Resignation of a Regent. Lincoln dispatch: The resignation of Henry D. Estabrook as one of the six regents of the State university was received at the governor's office today. It is accompanied by the request that the resignation take effect on its acceptance by the governor. This will be upon the appointment of Mr. Estabrook's successor. The latter's term would not have expired until January, 1900. This morning the board of regents held a meeting at the university building. Gould of Ogalalla were installed to membership of the board. Regent Estabrook formally announced his intention of removing to Chicago and consequent resignation from the board. The board then adopted resolutions highly commendatory of Regent Estabrook and Regent Morrill for their great zeal and interest manifested in the work of the university.

In the Hands of His Friends. Washington dispatch: Ex-Senator Manderson of Nebraska, in an interview, admitted that he was in the hands of his friends as a candidate for the presidential nomination before the republican convention at St. Louis. For months Mr. Manderson has been the recipient of letters from all parts of the country urging him to enter the contest. The insistence, he said, seemed to become more persistent with his expressions of disinclination and before leaving Nebraska he stated that he would make no further opposition, but would remain passive.

General Manderson said tonight that the various marks of confidence and manifestations of endorsement which would be apparent by the presentation of his name at St. Louis are most grateful and acceptable. He has been greatly influenced by the kindly expressions of the eastern press, particularly Pennsylvania, where he was born, and Ohio, where his early manhood was spent. Under the circumstances he can only stand and wait.

The New Irrigation Law. As the time approaches when the new district irrigation law becomes effective by the organization of districts and the voting in this proposition a number of questions of general interest to people contemplating such action are being submitted to the state officers. One of these is in relation to who are eligible voters. One such inquirer wants to know if one living on a homestead which he has filed upon, but in which he has not made final proof, is eligible to vote. The language of the act itself on the subject of the eligibility of voters says: "No person shall be entitled to vote at any election held under the provisions of this act unless he shall be a qualified elector and the owner of real estate in such district."

There seems to have been the question raised of whether the land is taxed before the government has parted with the title and the tax levied made a lien on the land. If the holder of this kind of an incomplete right of ownership cannot be held for his part of the expenses the farm owners who have deeds to their lands say it would be an injustice to others to let them participate in the voting and government of the district.

Three Irrigation Decisions. Lincoln dispatch: The State board of Irrigation filed three opinions today. It found in favor of Andrew Carson, who appealed as contestant against the McCook Irrigating and Water company of Red Willow county. The latter company, comprising a large number of people, intervened in the case before the board and claimed under riparian common law procedure, but the board decided against it, and dismissed the intervention as immaterial to the case. The claim of R. P. James of Chase county was dismissed. He had sought to make appropriation of water from Frenchman river for mill purposes, but the board found his application deficient in detail. The claim of the Republican River Irrigation company as against J. R. Phelan, E. E. Highland, A. P. Benno and R. Williams was also dismissed on the ground that the contestant had not complied with the law of 1889. This was a case from Dundy county and involved rights to water from the Republican river.

How to Get Sugar Facilities. As the beet-raising and sugar-making has proven a success throughout the state of Nebraska, writes a correspondent to the State Journal, and most everybody seems to feel that a lasting success will be made of it, especially since that new process came in by which they claim the cost of making sugar is greatly reduced, and if the plan is carried out to build factories in different parts of the state, allow me to propose a plan by which all those are made safe who might interest themselves in this industry, and this is as follows: Suppose it takes $25,000 to erect such a factory as they say, it will cover the cost and involved rights to water from the Republican river.

M. D. HARTER A SUICIDE. THE PROMINENT OHIO EX-CONGRESSMAN KILLS HIMSELF.

AT THE HOME OF A FRIEND Shot Himself Through the Temple, Fearing That He Had Been Known for the Deed, Further Than That He Had Been Suffering From Insomnia Lately.

