TAUBENECK AND NORTON.
 The editor of the INDEPENDENT wishes to say to Col. Norton, Chairman Taubeneck and the editor of the Express, what he said to the delegates to the state convention. "Fight the devil and let the saints alone." He doesn't deny that the saints may sometimes lose their temper. Even Jehovah is represented in the Bible as being angry, and one should not demand more of a populist saint. Both Taubeneck and Col. Norton are men of unimpeachable honesty and integrity. Col. Norton has carried on the fight without a days intermission for 25 years, and Taubeneck has been tried in a furnace heated seven times hotter than usual and came out without the smell of fire on his garments.
 Now these two saints are fighting each other. THE INDEPENDENT advises them to stop and fight the devil awhile until they both get into a good humor again.
 Col. Norton got disgusted with the Horr-Harvey debate. He had a right to get disgusted, so were we. That debate was conducted on altogether wrong economic lines. The essential and fundamental principles of money and its functions were almost wholly ignored. It was a battle between two metals whether one or both should enjoy the favor of governments and what had been done with them in the past. Col. Norton got exceedingly weary of it, so did we. In his disgust Col. Norton wrote an editorial and wanted to drop both, gold and silver, and go in for scientific paper money. Taubeneck saw the editorial and thought that Col. Norton was going to abandon the Omaha platform on silver, and wrote a sharp letter to Col. Norton in which he said that if the populist party ever came into power it must get the votes from the free silver wings of the democratic and republican parties and on that issue alone.
 Then Col. Norton got frightened and thought that Taubeneck wanted to abandon the Omaha platform demanded for a government issue of money direct, without the intervention of banks. The Chicago Express jumped up and demanded that Taubeneck resign the chairmanship of the National committee and said several very naughty things. So the saints got to fighting.
 The facts are that Col. Norton never intended to abandon the free silver plank and Taubeneck never at any time advocated making a fight on a single silver issue. That fight was started by a chap who furnishes a lot of socialistic trash for the patent insides, who went to the Associated Press agent in Kansas City, and reported that the reform press had held a meeting and passed a resolution demanding Taubeneck's resignation, when there had been no meeting held and no resolution passed.
 Chairman Taubeneck has written another letter to Col. Norton. It is too long for our limited space, but part of it so clearly states why populist, who believe that money is a creation of law, vehemently demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver, we print it in another column. Every populist, and especially populist speakers and writers should read it.

LINCOLN AND VICINITY.
 Will he be a just judge? That is the point to consider in this campaign.
 Low stock is at a very low ebb, doubtless owing to Sam's questionable political affiliations.
 Ex-Congressman McKeigan will speak in Lincoln, Oct. 23d, and every one should hear him.
 Orders for copies of THE INDEPENDENT have been received from several different states this week. Several bundles went to Iowa and Kentucky.
 Hon. W. J. Bryan returned this week from his speech making trip in the far west. He received a hearty greeting from his numerous friends.
 Lincoln park presented a splendid attraction last Sunday in Agnew's Juvenile band, of Creston, Ia. It is a splendid organization and drew a large crowd.
 The republicans, after reading the INDEPENDENT last week, built a funeral pyre and burned their Irish terrier transparency, and will rely on the old yellow dog breed of candidates.
 Mrs. T. H. Tibbles (Bright Eyes) arrived in Lincoln, Wednesday evening, and immediately began work on THE INDEPENDENT. For sometime, at least, she will write for no other paper or magazine.
 The young bloods who are running the republican party this year have learned that it is a much bigger job than they contracted for as the old stand-bys refuse to overlook the snubs of the bleeds in the outset, when they started out to run the campaign on their own hook.
 Reports from every portion of the county are to the effect that the populists are gaining votes every day. Citizens of the county have become tired of ring rule, jobbery, thievery and the result will be the election of the entire populist ticket. The people want honest government once more.
 The esteemed Call recently made a vigorous attempt to establish John Trompens moral standing by announcing that he would not do campaign work on Sunday, out of respect to his family. Wonder how the Call would like us to tell where John was on the night of his nomination? Doubtless for a time he had forgotten his family on that occasion.
 Mr. T. H. Tibbles, the editor of THE INDEPENDENT, begins the campaign in Cedar county Monday, Oct. 14, and will speak in that and adjoining counties under the direction of the state committee for ten or twelve days. Between speeches he will write editorials for THE INDEPENDENT.
 You should be a subscriber to this great family journal.

Another conscientious republican editor has been discovered—the Bennett Union man. Having tired of republican ring rule he has bolted the ticket and is out in support of the populist nominees.
 Every republican paper in the county has endorsed Col. Fred Miller's honest, economical administration of the sheriff's office time and again during the past two years. Fred will be re-elected by a handsome majority.
 Elias Baker is making a clean, honorable campaign. His record of the past four years in the district clerk's office is above reproach, his character clean and his integrity beyond question. Baker is all right.
 For twenty-five years the republicans held the office of district clerk in Lancaster county and worked it for all there was in it. In all that time there was not a word said or printed about the excessive emoluments of the office. Of all the hypocrites on the face of this round earth, a republican ring hypocrite is the most disgusting.
 As the canvass advances the fact becomes more and more apparent that in the acceptance of the nomination for county clerk by Prof. G. H. Walters, the citizens of this county have an opportunity to procure the services of the most competent man for whom they have ever had the privilege of voting for that office. The court records under his charge would be models for the whole state. A beautiful penman, a fine scholar and a perfect gentleman everywhere and all the time, the county should feel honored in having Mr. Walters in its service. The speeches he has made in this campaign show a very high order of intellect. Mr. Walters will be elected.
 Lancaster county never had the opportunity to secure as competent a man in all its history for probate judge as it has now in the person of Mr. G. W. Berge. He is a man well learned in the law and of the highest standing in the better circles of society. He will give dignity to this court, which has so often been thrown to the ragtag and bobtail of the profession, although it is in reality one of the most important positions in the county. The man who presides over it should be a man of learning, integrity and good judgment. Such a man is Mr. Berge. The county will be honored by securing his services in that position. Everywhere he goes he makes hosts of friends, and without doubt he will be elected by a very large majority. Every man who wants to be on the winning side will have to vote for Berge.
