SAVE DOCTOR BILLS.

THE BOOK FOR EVERYBODY.

An Encyclopedia of Medical Instruction by the Leading Medical Men of the Country.

A helpful companion for all classes and a storehouse of the latest medical knowledge, a complete encyclopedia on home nursing, on infant feeding; tells you what to do in cases of accident, how to nurse and treat the sick. It gives the anatomy and physiology of both the sexes. Hygiene of the home and of the sick room. Children's diseases and how to treat them by simple and safe remedies. Over five hundred prescriptions.

A Few of the Remedies Advised.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS—The book is worth many times the price asked for it to mothers who have the care of small children. The section devoted to children's diseases is the most modern of anything yet published. It is brought up to date—1896.

NURSING—Nothing is more conducive to the comfort of the sick than to have an able nurse. By following the instructions and studying carefully the section devoted to this branch of the healing art, you can become perfectly proficient in this science. Every woman should know what to do and the best way of doing it in case they are suddenly called upon to care for the sick.

INFANT FEEDING—This section alone is worth many times the price asked for the book. Here the mother, whether she be young and inexperienced, or whether she may have had a world of experience, will find words of wisdom. She will find what is the best food for the baby, and the very latest and best way to prepare it.

DISEASES OF CHILDREN—The treatment of children's diseases has been revolutionized during the past few years; all that is new and by experience proven to be the best, has been incorporated in this section. No book of recent date, not even for doctors, is as advanced in its treatment of this important branch as this book. This late treatment for that dreaded disease—Diphtheria—which has proven so fatal to so many, is here given.

DISEASES PECULIAR TO WOMEN—In this section will be found invaluable information for every woman and for every maiden just merging into womanhood. The advice and treatment here given is the latest and best. It is by a physician who has long been a specialist in this class of diseases.

THE STOMACH—There is no one but what recognizes the fact that a sound stomach is the prime requisite for a sound body. The diseases of this important organ have been dwelt upon at great length. The very best means are minutely described for restoring this organ to a healthy state after being once deranged.

THE LIVER—Every individual knows the vast role this organ plays in the human organism. If it be out of fix the whole family and most of the neighbors know it, for he is a nuisance to himself and all about him. This book gives a minute description of this all-important organ, and a clear portrayal of its varied diseases. It then tells how these may be corrected and the organ restored to its healthy condition.

NO USE FOR MONEY.
Down in Arkansas a farmer went into a bank and he and the cashier, who was a gold bug, got into a discussion on the money question. "Why," said the banker, "the business of the world is done on checks and drafts. Now, for instance, you pay a debt with a check; the man you give it to may turn it over to some one he owes, and that check will probably pay a dozen debts and not a dollar in money will change hands; so, you see, the fact of the business is that money is not needed at all, as checks and drafts really do the business of the world."
"Well," said the farmer, "I am glad that money is no longer needed in doing business. I have a thousand dollars on deposit in this bank. I will just draw that money out of the bank, as it is not needed, and go on issuing checks, just as I have been."
"Oh, no," quickly exclaimed the banker. "Of course you understand that principle don't apply in your case."—Schoenheit's Campaign Stories.

One thing is certain and that is that there will be no delivering over of populists at St. Louis. The nominee, whoever he may be, will be the choice of the delegates elected by the populists of the country to carry out their wishes.—Tribune.

Teller the Right Man.
Mr. Teller is now without a party, but in its stead he enjoys the admiration of every lover of reform, equal rights and equality before the law. The reform forces will do the right thing to make him their standard bearer for the presidency.—Free Press.

We Won't do it.

Our Messengers Wanderings.
KIMBALL, June 12, 1896.
Special to the INDEPENDENT.—Kimball, the county seat of Kimball county, was reached in my regular round on the afternoon of the 10th inst. This county is at the present time politically in the hands of the pops and is in a very good condition financially, and with a few years of economic management such as the present board of commissioners are exercising the county will be in a very prosperous condition so far as her finances are concerned. A large number of her people have learned the very valuable lesson that cattle, horse and sheep farming is the one thing which can be done successfully and with profit in this part of the state. We met and became acquainted with most of the county officers of this county and quite a number of her farmers and business men and can say in this connection that their treatment of me was cordial, courteous and gentlemanly.

Having finished my work at Kimball, I left for Harrisburg, the county seat of Banner county in company with a Mr. A. S. Alexander of that county who, by the way, is one of the best posted men along the lines of reform that I met while in the west. He is fully conversant with all the questions which are now agitating the public and is a firm believer in the maxim of the survival of the fittest, he is an original and life long reformer and hopes to live to see the day dawn of the realization of his fondest hope in the restoration of the great American idea of patriotic devotion to the best interests of our republic.

Reaching Harrisburg on the morning of the 12th inst we found a little city nestling at the foot of the high lands in a sort of valley. This place is the county seat of Banner county as above stated and centrally located and like most of the towns in this section of the state, is at a stand still. We visited the court house and met most of the county officers and they appear to be very clever gentlemen, and while the county financially, is not in a first-class condition which is largely due to the fact of the crop failure of the past three years, yet the people have hopes for the future. "Hope is the buoy which stimulates the human mind to action in the face of almost insurmountable difficulties."

