

MURDOCK ITEMS

Mrs. Leo Rikli and her father, J. Johansen, were business callers in Elmwood last Tuesday.

Chester Elenore and family were at Elmwood Thursday to attend the Golden Jubilee celebration.

Frank A. Melvin, W. O. Gillespie and W. T. Weddell transacted business in Lincoln last Tuesday.

Naomi Rikli was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Zabel in Lincoln several days last week, after which she went to Fremont to visit friends.

Henry Heineman and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rosenow were in Weeping Water for the regular weekly band concert which is held on the main street of that town.

Lacey McDonald, the mail carrier, has been putting his afternoons to good advantage by placing a new roof on the home. With good roads he is able to complete his route during the forenoon.

Floyd Meyerjurgan and wife of Goodland, Kansas, were guests in Murdock and Elmwood last Thursday and Friday, being guests at the Henry and Carl Meyerjurgan homes. Floyd and Carl are brothers.

Edward Garaway, the shoe maker, received a letter from his daughter, Mrs. O. H. Robson, telling of their trip to the coast. At the time of writing they had reached Seattle and were planning on going down the coast before starting on their return journey.

L. Neitzel, who taught the men's Bible class in the Christian church at Plattsmouth, during the absence of this writer, who is the regular teacher, received an invitation to teach the ladies' class at some future date, and will return within the next few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Tool, who with their son Douglas Tool are on a trip to the Pacific coast, write from Boulder dam, telling about the country and the dam which is a wonderful piece of engineering. They are enjoying their trip and the many interesting sights presented along the way.

Bryan McDonald is continuing to improve from the leg injury he suffered several weeks ago when a pole fell on him, and is now so he can get about quite readily. With the wife and children, he went to Elmwood Wednesday for the opening day of the Jubilee celebration. Mrs. McDonald drove the car.

Card of Thanks

I wish to take this means to thank those who were so kind as to call, send cards and flowers and also for the other acts of kindness which helped to cheer the hours while I was confined in the hospital and at home.

FRED B. BUELL

Building New Pump House

With the sinking of a new well for the Murdock water system at a point some distance from the old well and brick pump house, the impracticability of tearing down the structure and rebuilding it was apparent, so a new pump house will be constructed. F. A. Melvin has the contract for building the new pump house. He found it necessary to go to Weeping Water for some materials last Thursday and was accompanied by W. T. Weddell.

Cars Meet at Intersection

At an intersection some four miles northwest of Murdock, while George Miller and wife were driving in one direction and the family of Albert Timm were driving in another, with corn and weeds obscuring the vision, the two cars came together. The car of Mr. Timm struck that of Mr. Miller with such force that it rolled over. Both cars were badly damaged and Mr. and Mrs. Miller were bruised quite badly. One of Mrs. Miller's arms was lacerated so badly it required seven stitches of close the wound. The family of Mr. Timm were not badly injured.

Car Rolls Over on Track

While returning from the races at South Bend last Sunday, E. A. Smith who resides south of Elmwood, and a companion had their car overturned. As they were coming into Murdock, they mistook the railroad track for the highway and pulled over. As the wheels struck the rails the car was rolled over and Mr. Smith pinned underneath in such manner that his companion could not extricate him. So he hastened to Murdock for assistance to help get him out of the wreckage. Fears of an oncoming train gripped the mind of Mr. Smith and it seemed a mighty long time before help came. Although bruised and shaken up, Mr. Smith considers himself fortunate that his injuries were not worse. The car was quite badly damaged.

Elmwood News

Mr. and Mrs. Ethors of Lincoln were guests here over the week end at the T. H. Greene home.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Lamb of Lincoln were guests over the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Greene.

Frank Schlichtemeier, who farms southwest of Murray, visited his son, Ronald, and transacted business here one day last week.

Elbert Johnson and wife of Corwith, Iowa, visited here over the week end as guests at the Frank W. Lorenz home. The two families are old time friends.

Lee Hill and wife, former residents here, came down from Winnebago, near where they are engaged in farming, to attend the Jubilee celebration and renew acquaintance with their old friends in this vicinity.

L. R. Stanley of Wabash stopped in Elmwood Tuesday en route home from Lincoln with a truck load of merchandise for the store he operates there, and looked over the extensive preparations being made for the Jubilee celebration. So pleased was he with the arrangements being made to show visitors a good time that he came back later in the week as one of the vast throng of people who were here to enjoy the well-known Elmwood hospitality.

Visited Friends at Bradshaw

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rhoden drove to Bradshaw last Sunday for a visit with friends. Roy reports the corn crop badly damaged from Lincoln westward and in some places there will be none, while in others the yield will be very small—far below that in this part of the country.

