health, which will make it impossible for me to do any work for at least a considerable period of time and possibly not at all." The resignation takes effect June 1.

Sargent, whose resignation was announced on his sixty-third birthday, had been president of the road since June, 1925. He left his law practice in Sioux City, Iowa in 1920 to come to Chicago as general solicitor of Northwestern. He was appointed vice-president and general manager in 1923, and became president in 1925.

PRESIDENT PRAISES NAVY

WASHINGTON, May 26 (UP)—President Roosevelt today praised the navy for its work in bringing to the surface survivors of the sunken submarine Squalus. The navy, he said, deserves very great credit for continuing the rescue operations under difficult and trying circumstances.

At the same time, in reply to questions, the president said he had no advice hinting sabotage as a cause of the disaster.

The president said that the success of the rescue devices used on the Squalus proved the worth of spending a great deal of money on experimental work.

He expressed regret of the death of those trapped in the submarine and observed that human ingenuity had not perfected a machine that was perfect.

CHANGE IN BOXING PLANS

Plans for the boxing class at the American Legion hall have undergone a slight change, due to the difficulty prospective pupils might have, to pay the fee for tuition. The change has not made any difference in the small amount asked for the course, but have made it even more convenient for the younger element to take advantage of the opportunity to learn the art of boxing under the direction of a former world's champion.

The new scheme will permit the youngsters to join a newly organized American Legion Athletic Guild for only a dollar a month and the entire membership will be entitled to instruction, if they want it.

There are other privileges given to members of the new guild, including use of the athletic equipment and a 50 per cent rate reduction on the price of admission to each of the amateur tournaments to be staged by the Legion this fall and winter.

This new scheme will permit Mr. Average Citizen to aid in the health building and happiness of the younger generation, by buying a membership in the new American Legion Athletic Guild and being rewarded for their interest in a material way with a half price privilege of witnessing the "scraps" at the Legion hall this fall and winter.

Membership cards for the American Legion Athletic Guild will be ready in a day or two and all citizens of this territory are urged to "join up" and thus help amateur boxing in this section of the county and also save fifty per cent on their "fight tickets."

MAY PLAY NO MORE

NEW YORK, May 26 (UP)—Friends of Ignace Jan Paderewski feared today that he would never play the piano in public again.

Fifteen thousand persons were in Madison Square Garden last night. The great piano on the stage was open, waiting for the old master's fingers. The audience buzzed with anticipatory conversation. The hour for the concert passed. The audience clapped hands impatiently. A voice boomed out over the public address system.

"Mr. Paderewski will be forced to postpone the concert because he has been subject to a slight heart attack." The 78 year old pianist and statesman was taken from his dressing room to his private railroad car on Grand Central terminal and will be taken to a hotel suite today. During the night, his representatives canceled the rest of his tour and his attendants made plans for an early sailing to his home in Switzerland. Dr. Theodore Dunham described his condition as "fair."

Local Couple Celebrate 60th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Janda Have Happy Day as Children of Their Heart Gather to Pay Honor

Today is the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Janda, old and highly respected residents of the community in which they have lived their wedded life with the exception of a few months.

In the passing years their splendid lives have served as an inspiration and example to the residents of the community in their beautiful home life and outstanding Christian characteristics.

Mr. Janda was born in the province of Moravia, then a part of the Austria-Hungarian empire on February 2, 1860, where his youth was spent and where he learned the trade that he later was to make his life avocation in the new world.

In his native land on May 27, 1879 Cyril Janda and Paulina Matek were wedded at their village church and a few months later with brothers of Mr. Janda left their native home to come to the United States to dwell in the land of which so many reports had been sent by an elder brother, Thomas Janda, who had come to this country and located at Plattsmouth in 1878.

Mr. and Mrs. Janda arrived in the United States on August 1, 1879, with his brothers, Frank Janda, Anton Janda, Joseph Janda and John Janda, as well as their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Janda, Sr. Two sisters, Petrolina and Karolina also came here to make their home, Petrolina then being Mrs. Nowacek and in later years was married as a widow to Anton Chaloupka. Karolina was married to Joseph Vyhledal, and for many years lived in the central part of the state. The sisters and four of the brothers have passed away.

Mr. Janda well recalls an amusing incident of the arrival at the port of New York, where the brothers, all musicians, filled with the joy they felt at reaching the land where they planned to make their home, started to play their instruments that they had brought along from the old world. They played a concert on the wagons that hauled their equipment from the docks to the hotel where they were quartered until leaving for the west.

On their arrival at Plattsmouth they were met by the brother and several other of the old friends who had migrated from Moravia to this place, who received the party with joy and assisted them in getting settled. At the time of the arrival of the Janda family, the western part of the city was largely a wilderness with trees and hazel brush and it was here that they started to clear out a location for their home.

It was in the late fall that Mr. Janda commenced building his permanent home in the cleared off land and which has been for many years a comfortable and attractive home, where they have reared their children and gathered at their hospitable fireside old friends of the many years past.

