A colored family named Bowen, living in the north part of town appear to be sadly afflicted. Eight members of the household are reported to be confined to their beds by sickness—the complaint being measles. One of their number, a young man, died last Thursday of a relapse of the complaint.

A small pox scare at both Pacific Junction and Glenwood was the cause of no little excitement hereabouts the past week. Sunday night a tramp was taken sick at the depot and was afterwards taken to the city hall, where a physician was summoned, who pronounced it only a case of cold and fever, the result of exposure and lack of proper food—the wide-spread rumor that he had small pox being entirely groundless.—Glenwood Tribune.

U. S. Marshal Frank White and his force of deputies are still at work on the counterfeiting case, trying to locate the headquarters of the gang. It is thought that two of the "coiners" were in Plattsmouth one day this week but departed without being overhauled by the authorities. The "mint" is supposed to be located on the island in the Missouri River near Bellevue.

Monday was the fifty-first birthday anniversary of Farmer Robert Troop, and a party of some twenty young people journeyed from this city last evening to Mr. Troop's home, nine miles southwest of town, and assisted him in celebrating the event. The host and hostess entertained their guests in a right royal manner, and altogether the evening was one of genuine enjoyment.

City Clerk Fox is daily in receipt of letters from all parts of the country requesting copies of "Plattsmouth Illustrated" and all on account of the item published in THE JOURNAL stating that several thousand copies of the book were yet on hand for free distribution. One mail brought requests from Beaver City, Geneva and Hastings, Neb., Three Rivers, Mich., and Hemington, N. J. Within the past two weeks our citizens have mailed several hundred copies of the book to their out-of-town friends. Advertising pays if you have anything to give away.

Cass County Teachers' Institute.

OFFICE OF COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT, PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., Feb. 26, 1893.

Mr. Editor:—Will you please give notice of the teachers' annual institute, to be held in Weeping Water, March 19th to 31st, at which time the country schools of the county shall be closed. Those already teaching and the directors have been notified as to the time and place, but I take this way of notifying the teachers not at present engaged in the work, other school officers, the advanced pupils and students in the schools of the county, and also the patrons. There will be no examination during the institute session. Those expecting to teach, unless they have certificates, may take the regular examination here March 17th, or the SPECIAL examination which will be held in Weeping Water, Saturday, March 10th, in the high school building. All who expect to teach during this coming year should attend the institute. Members of school boards and patrons are urged to be present as much as possible.

State Superintendent Goudy addresses us on the evening of the 23rd; Chancellor Canfield, Tuesday evening, March 27th, and Rev. Mr. Harrison, of Weeping Water, either the 31st or 29th (date not yet fixed). The instructors will be ex-County Superintendent Noble, A. H. Waterhouse and W. N. Halsey, of Plattsmouth.

Information in regard to board may be obtained by writing to A. H. Waterhouse, Weeping Water. Yours sincerely, GEO. L. FARLEY, County Superintendent.

Take Off the Horns.

The undersigned is now ready, with a good portable chute and tools, to remove the useless weapons of horned cattle at ten cents per head. It never gets too cold to dehorn cattle; any time except fly-time is the right time. If those who wish such work done would address me at Rock Bluffs, Neb., they will be promptly answered.

S. L. FURLONG.

The man who expects the newspaper to be loyal to him at all times, says the Hayes Center Times, defending him if he is misrepresented, saying nice things about him when he is prosperous and sympathizing with him when he suffers, is generally the man who never contributes a cent towards the support of a paper. Support your local paper and you will never have cause to regret it.

Attorney Shepherd of Lincoln was in the city Monday. His mission was to secure a dismissal of the forgery case against W. A. Kurth, the Lincoln lightning-rod shark, who, according to the complaint, in an endeavor to fleece J. C. Dremer, a farmer living near Alvo, on a lightning-rod scheme, is charged with forging Dremer's name to a note. County Attorney Travis was seen by a JOURNAL reporter and the information was given that the action would not be dismissed. Kurth must therefore stand trial at the next term of district court.