To the north of Harrisburg about eight miles can be seen the heavy and rugged tops of the Wild Cat mountains towering skyward to an altitude of 700 feet above the surrounding valley with their sides and tops covered with a growth of pine and fir trees. On our journey to the north on our way to Gering, the county seat of Scotts Bluffs county, we pass to the east of the Wild Cat mountains at the east end of which lies the valley of Ashford consisting of a few scattered houses. This place is on the Pumpkin Seed creek, the water of which is utilized for irrigation purposes etc. A short distance from Ashford we begin the ascent of what is known in this section of the state as the divide mountains which cover a distance of at least eight miles and are in many respects very attractive to the traveler. These mountains are covered with a growth of pine and fir trees, and occasionally a few cottonwood, maple and boxelder are found. They also furnish good grazing for cattle and horses. Coming to the north side of these mountains and at the highest point over which the road lay, we got a glimpse of Gering about eight miles in the distance. In the course of time and after a very circuitous route we reached the valley on the north of the mountains, at a distance of five miles south from Gering. This place is situated on the south side of the North Platte at a distance of one and one-half miles and at the east end of which is known as Scotts Bluffs. This bluff range of bluffs rise to a distance of 750 feet above the Platte river and are grand to behold. Dome rock, one of its most important features rises somewhat higher than its neighbors and has a great striking resemblance to a dome on some public building, very similar to the dome on the capitol at Washington. Gering is the only county seat town in the western part of the state which is doing anything in the way of building, however she has advantages over her neighbors notwithstanding the fact that she is nearly sixty miles from railroad. She has a rich valley in places ten to twelve miles wide which is watered by a system of ditches the completion of which will cause her wide acres to yield a rich and abundant harvest, and with a railroad this valley will realize her most extravagant hopes and her future prosperity will be assured. Gering is well built and her business men are doing a profitable business and her citizens are prosperous and happy.

Gone to Her Long Home.
APELOUSAS, La., June 22, 1896.
EDITOR INDEPENDENT: I am en route with my two motherless daughters from Apelousas, La., to Braidentowa, Fla., my new home and field of labor. From that place I was recalled by telegram on June 4th, but arrived too late. My wife, well known to very many citizens of Nebraska and Kansas, died on that day in the 55th year of her age. She will be remembered by many for her earnest and faithful Christian service and for her constant faith and love toward God, and unwearying efforts for others in numerous home mission fields. Her children rise up and call her blessed. She left behind to mourn her death with her husband the following children: George A. Griffes, editor and Publisher of the Grant County News, Pond Creek, Okla.; Rev. James L. Griffes, pastor Presbyterian church, Marshall, Ill.; A. Arthur Griffes, former editor of the Guide-Times, Superior, Neb., and Public Journal, Hastings, Neb., now a student of theology at Maryville, Tenn.; Philena E. and Ethel C. E. Griffes, who, with their father, return to Florida. JAS. A. GRIFFES.

Almost Paralyzed.
The Remarkable Testimony of a Husband and Wife to the Virtues of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.
From the Wave, Odell, Nebraska.
A reporter of the Wave, having heard of the great faith Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Brace of Odell, Nebraska, have in the curative qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, determined to see the parties in person and ascertain the truth of the reports.
With that purpose in view a drive was taken to their fine farm a few miles west of town, where Mrs. Brace was found busily engaged in assisting her husband make wire fence. No doubt noticing our surprise, she apologized, saying, that the children were old enough to be of much help with the house work, and she thus had time to assist her husband, which not only gave her pleasure, but at the same time saved the wages that would otherwise go to pay hired help.
"But it is possible that you have recovered so as to do work requiring the constant use of your arms, without suffering?" asked the reporter.
This question elicited the following wonderful story: "I do not wonder that you are surprised," said Mrs. Brace, "for, as everyone in this vicinity knows, for several years I was nearly crippled, and suffered constantly from rheumatism. When I first felt the attack I got medicine from a local physician, but instead of getting better I grew worse until I suffered intense agony, which no one who has not had the dread disease can understand. In hopes of relief, leading physicians in other towns were consulted, and they all agreed in pronouncing it a severe case of muscular rheumatism, and as their prescriptions were taken month after month without beneficial results, they ceased to give encouragement and said that I was gradually becoming paralyzed."

"I had by that time become so crippled that I had to give up all work, and the only way I could carry my right arm was in an upright position. Any attempt to lower it caused excruciating pain. Constant suffering caused general debility, and life seemed too great a burden to bear. It is said a drowning man will catch at a straw, and so it was in my case as I read a testimonial in a newspaper I happened to pick up, of a case similar to mine which had been cured by Pink Pills for Pale People and I determined to give them a trial.
"I admit my faith was weak, for I had always been prejudiced against so-called patent medicines, but by the time I had taken three boxes the relief was so apparent that I determined to continue their use. In a few weeks my general health improved, and I could move my arm without difficulty, and by the time ten boxes had been used I felt better than I had for years, and I can now say that I am cured. I always keep the pills in the house and take a box of them every spring as a blood purifier and at any time that I take cold and fear a return of my old trouble."

Continuing, Mrs. Brace said: "I give all the credit of my recovery to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and both my husband and I shall always be ready to speak in their praise. We tell our neighbors on every occasion of their virtues and if you think this of sufficient interest we will be glad to have this testimonial made public, hoping it may be of benefit to those who otherwise would be lifelong sufferers."
To confirm her story beyond doubt, Mrs. Brace made the following affidavit: State of Nebraska,) County of Gage,)
Mrs. I. O. Brace, being duly sworn on her oath, saith that the foregoing statement is just and true.
(Signed) Mrs. I. O. BRACE.
Subscribed and sworn to before me, F. R. Joy, a notary public, on the 28th day of March, 1896. F. R. JOY,