FOSTORIA, O., Feb. 24.—Ex-Congressman Michael D. Harter, committed suicide at the home of S. Knapp, in this city this morning. When found life was extinct and he had been dead several hours. The fatal shot was fired from a revolver, the bullet entering the right temple, penetrating the brain. He was lying on the bed with the revolver clutched in his left hand. No cause is known for the act, further than he has been suffering with insomnia for some time past.

On the bureau in his room was a letter addressed to his wife in Philadelphia, and just outside the room was found a package of letters addressed to business associates. None of these have been opened as yet.

Mr. Harter is largely interested in a number of industries and represented the Fourteenth Ohio district in Congress, but for the last two years has been residing in Philadelphia.

Michael D. Harter was born in Canton, Ohio, in 1846. He belonged to a wealthy and influential family. His father was a banker and was a man of very large means. Mr. Harter was reared a Republican but departed from the political faith of his father on the issue of protection. His mother, who died only a few years ago, was a woman of much intellectual force and sympathized with her distinguished son on the tariff issue. Although Mr. Harter was an extensive manufacturer, he was an ardent free trader. He was also a sound money man and was a consistent opponent of the silver fallacy.

He and ex-Governor McKinley were closely associated as young men and were warm friends. Mr. Harter was an earnest and active member of the Lutheran church—the faith of his parents. He lived in Mansfield, Ohio, and was an intimate companion of Senator Sherman. To all outward seeming no man in the community in which he dwelt had more to live for or could look forward to a brighter future.

WASHINGTON'S FAREWELL. Senator Frye Read It in the Senate With Fine Effect.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The Senate met today to listen to the reading of Washington's farewell address by Senator Frye, the president pro tem of the Senate. This was in accordance with a resolution previously introduced by Senator Hoar. The vice president occupied the seat of the presiding officer and Mr. Frye took his position behind the secretary's desk, thus facing the entire Senate. He read from an old print volume in large type and with a special effort. He read the address in a clear, resonant voice so that the patriotic and well rounded sentences were heard by all present.

The reading of the journal and of the address were preceded by a prayer by Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church. He asked God to bless Grover Cleveland, the President of the United States, and referring to Washington with special thanks, "for him whose name is in all hearts to-day; for the inheritance of his memory and for the inspiration of his life and example."

On motion of Mr. Perkins of California, the prayer was ordered printed in the Record.

There was a liberal attendance of senators and the only vacant seats in the galleries were in the diplomatic and senate sections. The former was entirely vacant, but almost all the seats in the gallery for the families of senators were taken. The vice president's was entirely filled and the president's was also occupied. Many presided themselves for admission to the popular galleries long before the opening of the doors. Close attention was given to the reading by senators and others, rendering the ceremony thoroughly impressive and none the less so on account of the simplicity and the absence of ostentation by which it was marked.

At the conclusion of the reading of the address, Mr. Gray of Delaware moved that the thanks of the Senate be tendered to Mr. Frye for the admirable manner in which he had read the address. The motion carried unanimously and then, at 12:57 p. m., on motion of Mr. Hoar, the Senate adjourned till Monday.

Mr. Carter gave notice of the postponement of his address heretofore announced for Monday on his notice to recommit the tariff bill until Wednesday of next week.

Refused to Pray for the State. RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 24.—It is the custom of the clerk of the Virginia house of delegates to invite a minister to open the proceedings each day with prayer. The Rev. C. J. Oelschlaeger, a German Lutheran minister, was invited to serve the house as chaplain next week. He responded thus: "I do not believe in opening a promiscuous political body with prayer. Its character makes it an abuse of prayer, and an unnatural union of church and state. I, as a Christian, and any member of the body as a Christian, can privately pray for the session, but the state which that body represents has nothing to do with prayer."

WALLING'S FIANCEE. Jackson Wrote that He Disposed of Pearl Bryan.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 20.—Two morning papers publish a statement made to them by Miss May Smith of Louisville who is acquainted with the accused murderers, Walling and Jackson. She says she was in Cincinnati January 14 and took supper with Jackson at Heider's restaurant. Jackson told her that Will Wood at Greencastle, Ind., had got a girl in trouble, and that Wood was going to send the girl here and he (Jackson) would put her out of the way. Miss Smith says she cautioned Jackson of the danger of discovery in such an enterprise. He said he was too smart to be discovered. After the murder February 1, Jackson wrote her saying that he had disposed of the girl—meaning Pearl Bryan.

