

PERSONAL, POLITICAL AND PERTINENT.

Charlie Sherman's paternal ancestor the veteran newspaper man from Cass county, was among the Plattsmouth delegates. He was not at all backward in taking hold.—Lincoln Call.

On last Friday G. R. Sanders walked into the Missouri Pacific office at Kansas City and purchased two tickets around the world, one for himself and the other for his wife, paying therefor $1,270, the regular tariff. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders expect to be two years in making the trip. They will go by rail to San Francisco, by steamer to Honolulu, Yokohama and Hong Kong; will sail through the Indian ocean, the Red sea, the Suez canal, the Mediterranean sea, and return via Liverpool.—Lincoln Journal.

The supreme court Thursday decreed that Claude Hoover, the murderer of his brother-in-law, Samuel DuBois, at Omaha last fall, must hang on the 7th day of August.

Bixby, in the State Journal, speaks thusly of the "rump" convention at Lincoln next week: "All postmasters of Nebraska who appreciate what they are getting are expected in Lincoln next Wednesday to assist in the general applause when the able speakers present denounce Governor Stone of Missouri as a populist."

Some of the shop men played a good joke on Park Commissioner Wash Smith last Monday. One of the ornate-looking little dogs that ever existed was captured down in the shop yards and placed in a keg. The keg was then placed in Mr. Smith's office and he was informed that a fine specimen of an animal had been sent him, to be placed in Garfield park. Wash took one look at the specimen, and then cast the animal, keg and all, out of a window. Wash was unable to appreciate the joke.

Johnny Fitzpatrick, the new chief of police, has many friends who have not been backward about congratulating him on his promotion.

The Auburn Post, a republican sheet, is evidently not satisfied with Bud Lindsey as a representative to the national convention, judging from the following: "It is an outrage on the republican party and common decency to have such a man as Bud Lindsey represent it anywhere, even in a slum ward of a city, but greater is the shame and disgrace to send him to St. Louis to meet with the leading and most prominent men of the nation. His color is as pure as snow when compared with his character."

A young lady at Elmwood wrote Editor Stewart of the Columbian and asked him to print a recipe for keeping the hands white, and the colonel being of a serious turn of mind, replied as follows: "Soak them in dish-water three times a day, immediately after meals."—Union Ledger.

Francis Guittar, generally known among old residents as Frank Vansaw, the oldest inhabitant of Council Bluffs, died on Saturday last, of paralysis. He was of French parentage, and could talk French or Indian very well. Years ago he was a fur trader in the employ of the American Fur company, in this up-river country. Leaving their employ in 1849 he built a block house at Trader's Point, opposite Bellevue, and bought furs of the Indians on his own account. Later on he went to Council Bluffs—first called Kanesville—and went into business, and remained there till his death. He was almost as peculiar in character as Sary, with whom he was on terms of intimate friendship. The writer remembers him from back in the 40's and hearing him talk to Omaha or Pawnee Indians, in French and in English with equal facility he thought him a wonder. His funeral took place Monday.

In the congressional reports lately there has been a great deal said about "filled cheese" and the following definition is given of the term: "Filled cheese is manufactured by extracting from all milk, the butter and fat and the substitution of what is known as neutral lard. It is then banded and gold as cheese made in the regular way." Rather a thin, questionable substitute for genuine article. Oleomargarine ain't in it with "filled cheese."—Nebraska City News.

Saturday afternoon the bustling mining town of Cripple Creek, Colo., was nearly wiped out by fire, eight business blocks being destroyed. The loss is estimated at $1,000,000. The buildings will all be rebuilt at once.

A disastrous cyclone visited Clay county, Kansas, Saturday night, and people were killed, while a large number are injured, some of them fatally. The damage to property was enormous.

Matthew Gering of Cass county, who secured a side acquaintance over the state in his canvass for attorney-general, came into the free silver fold at the convention. His coming seemed to create much joy and if there had been a calf around, fatted or unfatted, his admirers would have killed it. As it was the next best thing was the acceptance of a suggestion of Dan Honin which crowded the mahogany and seemed a successful substitute.—H.M. Bushnell in the Lincoln Journal.

In Memory of Sarah Cole Young.

Sarah Cole was born in Fairfield county, Ohio, November 12th, 1806. In her early childhood her parents removed to Pickaway county, in the same state, blazing a road through the wilderness to their new home. They remained, during life, on the land where they then settled. Her parents were God-fearing people, her father being a local preacher for many years. She was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal church, when in her seventeenth year. She was married to Thomas H. Young of Uniontown, Penn., Nov. 1st, 1825. For about twenty years they made their home in Central Ohio, where nine children were given them. Of these, five died in infancy, and he buried side by side on the banks of Walnut creek in the old Hopewell churchyard. In 1845 Mr. and Mrs. Young removed to the northwestern part of the state and settled in Allen county. Here they owned over six hundred acres of fine land. Having means, they were always liberal supporters of the church. Their house was always the home of the itinerate, and many will remember their hospitality. In order to give their children better educational advantages, they came westward in 1852, to Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. From the latter place they came to Nebraska in 1868. Here the husband and father died in 1874 at the residence of his son in Cass county. Since that time (Grandma Young as she has long been known) has lived with her son near Ashland, Neb., and with her daughter, Mrs. Coiner, of University Place, Neb. To her daughter's home at University Place the angel of death came on the morning of April 15th. Though her last years have been spent in much feebleness, she was spared the endurance of suffering in her closing hours. She lay in a stupor for about thirty-six hours not speaking and scarcely moving. Thus she passed quietly away in a painless sleep. The funeral sermon was preached at University Place on the sixteenth by H. L. Davis of the Lincoln district. His text was 2nd Corinthians, 5th chapter and 1st verse. The scripture reading was the 15th chapter of 1st Corinthians. After the services, above named, her remains were taken to Greenwood, thence to the residence of her son in Cass county, where after singing and prayer at two o'clock on the following day, her neighbors and friends followed her to Callahan cemetery, and laid her to rest until the resurrection morning. How fitting that a well rounded life should close just as all nature is making to new life a beautiful type of the changing of these mortal bodies to those which are immortal.

Radical changes are also to be made on the Lincoln branch and the old main line south of Weeping Water.—Nebraska City News.

Officials representing the entire Chicago, Burlington & Quincy system met in Galesburg and began a revision of the train and block system codes, in accordance with the recommendations of the American Railway association, which recently adopted a standard code. To conform to this new code at least one-half of the Burlington's rules must be changed and the code of the block system between Chicago and Peoria must be entirely changed. It will be three months before the Burlington's new code will be ready for use.—Lincoln Journal.

To the afflicted: Several years ago I discovered a slight falling and bleeding of the lower bowel which increased and became very distressing. I made inquiry as to the nature of the disease and learned that I had a somewhat aggravated case of Hemorrhoids or Piles. Was told of several remedies and used them as directed, obtaining thereby some temporary relief. Not being satisfied with such slight relief I cast about for a permanent cure; when a friend directed the use of the famous MAGNET PILE KILLER. I used it. Immediate relief from pain followed, and soon a complete cure was effected.
