COLLEGE HILL CULLINGS.

Rev. Cattenhusen and family left for Seward, where Mr. Cattenhusen will attend to the spiritual education of a large congregation eight miles southwest of that town. We wish this highly respected family God speed at their new home.

Frank Schlater, who has been spending some days here visiting his parents and friends, left Friday for his Deuel county ranch.

Miss Delia Tartsch of Plattsmouth spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lehnhoff.

Henry Lehnhoff, jr., our university student, spent Thanksgiving at home with his parents.

Will Woodruff, of Weeping Water, brother of Emil Woodruff, our College Hill school teacher, paid College Hill a visit recently.

Rev. Father F. Heising, who died at Lincoln lately, attended the Catholic church here for several years. He is a good man, and particularly dear to your humble servant, because he came from the same town in the old fatherland and attended the same college as the writer in his early youth. Many a pleasant chat had we over our college days. Rest in peace.

John Osenkop's hogs took a notion lately to be sick. Some friend of his advised him to feed red mineral paint to them. He did so, and now reports all hogs are well. Take notice of this farmers.

A great deal of land around here is cleared of timber and many a man for the want of anything else to do takes advantage of this to get his winter's wood.

We never knew before that Bill Wegener was a sporting man. He has taken to horse racing since the Louisville bridge meeting, in which Wegener is deeply interested.

The death of Mrs. Charles Boedeker at Eight Mile Grove has cast a gloom over this neighborhood, where she was so well-known from childhood.

Miss Mary Toley of Dubuque, Iowa, a cousin of Rev. Father Nugent, spent a week very pleasantly with the reverend father recently.

Wednesday was hog day at Louisville and the streets were full of teams. Lewis Boedeker is the shipper of hogs and cattle and is a rustler. Fritz Wegener also ships hogs and cattle occasionally.

A Pathetic Romance.

A dispatch from Cincinnati under date of Dec. 3d, tells the following:

"The pathetic wedding of Lillian Kellogg of Peru, Neb., and Dr. Elton B. Crowell of Syracuse, N. Y., at 118 Mound street yesterday, is the talk of that part of the town. The groom is a medical student in his third term at the Eclectic college. He became critically ill a week ago and at once, believing he was going to die, sent for Miss Kellogg, whom he was engaged to marry. She left her duties as instructor in the art institute of the state normal school at Peru and hurried to her lover's side. Yesterday they were married by mutual agreement. The groom, who is now recovering, sat up in bed during the ceremony, performed by Rev. Thomas of the Fifth Presbyterian church."

Private advices received from Seneca, Kas., is to the effect that Julius Engelke has lately become a benedict. Julius was formerly a clerk for C. E. Wescott in this city, but is now in business for himself at Seneca. His many friends here will wish him much joy and prosperity in his new relation.

The charitable society formed by the teachers of the city schools has been doing some excellent work of late, and on thanksgiving day no less than forty-eight families were provided with food and clothing, the same being jointly donated by the school children and the teachers. At a meeting of the society held Monday a new system of giving aid was adopted, and hereafter one teacher will supervise the distribution of the donations to a certain quota of families. In most cases assistance is being rendered to families whose children are unable to attend school for want of clothing, and in this regard the good work of the society is worthy of no small praise.

Ex-County Commissioner Loder came down from Greenwood this morning to attend the funeral of the late Commissioner Dutton.
