Labor troubles are getting out of the way; wages in many establishments are rising, and, with the iron industry just now leading, there is general improvement in manufactures. Monetary condition also helps. The time draws near when, with good crops, exports will bring gold hither, and though foreign operations in stocks and bonds have been insignificant this week, the effect of the previous transaations has not been exhausted.

"Much diminished receipts of money from the interior indicate better employment in business and especially at the West, the volume of commercial loans steadily rises and is now fair for this season, even in a good year. Western receipts for two weeks of June were 3,116,680 bushels of wheat, against 3,001,-202 last year, while Atlantic exports, flour included, were only 2,364,847 bushels, against 4,630,227 last year. Effects of the rise in prices were seen in the official report of May exports, showing a decrease of 1,000,000 bushels from Atlantic, but an increase of 2,000,000 from Pacific in exports. The price was reduced 234 in trading. Corn also declined about 1c, with better reports of growth.

CARLISLE AT LOUISVILLE.

The Secretary of the Treasury Talks Against Silver.

Louisville Ky., June 17.-Secretary Carlisle last evening made an address on the currency question. He repeated his argument that the undervalued metal would be driven out of the country by the adoption of a bimetallic system. and at some length paid attention to the claims that the fall in the price of silver was due to its demonetization. He said: "It is insisted that the fall in the price of silver is attributable to the legislation in Germany, the United States, France and various other countries during and since the year 1873, and most illogically it is also insisted that notwithstanding the reduced price of that metal is the result of the unfriendly action of a great many governments acting in concert and with a settled purpose, the United States alone can restore the value of silver. Of course if it required the action of twelve or thirteen different governments to bring the price of silver to its present state it would seem quite clear that no one of them alone could restore it. The fall in the price of silver was not due to the legislation complained of but to an enormous overproduction. While the farmers and other producers are struggling to live comfortably and meet their obligations, owners of silver mines have accumulated enormous fortunes. That the flat of the government does not make money was illustrated by the history of the trade dollar. What hape pened to the trade dollar would be exactly what would happen to all other silver dollars if free and unlimited coinage was adopted."

BRITISH CONSUL WILL TAKE ACTION IN A STRANGE CASE.

The Reason for the Abandonment of the Burning Vessel, Why Not, by Its Crew, Not Yet Known-Yesterday's News from Across the Water.

St. Malo, June 13.-Particulars have been received here of the desertion of the passengers by the crew of the British vessel Why Not after fire broke out on board the ship while on her way to the island of Jersey. It appears that fire was discovered in the Why Not's hold Saturday and while the sailors were attempting to quench the flames a bucket was dropped overboard. A boat was lowered to recover it and the captain jumped into this boat and was followed by the crew. One passenger sprang overboard and swam after the boat, into which he was reluctantly taken. The deserted passengers were greatly alarmed and the excitement among them increased when a small boat was seen to be pulling for Erquay, where the crew eventually land ed. Taking advantage of a breeze the passengers handled the Why Not as best they could and succeeded in beaching her near Erquay. The incident has caused intense excitement at St. Brieux, the nearest town to Erquay, and the matter is being thoroughly investigated by the local authorities.

The captain of the Why Not, although not under arrest, is closely watched by the police. It is understood that the British consul here will take the matter up and upon his report will depend further action.