Mr. Janda has been a gifted musician since his earliest days and his love for the beauty of music or his playing has not dimmed even with the approach of the older years. He was instrumental in organizing the brass band here that was known for many years as the Janda band, composed of many of his family, which for their own pleasure and in public entertainment proved a pleasant part of the community life. He also conducted the Janda orchestra and which added to the musical culture of the city for many years in entertainments and dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Janda have been very devout members of the Roman Catholic church and during their residence here Mr. Janda has been an outstanding figure in the work of the church in the community. In 1890 when a very large number of the persons of Bohemian and Moravian descent had located here, the matter of building of a church and creation of a parish was started by leaders in the church membership, the result being that the permission and creation of the Holy Rosary parish was made by Thomas Bonacum, bishop of Lincoln.

The work of erecting the church building was commenced and Mr. Janda served as the chairman of the building committee of the parish and with his co-workers completed the structure and which was formally dedicated and consecrated in 1892 and has since served as a house of worship for Mr. Janda and those of his fellow countrymen. For more than forty years Mr. Janda was the leader of the choir and the organist of the church, serving at the masses with faithfulness and when weddings or the last rites were to be celebrated he was found at his post to play for the masses and services. It was on the occasion of the funeral of an old neighbor, Frank Slavicek, some 40 years ago, that Mr. Janda experienced one of the saddest of his experience while he was at the organ of the church. His beloved sister, Mrs. Petrolina Chaloupka, was a member of the choir and singing in the mass when she was fatally stricken and touching the brother to attract his attention sank into rest.

Mr. Janda was employed by the Burlington railroad in the local shops over a long period of years and was a faithful and highly honored employe in the years that he served. He had gone to work just a short time after his arrival and soon was engaged in his trade as carpenter and cabinet maker in the coach shop, his skilled hands helping to turn out hundreds of coaches for the railroad and his fine workmanship was quickly recognized. He was an assistant for the late Washington Smith in the years that he was the foreman of the coach department. He was over thirty-three years a gang foreman in the shop. In 1922 Mr. Janda terminated his services with the railroad and has since led a retired life at the home in the west part of the city.

Here at the home in the gentle companionship of the beloved wife, they have both watched the declining years, firm in the love of their home, quiet now that the children of their hearts have gone forth to in turn build their homes. Contented in their love and happy in the consolation of their religion, they have truly experienced an enriching old age.

Their children, all of whom are with them today are Thomas Janda of Omaha, Charles C. Janda of Omaha, Mrs. J. A. Pitz of this city, Mrs. Vincent Slatinsky, Mrs. Henry Brinkman, of Sedalia, Missouri, and Cyril Janda, Jr., of Omaha. One daughter, Mrs. Mary Rummel, has passed away.

There are twenty grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Dr. Mayo Taken to Rochester for Last Rest

Noted Surgeon Who With Brother Founded World Famous Clinic Dies of Pneumonia.

CHICAGO, May 27 (UP)—The body of Dr. Charles Horace Mayo, noted surgeon, was taken today to his home at Rochester, Minn., where he and his brother, sons of a country doctor, transformed a small hospital into a clinic and research foundation famous throughout the world.

He died at Mercy Hospital late yesterday after an eight-day siege of pneumonia with which he was stricken while in Chicago on a business trip. He was 73 and had spent 40 years as an active surgeon and physician.

His achievements made the Mayo Clinic a medical mecca visited by rich and poor from all corners of the globe and brought him many honors. His awards, degrees and titles, including recognitions from several European countries, filled an eight-page booklet.

He was acclaimed as one of the most versatile surgeons of his generation. He was a pioneer in surgery of the nervous system, recognized as the originator of gastric surgery, and performed more than 700 operations for cataract of the eye. His work also included hundreds of operations on the brain, ear, nose, throat and abdomen.

His attending physician, Dr. Thomas Jan Dwyer of the Mayo Clinic staff, and several consultants, had fought desperately to bring him through the crisis of his illness, using every means of medical science, old and new. Treatment included administration of the drug sulfapyridine, recently discovered specific for certain types of pneumonia, on which much of the experimental work had been done in the surgeon's own laboratories.

His condition was so weak, however, it was necessary to resort to blood transfusions. The blood was supplied by his son, Dr. Charles W. Mayo. Other members of his family had been typed for blood but late Wednesday night it came apparent further transfusions would be of no avail.

He lay beneath an oxygen tent when death came. At his side were his wife, the former Edith Graham, whom he married in 1893, three daughters, his son, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Mayo, Rochester, widow of a son who was killed in an automobile accident in 1936. The daughters present were Mrs. Edith Rankin, Lexington, Ky.; Mrs. Louise Trenholm, Rochester; and Mrs. Esther Hartzell, Detroit.

He also leaves another daughter, Dorothy, and an adopted daughter, Marilyn, 18, both of Rochester; an adopted son, John Mayo, Bluefield, W. Va.; and his brother, Dr. William J. Mayo, 77, who is convalescing at Rochester from a recent operation for gastric ulcer.
