

MONEY OF THE MANY.

GOLD-STANDARD SUPPORTERS ARE FEW.

How Laws Have Depreciated Silver—The Enemies of That Metal and Their Way of Controlling Coinage Through Government Officials.

(W. H. Linn in Chicago Record.) Shall we abandon silver and adopt a single gold standard for the benefit of the few who do business with and are in direct correspondence with England...

The so-called industrial states, through their representatives, have fastened their fangs in the agricultural states and have been sucking their life-blood.

Wall street—the bankers, brokers, money-lenders and speculators, who have placed themselves in line for a single gold standard—has found in our late presidents willing advocates of its schemes.

A single gold standard that the free coinage of silver is in the special interest of the mine-owners. Are not the people interested in the coal mines of Illinois as well as the owners...

When the facts are considered there is nothing very difficult to understand in the silver question, but it requires a great deal of misrepresentation on the part of the so-called "honest-money" men to confuse and mislead the "unwary."

Prof. Lawrence Laughlin addressed himself to the Bankers' association of Chicago in a manner that must have led some to suppose that what he said had the stamp of deity upon it.

The common people must not be misled by men with high-sounding titles. Their theories, like their conclusions, are often based upon false premises.

THE OYSTER'S TREASURE.

A Poetical and Also a Commercial Consideration of Pearls.

Eleven thousand five hundred pounds sterling for a pearl necklace! It is at the rate of $32 a pearl, and if some of them were of noble dimensions...

Dead Fish by the Thousands.

The recent rains washed so much Chicago sewage into the Illinois River that thousands on thousands of fish have died.

A Rare Chance, Perhaps.

Daughter—Here's a queer advertisement in the Trumpet: "A well cultured baby for adoption."

A Deed and a Word.

A little stream had lost its way Amid the grass and fern; A passing stranger scooped a well Where weary men might turn.

He walled it in and hung with care A ladle at the brink; He thought not of the deed he did, But judged that all might drink.

He passed again, and lo, the well, By summer never dried, Had cooled ten thousand parching tongues And saved a life besides!

A nameless man, amid a crowd That thronged the daily mart, Let fall a word of life and love, Unstudied, from the heart.

A whisper on the tumult thrown— A transitory breath— It raised a brother from the dust: It saved a soul from death.

O germ, O fount, O word of love! O thought at random cast! Ye were but little at the first, But mighty at the last! —Charles Mackay.

The Fireplaces.

Wherefore decorate the fireplace with plants and screens, and photograph racks, fern-backed glass and flower-fronted silks and muslins? asks a writer in the New York Advertiser.

The Northwest Was Acquired From The British By Force of Arms—Helpful Hints for Bicyclists—The Flowers of the Sky.

In 1776, when Independence was declared, the United States included only the original thirteen states on the seaboard. With the exception of a few hunters there were no white men west of the Alleghany mountains.

The man to whom this conquest was due was a famous backwoods leader, a mighty hunter, a noted Indian fighter, George Rogers Clark. He was very strong man, with light hair and blue eyes, of a good Virginian family.