At the last meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the Elmwood Methodist church the officers who have so successfully carried on the work of the organization during the past year were all retained. Mrs. Sylvia Penterman, president of the organization, is now serving her sixth year in that office and is a tireless worker and capable leader, as shown by the accomplishments of the society in helping to carry out the church program.

Found Dead in Bath Room

Rev. Henry Peiper, a superannuated minister of the Evangelical church, who, with his late wife, were spending their declining years in Elmwood, was found dead in the bath room the fore part of last week. Mrs. Peiper died several years ago. He had retired from the ministry some ten years since, having been pastor of the local church several years, as well as at other charges over the state. Funeral services were held the latter part of the week. An account of the life and work of this earnest Christian minister will appear later.

Played Ball Here

Last Sunday the Elmwood baseball park was the scene of a tightly contested game between the local team and the Greenwood boys. The result was a victory for Elmwood by the close score of 4 to 3. A goodly number turned out to witness the contest, which was considerable of a pitchers' battle, with the hits scarce and far between.

Celebrate Second Golden Jubilee

The town of Elmwood, which made such a grand success of celebrating its fiftieth anniversary last year, arranged to repeat the affair again this year under the title, Second Golden Jubilee. An extra day was added, making three instead of two, and ample attractions provided to bring people here each of the three days. The entertainment included baseball games, band music, the Plattsmouth junior drum corps, trick auto races, dancing, etc., etc. Three bands furnished an abundance of music and there were a lot of concessions on the streets.

Benches were placed along the outer edge of the sidewalks so those who desired could sit down and rest, but the crowd was on the go most of the time.

Included among those present were many former residents of this community who welcomed the opportunity to come back and renew acquaintance with their old time friends and neighbors.

The success of these two years of celebrating will undoubtedly lead to a continuation of the custom and Elmwood can be depended to put across whatever it undertakes along this line.

"Kitchen" in the Ditch

Yes, that is exactly what happened last week when Herbert Addyman of Louisville started for Elmwood with his trailer kitchen, which he operates as a concession at fairs and celebrations over the country. Just a few miles outside of Louisville, although he was traveling at a slow rate of speed, the kitchen veered from the road and turned over, mixing things up quite badly. He was able to get things righted and proceed here, where he set up and operated his eating concession during the Jubilee. If any of you found salt where sugar ought to be in your eats at the celebration, you will know the reason.

Wabash News

Frank Reese, caretaker at the Missouri Pacific station here went to Elmwood for the Golden Jubilee celebration, where he conducted a cane rack.

Jasper E. Golding and Ralph Richards have been busy threshing alfalfa, but expect to finish soon, as there is only a limited number of jobs in this line.

Henry H. Gerbeling was looking after business matters and visiting friends in Murdock last Wednesday. He caught a ride over with friends and returned home the same way.

Many Wabash people went over to our nearby neighboring town of Elmwood for the Jubilee celebration the latter part of the week and all speak highly of the program and other attractions.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schmidt and family were in Murdock one day last week, where Mr. Schmidt transacted business. Later in the week they went to Elmwood, where they enjoyed the Jubilee celebration.

H. H. Gerbeling was cutting his alfalfa last week and will thresh it soon for the seed. There is a good demand for good clean alfalfa seed and last year two acres brought Mr. Gerbeling nearly a hundred dollars profit. The crop this year is also very good.

L. R. Stanley was in Lincoln for a truck load of goods last Tuesday, stopping in Elmwood to note the preparations being made for the Jubilee celebration. He was so impressed with the prospects that he went back Thursday night to enjoy the celebration, which was attended by large numbers of people.

Placing Cattle on Feed

Ralph Richards was in Omaha last week, where he purchased 51 head of calves, which were brought down by Frank Marshall, and will be placed on feed in Mr. Richard's feed lot. Last year he fed a smaller number, but this year with more roughage and prospects of a corn crop with which to finish them off, he bought considerably more.

Death of Former Resident

Owen Featherly, of Iowa, an uncle of T. S. Allen, of Lincoln, passed away at his home early last week and the remains were shipped to Wabash for interment. The family formerly made their home here, and other members of the family are buried in the local cemetery. The funeral was held on Thursday.

Fair Boosters Visit Wabash

Last Friday evening, while en route home from a booster trip over the county, the Weeping Water fair boosters paid a visit to Wabash. Their arrival was heralded by a flaring of trumpets and the ringing of a large bell which was mounted on a truck. Soon the band members were out and set for a brief concert.
