A BAD INVESTMENT.

St. Louis Republic.
Carnegie and Frick contributed $150,000 to the republican campaign fund in 1892, and it seems to have been money thrown away. The Republic took occasion immediately after the fact of such an extraordinary contribution was well established to declare that it was not given to secure higher tariff schedules, for the McKinley law met every requirement of the iron and steel barons, nor to insure a perpetuation of that law, since the introduction of labor saving machinery and the enforced reduction in the wages of their employes under its operation had proved their perfect independence of that or any other law assuming to maintain the wages of workmen. If, under the highest iron and steel tariff ever known in this country, Carnegie and Frick had been able to reduce wages, it was clear that they would be able to adjust themselves to any changed conditions affecting their business, and that it was not the fear of change in the tariff laws which had prompted their magnificent contribution to the republican campaign fund. There remained a reason, and a vital one, however, why Carnegie and Frick were interested in the success of the republicans in that campaign. It was stated by the Republic at that time and the charge is now being borne out in a remarkable way. The Carnegie Iron and Steel company, limited, had contracts with the United States government for the manufacture and delivery of armor plates for use in the construction of new battleships then being built. These contracts had been made before the lockout at Homestead, and after that lockout had been made permanent and the company found its skilled mechanics displaced with men of less skill and capacity, it became vitally interested in the appointment of a secretary of the navy. The treatment of John Roach under a democratic administration was a vivid remembrance, and, although it had effected a large annual saving in its wage list, the rejection of its contract work by the government would effect the loss of all the gain from that source and of hundreds of thousands of dollars in profits in addition. A friendly secretary of the navy was worth a fortune to the Carnegie Steel company, limited, in that emergency. It accordingly contributed a fortune to the support of Harrison.

Mr. Harrison was defeated. The armor plates made by the Carnegie company under the contract made with the Harrison administration were tested the other day. A republican contemporary's report of the test says that it afforded "the first instance in the history of the new navy where the plates have made such a poor showing against high-powered guns. The plate tried represented several lots of armor, in all about 500 tons. Two shots were fired at the plate, the first to determine whether Carnegie & Co. would secure a premium and the second for the acceptance of the work. Both tests were unsatisfactory, and unless another plate shows up better the entire lot will be rejected by the government." If, instead of Secretary Herbert, the navy department were now controlled by a secretary of the Carnegie Steel company, limited, would we have the privilege of hearing of such defects in the Carnegie armor? Would not the Carnegie Steel company, limited, have a chance to get its money back?

Vest's Eyes.
What the Hon. George G. Vest says in regard to the superiority of the Hirschberg diamond and non-changeable spectacles:
"I am using glasses which I purchased from Prof. Hirschberg, and they are the best I ever tried. It affords me great pleasure to recommend Prof. Hirschberg as an excellent optician, and his glasses are simply unequalled in my experience."
"G. G. Vest."
These glasses are for sale by Carruth Jewelry Co., agents for Plattsmouth, Neb.

Has Removed His Office.
Dr. E. D. Cummins has removed his office to rooms on the first floor at the foot of the stairs in same building as before. Entrance on Main street.

IN AND AROUND THE TOWN.

The Hon. Grover Cleveland, president of these United States, must get a move on himself in the matter of appointing a successor for United States District Attorney Baker. Mr. Baker's term expires next Saturday, and then he will become plain Ben Baker, and if no appointment has been made there will be no district attorney. As soon as Mr. Baker's term expires he ceases to be the attorney, and cannot act as such.

The ladies of St. John's Catholic church will give an oyster supper and social on Tuesday evening next at the home of Henry Hempel on South Seventh street. The admission fee of fifteen cents will include supper. All are invited to attend.

LOST—An English pointer puppy, white body, with head and ears spotted with brown. Any person leaving information at THE JOURNAL office which will lead to the animal's recovery, will be liberally rewarded. 17

General Manager Brown of the Burlington and K. Sanford, superintendent of the Adams express company, have increased the reward for the five men who held up the Hannibal & St. Joe train near St. Joe last Wednesday to $2,000. The St. Joe authorities, however, are as much at sea as ever.