E. Stoddard of Omaha, president of the projected "North and South State-owned" road, claims that enough money is already in sight to guarantee the building of 200 miles of the populist line; that grading outfits had been procured and work would positively begin at the Port Bolivar (Tex.) end of the line inside of two weeks, and that the 1895 Kansas crops would be carried to the gulf by the road. He refused to say where the capital is coming from. Lectures are going through Kansas taking stock subscriptions.

A dozen doctors had labored in vain to stop John Carberry, a Newark man, from hicoughing. They gave him up as a hopeless case. The newspapers took the matter in hand. They gave such wide publicity of the case that the man was overwhelmed by visitors, as well as by telegrams and letters, and these produced such physical and mental exhaustion as precipitated a deep and refreshing slumber. This was just what the doctors, with all their skill and medicines, had failed to produce. The sleep did wonders for the man who hicoughed himself almost to death, and he is now on the road to complete recovery. At least his mother says so, and she gives all the credit to the newspapers. What would the world do without the newspapers?

Tuesday's Omaha Bee contains an editorial apology to the public for the publication of three columns of testimony taken at the preliminary hearing of Editor Rosewater, who is charged with criminal libel by ex-Sheriff Bennett and wife. The testimony is revolting in character and brings to light the existence of a terrible state of affairs at the Douglas county jail during Bennett's term as sheriff. The Mosher scandal is reviewed, the testimony proving that Mosher was allowed to have the keys of the jail, was furnished with liquid refreshments and was allowed to entertain female friends at the jail. In view of all this it will probably be necessary for the United States authorities at Omaha to have another whitewash "vindication."

WEeping WATER NOTES.

From the Eagle.

The citizens of Plattsmouth are still waiting to congratulate their new postmaster.

Judge Chapman overruled the protest of the commissioners for a grand jury. He wants to unearth some hidden crookedness.

The saloon question seems to be nearly settled far in advance of the April election. The church has gathered in so many old "jags" that there is not enough left to give the question a respectable burial.

Of the 154 converts at the M. E. church this winter, 10 are grandfathers and grandmothers, 52 fathers and mothers, 44 young men, 20 young ladies, 20 business men, and 33 children. The old maids and bachelors seem to be the hardest class to reach; not one of our large flock falling into line for a life of Christian enjoyment.

Old man Doty, who for years back has been a prominent figure on the banks of the Missouri river, was struck by an engine on the B. & M. tracks near the bridge at Plattsmouth one day last week. An ordinary man would have started on his last trip, never to return, but Doty was not of that kind, he has toughed it so long on the river, running all sorts of risks in all kinds of weather, that he seems to be proof against all the ills of life.

COLLEGE HILL NOTES.

Most of the children who had the measles have returned to school.

While the late snow was very unpleasant for man and beast, it was a God send to the soil.

Rev. Father Nugent is now very comfortably fixed in his new house near the C. H. Catholic church. His sister from Cheyenne will be here soon to keep house for him.

Two sisters of the St. Elizabeth hospital, Lincoln, attended mass at the C. H. church Sunday last.

One of our foremost young men and one of Murdock's fair young ladies will cross the matrimonial sea after Easter. We wish them in advance a safe trip.

We know of a few farmers leaving for Texas and Michigan. We will bet them a peck of apples they will come back and swear Nebraska is good enough for any man.

College Hill's school gave an entertainment Saturday last at the school house. All interested in the program done well.

Mr. and Mrs. George Standen of near Plattsmouth visited among relatives here for a week or so.

The Deadly Coal Gas.

Dr. Mathews, the veterinarian, together with his wife and baby, came awfully close to crossing the dark river by the asphyxiation route. When the doctor arose Tuesday at about six o'clock and passed out of doors into the fresh air he was taken deathly sick and could scarcely make his way back into the house. He called to his wife and when she stepped out of doors, for the ostensible purpose of summoning the neighbors, she, too, was suddenly taken with a sort of fainting spell. The doctor finally managed to summon the strength to hurry to the neighbors, and in a short time Dr. Schildknecht was on the scene. The trouble was easily located—the door to the hard coal burner was slightly ajar, and without doubt had been allowing the deadly gas to circulate about the premises for several hours. The husband and baby were the least affected, but it was with considerable difficulty that Mrs. Mathews was resuscitated. She is still a very sick woman, but her recovery, however, is hardly in doubt.
