

members are taking sides with capital and against labor, in the present struggle.

No man can be assured of the prosperity of his sons and the virtue of his daughters, after his guiding hand has been removed by death, except by a system of government that will insure the prosperity and virtue of every man's children.

When you get so you despise the man who raises your food and the man who cooks it, and refuse to associate with the man who shaves you and the man who builds your home and the man who digs coal to warm your home—then you are a "gentleman."

EDWIN LE FEVRE.

A Letter From Mayor Weir.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 23, 1894.

Editor WEALTH MAKERS:

From copies of your paper furnished me (for which I have since subscribed), and from statements of friends, I find that considerable reference has been made to myself as a prospective candidate for governor.

I do not make these statements in the interest of any political canvass, but simply to claim justice as an Independent. Parties are going back three or four years, quoting statements I then made, as an evidence of my present political faith.

I am gratified at the paucity of material that they are able to find for these attacks.

The fact that they are using material that is absolutely unimportant and of no significance shows the weakness of their case.

Since the above was written I have received a copy of the paper with "Some Observations" by Mr. LeFevre. The attacks made upon me by Mr. LeFevre are unjust and uncalled for.

Very truly,
A. H. WEIR.

challenge investigation. When first elected mayor of this city, I was an Independent Republican. I had taken little interest in politics, and like many members of the old parties to day, had simply voted the party ticket without special knowledge of the conditions of interest involved.

If there is today an essential principle of the Independent party that I do not and have not endorsed, I would be glad to have some one point it out.

In the coming canvass my position is fully expressed in the earnest and sincere wish to see the party successful. I feel much gratified by the generous endorsement of my friends, and do not feel called upon to rebuke them for their consideration.

Since the above was written I have received a copy of the paper with "Some Observations" by Mr. LeFevre. The attacks made upon me by Mr. LeFevre are unjust and uncalled for.

Very truly,
A. H. WEIR.

A Physical Editor Arraigned.

ELGIN, Neb., May 21, 1894.

Editor WEALTH MAKERS:

In the advance of May 3, a so-called religious paper published at Chicago, appear two articles occupying considerable space on the editorial page, both condemning the Coxy or Commonweal movement.

Truly the editor of the Advance has forgotten those things which transpired and those teachings which were handed down to humanity by the all-wise Creator himself in Galilee, about 1,900 years ago; he has outgrown all those sayings about charity and about the rich man; he has forgotten that "it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom."

As to my record as an Independent, I challenge investigation. When first elected mayor of this city, I was an Independent Republican. I had taken little interest in politics, and like many members of the old parties to day, had simply voted the party ticket without special knowledge of the conditions of interest involved.

editor mean by the term flat? But probably he has but a "hazy idea" himself; he is writing as well as preaching what a rich congregation desires. Moreover he no doubt draws a good salary from some metropolitan church, and his salary goes farther when money is scarce than when it is abundant.

Will this religious editor please explain the cause of the present depression? No doubt he will say it is tinkering with the tariff, as that is the stereotyped excuse of the gang that assured us less than a year ago, that the tide of prosperity would set in upon the repeal of the Sherman Silver purchase act.

As to the assertion that the industrial armies are composed of tramps and vagabonds, it is a well known fact Carl Brown made his boasts that the army contained no bummers, boodlers or bankers. Of course this assertion does not amount to proof, but it comes from reliable sources everywhere where one of these Commonweal armies passed through, that no one could enlist with them who could not produce good credentials showing that he had been employed in honest pursuits up to or during the last year.

Again, does the Advance editor suppose for one moment that such discipline as exists could be maintained among a band of tramps? Was there ever a greater exhibition of discipline than Coxy's men showed during the disgraceful proceedings of his arrest in Washington?

Why should not these unemployed come to Washington and pray congress for relief? The editor of the Advance admits that something is wrong somewhere. Congress is intended to regulate the affairs of the country and to provide for its necessities.

It is only since the John Bull policy of contracting the circulation of money below the acquired amount that tramps have become numerous. It dates only from a time after the visit from Ernest Seyd to this country. It is certainly better to join a commonweal army and assist in calling attention of the people to the condition of the country than to become a pauper on the community at home; and so long as Washington is responsible for this condition of affairs and has made all the "tramps," it is just that they should gravitate there.

All honor to THE WEALTH MAKERS and to Senator Allen for the brave course adopted in regard to the Coxy movement.

THE HOPE OF THE AGES. THE MARCH OF THE WORKERS. BATTLE HYMN OF THE WRONGER. MOLLY AND THE BABY. ON TO WASHINGTON.

The above named songs have most of them been set to new music for the author and compiler by a half dozen very excellent composers in Lincoln and Chicago.

The above songs are solos and quartettes with piano prelude and accompaniments, also many for mixed voices. The music of most of the songs is easy, and the more difficult can be handled by good voices with thrilling, wonderful effect.

It has been left to Mr. George Howard Gibson to introduce a new tone into the songs of the party, and to write a series of patriotic songs which are hardly surpassed by any in our literature for loftiness of motive and real merit from a literary point of view.

No higher praise could be given the 15 songs, and certainly as much can be said regarding the 70 songs of Armageddon, which include the 15 and furnish a much wider range and fuller treatment of the question of human needs and rights.