CASS IN BIG LUCK.
Cass county is in luck. The banks down there all want the county treasurer's deposits, and it was awarded to the Bank of Commerce of Louisville, which will pay 4.55 per cent. a year on monthly balances to the county.—Lincoln News.

DRESSMAKING.
The undersigned desires all kinds of dressmaking. Will go in country if desired. References given if desired. Inquire of Mrs. T. J. Thomas, south Sixth street. MISS HALSEY.

It seems to THE JOURNAL that it is about time for the numerous county papers who clip the monthly mortgage record from these columns to give the proper credit. THE JOURNAL never fails to publish this record in advance of all Cass county newspapers, and the courtesy of giving credit is no more than is justly due.

Killed a Wolf.
The carcass of a large wolf was on exhibition at the Casino bar room Monday, a trophy of the prowess of John Kinser with a shot gun. John was out hunting rabbits in the jungle north of the water works pumping station yesterday afternoon, and his "blooded" dog had caught a rabbit's trail and was following the scent. Mr. Wolf was also on the scent and was following the dog's trail when John spied him and unlimbered his gun, giving him two loads in quick succession, which afforded a stopping place in the wolf's earthy career. Wolves are a rather scarce article in this neighborhood, and this one has evidently been driven from across the Platte, in Sarpy county, where several large wolf drives have recently been held.

HAVELOCK ITEMS.
From the Times.
Agent Young secured a steel shaving twenty-seven feet long from J. D. Young's machine this week. It is a beauty.

P. J. Dore was summoned to Lincoln Tuesday to answer to the charge preferred by H. Burcham of unlawfully converting monies due Miner Stockwell.

George Ballance returned to work this week from the sad duty of burying his mother. The lady died in Oregon and the body was interred at Michigan City, Ind.

The young men of the town met last night and organized "The Havelock Dramatic Club," and elected the following officers: Chairman, Walt Holmes; secretary, Chas. Langston; financial secretary, Will Johnson; executive committee, Sam Hinkle, Bert Hoskins, P. J. Dore.

Old newspapers for sale at this office at ten cents a hundred.

Harry Hill Explains.

In Monday's paper there appeared an item to the effect that the authorities had concluded to refuse admittance to the crowd of visitors who had been flocking to the jail almost daily since Harry Hill has been confined there. Hill fears the people might misconstrue the meaning of the item and writes as follows:

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., Jan. 16, 1893.—To the Editor of THE JOURNAL: Dear Sir—I noticed an article in your paper last night concerning visitors to the jail, and in order that the Christian people may not misconstrue the meaning of the item I write these lines, and request their publication.

There has been fewer visitors since the new administration has been in power than before. I do not know the cause of this, but the kind and sympathetic people who call to see me occasionally are among the most highly respected citizens of the city, whose characters are above reproach, and who would be as far from assisting any prisoner to escape as the guards themselves, or even the authorities.

I am glad to see those people, who as a rule come to speak a word of cheer—a word of hope, notwithstanding there are a few who come through idle curiosity, and who would do me a favor—and themselves, 'oo—by staying at home. It might be inferred from the article published in your columns that I requested this order, which I did not do. I have been asked on different occasions by some of the very best people of Plattsmouth, for whom I have the greatest respect, if I liked or disliked to have visitors come to see me, and I am sorry very sorry, that this obnoxious item was published. Respectfully,
HARRY HILL.

COLLEGE HILL.

Louisville is suffering severely from the measles.

Rev. Father Nugent celebrated high mass Sunday last at the Catholic church.

High-five parties are the order of the day at College Hill. The last was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Blessington Wednesday evening.

Father Nugent was called to Wabash last week to attend the family of James Tighe, some of the members being seriously ill with la grippe.

