The People's Party is the Only New Party That Can Get a Ticket in the Field in 1896.

On June 14 the St. Louis Chronicle editorially said:

"The Memphis silver convention, in which democrats, republicans, populists and members of the bimetallic party are participating harmoniously, proves beyond a doubt that the people will have a chance to vote in 1896 on the question of whether or not they want free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1.

"Unless one large party or the other puts a plain declaration to that effect in its national platform and nominates a man whose record will be a guarantee that the platform's provisions will be complied with, a new party will fill the void, and no 'straddle' will be tolerated. This new party will be made up of the smaller parties and of disinterested adherents of silver in the large parties.

"Ex-Congressmen Bryan and Bland are non-committal as to their probable course if the gold wing of the democrats controls the national convention. If either wants the nomination of the new party he can have it. If not, Congressman Joseph Sibley will be the nominee.

"The Memphis convention shows these things.

"There is also a growing possibility of a 'bolt' in the democratic national convention and of the nomination of two democratic candidates, one as likely as not Grover Cleveland, and the other some great recognized silver leader. In this case the new party movement would consolidate with the silver democrats.

"The uncertainty as to the action of the democratic national convention is the only dam that checks a great onward rush of a non-partisan silver movement. No decided action can be taken before the democratic convention adopts its platform."

In the same issue of the Chronicle, the Associated press says:

"Senator Carter, of Montana, chairman of the republican national committee, and Senator Dubois, of Idaho, are preparing to start to Cleveland to attend the meeting of the national league of Republican clubs.

"Senator Carter stated to a friend that he would get a declaration friendly to silver from the league convention or break the meeting up in a row. Senator Dubois said that he would infinitely rather see a silver democrat in the white house than a gold advocate of his own party. The senator says he is not alone in this feeling and that his republican brethren of the west are with him almost solidly. Senator Dubois said:

"We shall attempt to secure the nomination of Mr. Cameron and the adoption of a free silver platform, but failing in that, we shall declare in favor of free coinage and shall nominate a ticket of our own and throw the election of the president into the house of representatives.

"If neither party declares for silver we would then nominate Senator Teller for president and either Senator Morgan or Senator Daniel, or possibly some other strong southern man, as vice president, and would divide the vote of both parties."

The usual free silver preamble and resolutions were adopted by the Memphis silver convention without discussion. The crucial part of the platform follows verbatim.

Resolved, That a committee composed of one member from each state be appointed by the delegates thereof in this convention, whose duty it shall be to correspond with the representative advocates of bimetallic and bimetallic societies in the different sections of the union, to devise measures to advance the cause of bimetallicism throughout the United States. That this committee shall have power to cause a national conference of bimetallicists whenever in the opinion of the committee the cause of bimetallicism can be advanced thereby. Said committee shall have power to fill all vacancies.

This resolution, which concludes the platform, is looked upon as a threat to the gold-bug wing of the democracy. It provides for an instantaneous convention following the refusal of the national democratic convention to insert a 16 to 1 plank in its platform. This plank constitutes the compromise between the men who wanted a new party, and the old line silver democrats.

In view of the existing status of affairs, as outlined in the foregoing utterances and news paragraphs, the Iowa populists did wisely and well when, in state convention assembled, they adopted the following finance planks in their state platform:

The people's party of Iowa, in state convention assembled, reaffirm the principles of the Omaha platform. Recognizing with satisfaction the expression of individual opinion among citizens, irrespective of party, in favor of the restoration of silver to its constitutional place in the coinage of the country, at the ratio of 16 to 1, we extend the right hand of fellowship to all men who are willing to join with us in the dethronement of the money power of Wall street and Europe and the emancipation of producing classes of the world.

We further demand that until such time as a government system of finance can be established that all banking institutions, national, state and private, be required to give security to depositors for all moneys received for deposit. Of course all populists understand that a "government system of finance" includes a system of government banks and money at the cost of carrying on the system.