Jackson, she says, intended that she should fill in the dash from her memory of the conversation at the restaurant. Miss Smith says she left the letter in Louisville securely hidden. She told the officer its hiding place.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 20.—May Smith came here early in January and was employed by Lister and wife, who opened a dress cutting establishment here on January 4. Mr. Lister said this morning that on reading the first account of the affair the girl appeared horrified, as she had been in correspondence with both Jackson and Walling, and had told Mrs. Lister that she was engaged to Walling. When the account came out in the newspapers that May Smith also had been operated on by Walling and Jackson, the girl stoutly denied it. Mr. Lister said, however, that about a week before Christmas, while in the employment of Mrs. Fuson, the girl was absent from the office a week, and if the operation was performed it was performed at that time. Mr. Lister also declared that when the girl came back to work she appeared altogether changed and appeared thinner and looked sickly.

May Smith is between 18 and 20 years of age and has dark eyes and black hair and is quite pretty. Mr. Lister says he is positive that she knew of the operation performed on Pearl Bryan by Walling.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—"I have thought, and have said so until now, that McKinley would be nominated," ex-Congressman Forman of East St. Louis said last night, "but I am of the opinion from what I have learned since I came here that he will be beaten at St. Louis. That is what the bringing out of new candidates means."

Health in Old Age. AN OLD LADY FINDS THE TRUE SOURCE OF VITALITY. A Reporter's Interesting Interview With a Lady of Seventy-two Years, Who Tells a Marvellous Story.

From the Union, Port Jervis, N. Y. But a short time ago, in a distant part of the country, we heard of a cure by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which seemed almost marvelous, and more recently another substantial evidence of their value reached our ears. Being of an inquiring turn of mind, and wishing to know just how much there was in the story, a reporter was sent to interview the person said to be thus benefited. If the narrative was not only simple and true, as it was true, as it had reached our ears, it would be known—if it proved untrue, it would be well to know it.

The person alluded to above as having been thus greatly benefited by the use of Pink Pills is Mrs. Jane Hotalen, of Hainesville, N. J., a pleasant hamlet in Sussex County, about fifteen miles from this office. The reporter had no difficulty in finding Mrs. Hotalen. After a few preliminary remarks in explanation of the call, she was asked if she had any objection to giving us the details of the case and how she came to try this now famous remedy.

"Not at all," she replied. "If my experience can be of any good to others, I am sure they are welcome to it—it can do me no harm."

"When were you taken sick and what was the nature of the malady?" was asked.

"It was about two years ago. The trouble was rheumatic in character, and they called it hotalen. It was very painful indeed. The difficulty began in my hip and extended the whole length of the limb, crippling me completely. I suffered intensely from it, and the ordinary treatment gave me no relief. I was under treatment about a month as stated, but grew worse instead of better, and was fast becoming discouraged."

"What brought Pink Pills to your notice?"

"My son called my attention to an article in a paper, in which it was stated that a Mr. Struble, of Franchville, a village in this county, had been greatly benefited by their use, and suggested that it would be a good plan to try them. But I was skeptical in regard to their value—in fact, I had no confidence in their efficacy, and rather laughed at the suggestion. But the trouble increased and I was badly crippled. A few days later my son was about to visit a neighboring town and suggested again that it might be well to try this much-talked-of remedy, and I then consented. He bought me a box of them, and I began taking them at once. At the end of a week I noticed a marked improvement, and by the time I had taken the first box I was able to walk without a cane. I continued their use, taking several boxes, and am, as you see, in a very comfortable state of health."

"Have you had any return of the trouble?"

"Not as yet, though at my time of life, seventy-two, it