A nice, fine young lady made her appearance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Grube last week. I only have to say, she is a very welcome visitor.

Mr. Johnson of Louisville, buried his third child Monday. He seems to be sadly afflicted. He lost his wife and three children inside of two weeks.

The lightning rod swindlers who were looking for suckers and greenhorns in this part of God's country, left in disgust for Sarpy county. The farmers here read the county papers—that accounts for it.

P. McCaughlin, the Irish poet and fruit tree man, who has spent one month at College Hill, left for Elmwood last week. Mac is a gentleman and a scholar. We recommend him to the farmers of Elmwood as an honest fruit tree seller.

Mrs. Gess of Louisville, our squite's better-half, wanted to treat her lord to a fine chicken roast Saturday last. She took the animal by the head to chop his head off. She accomplished the feat and when the rooster's head fell by the cut of the ax, so did also part of her thumb about an inch long. Dr. Hassemeier has the thumb in alcohol.

The Misses Exie and Lulu Ferguson intended to start for Peru to the normal college after New Years, but the gripe ordered them to stop for a while longer. C. S.

$100 Reward.
I beg to advise my patrons and neighbors that there are several peddlers traversing the country claiming to be Mr. Hirschberg, or connected with him in business, and trying to impose upon the public at large, by offering an inferior class of Spectacles and Eye Glasses for Hirschberg's Diamond and Non-Changeable Spectacles and Eye Glasses. Do not be deluded by such impostors. Their representations are false. My goods are not handled by "Peddlers," as we have local agents. A reward of $100. will be given to any one securing the name and whereabouts of such parties. Respectfully,
PROF. H. HIRSCHBERG,

A Fading Vision.

[Written for the Omaha World-Herald.]
Away in the west, when the sun is low,
And the city lies in the sunset glow,
I sit and see with memory's eye,
Across the roofs where the white clouds lie,
A scene of beauty, pure, sublime,
That lass my soul away from time;
That carries me back to the days now past
And gives to my heart a rest at last.
My mother, she with the wintry hair,
And the white, pure face of an angel fair,
Her hand once more across my brow,
Weary and worn and troubled now,
Draws, and whispers of the Holy Writ,
Of the good, sweet lessons learned from it,
And the sweet, sweet face, in its soft, pure light,
Cautions me of the coming night,
And calls to my mind that sacred day
On the far blue hill of Calvary,
When the patient Savior on the cross
Asks for mercy for the one who's lost.
And I see the face with its beauty rare,
And the holy lessons written there,
Faded and faint, like a dream of love
Away, away, like a flying dove,
And into the mist goes the vision sweet,
Into the land of dreams and sleep.

MURDOCK ITEMS.

C. Eisenhut has purchased one of H. Bornemeier's houses in Murdock, and is moving into it this week.

Mr. H. Schmidt has sold his home to H. Bornemeier. Mr. Schmidt will have to build a new one at once.

The union Sunday school held its annual election, with the following result: J. W. Matter, superintendent; L. Neitzel, vice-superintendent; A. J. Tool, secretary.

The Murdock Grain and Stock company is the latest business enterprise in our town. It is composed of the business men of Murdock. We will give particulars later.

L. Neitzel, our hardware man, received a large invoice of goods this week to replenish his stock. His spring stock will come next month. He reports the close of a successful year in his line.

The M. W. A. of this place had an installation of officers for the ensuing year, and the following officers were installed: Dr. Madding, counsel; J. Gustin, adviser; G. W. Meeker, clerk; S. T. Tool, banker; S. Hare, escort. With such men at the helm, we predict a prosperous year for the order.

$100 Reward, $100.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by all druggists, 75c.

Removal.
The New York bakery has removed to the old stand of the Vienna bakery, and would be pleased to receive a continuance of the patronage of the public. A full line of holiday candies and cakes. Bread and pies always on hand. The restaurant will be open as usual.
