Boxers Sign Up. Enthusiasm has run rampant among the local boxing fans, since issue of the announcement of a boxing program during the King Korn Carnival in Plattsmouth. Promoter Kid Graves, who is in charge of this part of the Carnival, has found this enthusiasm exists apparently only among the fans. Boxers don't seem to be so wild about it.

Plans are scheduled for a tourney in only one weight division, in which seven embryo fistie champions will tangle for the local supremacy of that class. With only one class represented on the platform on Main street, the American Legion will probably present an amateur tourney of all classes, later in the season, the winners to represent the Plattsmouth Legion in the Golden Gloves tourney, in Omaha.

Thus far, only fourteen entries have been filed, covering only five of the eight boxing classes. Following are the entries, now in the hands of the matchmaker: Flyweight, 108-pound, Don McBride; bantamweight, 118-pound, Raymond Banks; featherweight, 125 pounds, none; lightweight, 135-pound, Lester Reeves Wallace Terryberry, Jack Kubicka, Warren Allbee and Verdon Kell; welterweight, 147-pound, Earl Allbee, Gene Lester, Joe Phillips, and Paul Gallentine; middleweight, 160-pound, Elmer Newton and Clarence Favors.

Since the time is short, allowing three weeks for training and conditioning, Promoter Kid Graves wants the fistie celebrities-elect of this vicinity to get their entries in to him or at the Journal office, this week.

Bible School Prospering. The Bible school of the Murray Christian church was a very interesting Lord's day when 81 members of the school were assembled and all interested in the work of the school. A two piece orchestra and additional singers added much interest to the ordinary exercises of the school.

What Will Be Done About It? Murray has a short time since completed a water system which is a guarantee against fire as well as providing an abundant supply of good pure water. Besides just now is being completed the overpass over the Missouri Pacific tracks, which insures safety for the traveling public as the old grade crossing was responsible for the loss of a number of lives.

It seems right and fitting that Murray should celebrate these two events and invite in other towns and citizens of the adjacent territory here to assist in a real good celebration. Just who will take the lead is the question, but this is Murray and all interested in its welfare should take hold and put the matter through to a final success.

Following was the cast: Lydia— Shirley Mason; Anadalla— Ruth Lawson; Rhea— Thelma Kruger; Iris— Mae McCarrroll.

The play had been presented once before many years ago but was again presented this year and the offering from the play is to help support the society's missionary in the foreign field.

Merchants Win from Fort Crook Sunday

Score of 9 to 5 in Well Played Game—Joe Phillips Stars in Brilliant Slugging in Game.

The Plattsmouth Merchants Sunday downed the supposedly strong Fort Crook nine by a score of 9-5 in a game staged for the members of the team. The entire gate receipts were turned over to the players.

Joe Phillips proved the batting hero of the game and accounted for registering four of the local runs with his effective stick work.

The Merchants got off to a good start in the first inning when Sedlak and Hayes were both safe on the shortstop's errors, and Joe Phillips blasted a long triple. B. Smith hit a fly to center and Joe scored after the catch. The third inning was almost a repetition of the first, as Joe again hit an identical triple with the same two, Hayes and Sedlak, on base. B. Smith came through with a hit and again scored Joe.

Fort Crook was held scoreless until the seventh by the masterful twirling of Floyd Thierolf and up until this time they had but one hit. After two were out they scored four times and made it a much closer and dangerous ball game. They tallied once in the eighth, but were easy outs in the ninth. The Merchants scored in the third and eighth frames to close the score at 9-5.

Had the soldiers started Ahoitz instead of McKinney on the mound it might have been a different story for the Merchants and maybe curtains.

The baseball team is now to take up softball also, and Ray Shafer announces the first game will be Tuesday evening with Park Forest team from Omaha.