Populists ought to keep away from these democratic silver conventions meeting in the various states. This applies especially to populists in prominent official positions or who are recognized as leaders. Let the democrats manage their affairs in their own way without suggestion that we are especially interested or anxious to be consulted in the shaping of their policy. Populists should remember that they have a party and policy of their own and are only incidentally interested in the action of other parties. —Nonconformist.

It is true that a dollar now will buy more than it ever would before in the history of the country. What we need is labor and labor products that will buy more dollars than they will now. Do you object to that?—Clay Center Dispatch.

POINTS FOR THE PEOPLE.

Between the eastern gold-bug and the western silver-bug, both thirsting for his blood, the wage-worker finds it hard, indeed, to keep soul and body together.—Marshall (Mo.) People's Record.

Silver orators have a whole lot of good things to talk about but they can't reach the bottom of things by a long shot without getting onto matters with which silver has nothing to do.—Farmers' Tribune.

This democratic free silver business looks like deathbed repentance, doesn't it? If it was real repentance of the whole party it might do, but the biggest half of the party, biggest at least in influence, is still serving the devil—the gold power.—Missouri World.

The chief objection to "Coin's Financial School" is that all over the country the question of silver vs. gold is raised, whereas the education should be the adoption of a plan to do away with private banks. The bank question is the money question.—Portland (Ore.) People's Party Post.

Gen. Weaver may have had great influence in the greenback and populist conventions of the past, but his reign seems over. In the populist convention of Iowa there was sawdust all over the hall, which represented the insides of the once doughty and powerful general.—Des Moines Leader.

The only silver party is the people's party. No division at all upon the subject. If you really favor free silver, step over into the people's party and you will get it, and in no other way will you get free coinage of silver without alloy, and 100 cents to the dollar. If after getting free silver you don't like our platform, you can step out.—Arensburg (Ky.) Journal.

Says a late Washington special: "A careful canvass of the members of the next house, so far as their position has been disclosed by their votes in previous congresses, or by their public declarations, show about 24 republicans for and 230 opposed to free coinage. The democratic division is 75 for and 80 opposed to free coinage. The populist strength of 7 is wholly for free coinage. The total of these figures is 106 for and 250 against free coinage."

The much talked of and feared split in the state convention was no split at all. When the wind work all were off it was found that all were practically in accord; all wanted to endorse the Omaha platform, make a radical money state platform, put up a ticket of the best men of the party, get out and hustle and get to the front; and that in just what was and is to be done. Internal strife is of no advantage to anybody but the enemy.—Iowa Farmers' Tribune.

The people's party columns are filling up in every section of the west and south, and the prospects grow brighter every day. From Minnesota to Texas and from California to Georgia come words of cheer and hope. Brothers, don't wait for others to turn out and do the great missionary work but go yourself and keep up the good work in a relentless way. The studying, thinking men of the old parties are leaving those old rotten organizations in droves.—Mississippi People.

The telegraph every day is telling of many who are coming out for free silver. The "sound money" men of New York have organized against silver, calling it the "money question." Wall street and the telegraph like to knock down straw men provided they can have the privilege of putting up their kind of straw men. Say, populists, don't you think it about time to drop silver like a hot potato, as the German socialists have done?—Portland (Ore.) People's Party Post.

The first news of Mr. Olney's selection as the successor of Secretary Gresham comes from London, England. It will be remembered that Mr. Cleveland's message to the special session of congress was cabled to the United States from London. It is time for the people of the United States to inquire who is running this government, the American people or Great Britain. This country, under the present administration, is nothing but a southern Canadian province of England.—Southern Mercury.

Right Arm Paralyzed! Saved from St. Vitus Dance.

"Our daughter, Blanche, now fifteen years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. We feared St. Vitus dance, and tried the best physicians, with no benefit. She has taken three bottles of Dr. Miles' Nerveine and has gained 31 pounds. Her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid."
