THE LINCOLN OLIGARCHY.

How They Rule the Province of Lancaster.

LINCOLN, NEB., April 20, 1896.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT: I wonder if your readers know that this community as well as this state is governed by an oligarchy or perhaps more properly speaking by a limited monarchy.

Thereupon the machine is organized and in running order and whatever the king or local governor says goes. And woe betide the luckless fool who once having been elevated to office by their aid, so far forgets himself as to fail to do anything they forbid him to do.

No small amount of discussion has been caused in New York church circles by the fact that the beautiful and convincing Easter sermon preached by Rev. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES.

Are they the "isms" that Frighten People.

We are asked many times by old party men who are not satisfied with their party leadership, to abandon our "isms" and take up something that is practical.

Let us see what those "isms" are. It may be said that our party creed is based on four fundamental propositions, namely:

- First—The earth is the primary source of subsistence. Second—Labor is the source of production. Third—Transportation is the means of distributing property. Fourth—Money is the medium for exchanging values.

These four propositions cover the whole field of human exertion. These principles are fundamental. All the rest are matters of detail.

We believe that the earth is the lawful heritage of the people who live on it. We believe that every child born into the world has a right to live here and to a place to earn a livelihood.

We believe that there is work enough for all to do, and how to get the idle employed is another of our "isms."

We believe that all the people are vitally interested in securing an equitable distribution of the surplus productions of labor. Hence we believe that transportation is a public function and that it ought to be performed by public agencies.

We believe that money is the most subtle and refined of distributing agencies; that the proper function of money is to serve a public use; and that to allow private persons or corporations to issue money and control its volume and the rates of interest, is to put the people's property in the hands of speculators.

The people's party is the only great national organization that has set out on living lines. Its "isms" are so many broad and deep problems that all thinking men are now striving to solve.—Topeka Advocate.

THE NEWBERRY FREIGHT BILL.

The Supreme Court will Declare it Constitutional.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20.

The supreme court today announced that it would require a rehearing and reargument of the Nebraska maximum rate cases. This decision of the court was a great surprise, as the cases had been heard by a full bench and a final decision had not been anticipated by the attorneys prior to the summer recess.
