rows in spite of him to the United States senate, and then it turned around and knocked all of Pingree's efforts to tax the railroads into smithereens.

The investigation under way at Washington during the last week or two has shown beyond the possibility of a doubt that the government pays the railroads for carrying the mail a little over ten times as much as the express companies pay for exactly the same service.

The dispensary system for controlling the liquor traffic seems to be growing. South Dakota has adopted it and Georgia has passed a law that allows counties to adopt it.

Senator Chandler is making vigorous onslaughts upon the republican machine in New Hampshire. He declares that the corporations have full control of the party, and that the Boston and Maine railroad contributed a sum to the republican campaign equal to one dollar for every inhabitant of the state.

General Egan is the chap that wanted to give the great English brewers trust a big lift by opening a "canteen" in every volunteer regiment in the service.

J. Sterling Morton began his paper last week with these words: "The consummate fruit of civilization and Christianity and the culmination and end of human progress is to approximate justice."

championship belt. In a late issue he declared that in 1893 the foreign bankers refused to receive silver certificates, which is the same as refusing silver dollars, and invariably threw them out, but that since McKinley has established confidence they are as good as gold all over the world.

Congress has kept an Indian commission in service for several years, composed of several members, all drawing $5,000 a year each with ex-Senator Dawes at the head of it, whose mission was to get the five civilized tribes to sign a treaty to abandon the form of government that congress and the president guaranteed to them in the most solemn manner.

General Egan said that either he or Miles should be driven out of the army. The people have't the slightest doubt which one it is since Egan has shown that he can blackguard worse than a drunken trooper of the Seventh cavalry.

The Swell Head American's eyes were so bunged up the next morning after Foraker made his speech that they all went and bought green goggles and have worn them ever since.

Whatever else we have, or may annex, it seems certain that we have annexed the Cuban small pox. There is not a particle of doubt that the recent scourge of that disease which has afflicted so many different communities in widely scattered portions of the country was brought about by returning soldiers.

Senator Gray, the goldbug democrat who was on the peace commission, was given a dinner in Washington the other night where he talked about imperialism as the "will of providence," "a duty" and "a burden that cannot be avoided."

Rev. Mr. Marsh, in his sermon at All Souls church last Sunday said that the "men without a country" were a menace to civilization. The members of the great banking houses who control the business of the world are men without a country.

The Fourth Infantry have started for the Philippines. This regiment is called regulars but of the 1,500 men in the regiment, all are raw recruits except about three hundred. Many of those poor fellows will never see their native land again.

Germany still continues to enjoy the benefits of a high tariff and the gold standard. She is the market for another big loan. More debt and more taxation for the coming generations of Germans.

The London newspapers all declared that the reports of Foraker's speech were a fake. Afterwards some of them began to talk ugly. Imperialism has its most ardent advocates located in London and this seeming turning back by McKinley was an astonishment to them.

Col. Stark informs the Governor the returning soldiers from Manila will be landed in California in their tropical uniforms and that the government will not furnish them any others. That is Algerism with a McKinley sanction to it.

In the next campaign the gold bugs will have two classes of workers, paid and unpaid. These latter will go about the streets with holes in their pants and their toes protruding from their shoes shouting for "money that is good in Europe." They will get no pay but they will shout just the same.

The eastern papers are beginning to talk about "the endless chain" again. The goldites seemed to be very scared about it, but it is a machine of their own construction. It was invented by John Sherman and first operated by Foster.

If this legislature wants to do a sensible thing, it will pass a law sending any man to jail who kills a quail or is found with one in his possession. Insect pests are the terror of every man engaged in farming and just as the birds are killed the insects increase.

Here is a little imperialistic logic such as is filling the republican papers east and west just at this time, only it is turned end for end as it were: The expansionists are tearing the constitution in shreds and trampling it under their feet just as Jeff Davis and Bob Toombs did in 1861.

The charge so frequently made in the boodie republican press and reiterated by the Mad Molahs that fusion in Nebraska was entered into with the sole object of obtaining office is only the emanation of an evil heart and a corrupt mind. Of the 116,000 voters who united and voted one ticket not one in a thousand ever expected to hold office.

The plutocratic papers still continue to talk about the upper and lower classes. The classes in this country cannot be correctly designated in that way. There are classes, they are not the upper and the lower, they are the favored and the unfavored, or the privileged few and the multitudes that are not granted any privilege except to toil and to die.

When the first of the year arrived the banks and the great corporations began publishing their annual statements. The banks showed profits of from 50 to 200 per cent and the express companies and trusts were still more "prosperous."

COURT MARTIAL FOR EGAN.

The President Orders One for the Commissary General.

CABINET UNANIMOUS FOR IT.

The Commissary General Will Be Arrested and Relieved From His Position—Is Already Preparing His Defense—To Plead Justification for His Words.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The President announced at the cabinet meeting shortly after it assembled for its regular session to-day that he had decided to order a court-martial to try Commissary General Egan for his abusive and violent language respecting Major General Nelson A. Miles upon the witness stand before the war investigating commission.

The decision met the unanimous approval of the members of the cabinet. Three of the President's official advisers, Secretary Alger, Secretary Wilson and Postmaster General Emory Smith were absent, but in each instance their views are known to coincide thoroughly with the President's decision.

While it was not definitely stated what specifications would be made against General Egan, it is understood that the specific charge on which he will be tried will be "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

General Egan is already at work on the outline of his defense. He would like to bring in the beef charges made by General Miles in order to prove they were without foundation, and, having proved General Miles guilty of falsehood, he could plead that he was justified in calling him a liar.

In any event General Egan undoubtedly will close his term as commissary general of subsistence when relieved and placed under military arrest, preparatory to his trial.

TO PROHIBIT BUCKET SHOPS.

A Kansas Bill Forbidding the Dealing in Options.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 18.—If House bill No. 1, introduced by Benefield, becomes a law, it will make "bucket shops" illegal in Kansas.

The owner of a "bucket shop" and his employes, when convicted, are to be punished by terms in the state penitentiary. The bill further makes the renting of rooms or building, which shall be used for "bucket shops," illegal, the owner of the property to be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

The sheriff who shall close a "bucket shop" shall, as in the case of raiding a saloon, destroy all the property he seizes. Where a "bucket shop" proprietor or agent is enjoined publishing market reports and defies such an injunction, he is to be fined $100 to $500 for contempt and imprisonment in jail.

Senator Cooke introduced a resolution calling for a repeal of the section of the state constitution affecting the office of state printer. Cooke would have the state printer elected by a direct vote of the people every two years.

PORTER MAY SUCCEED YOUNG

The Position of Librarian Will Probably Go to the President's Private Secretary.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—It is probable that John Addison Porter, private secretary to the President, will succeed John Russell Young, as librarian of Congress. That the announcement of this probability should follow so closely upon the heels of the announcement of Mr. Young's death is due exclusively to the fact that Mr. Young himself recently expressed a desire to be transferred to the diplomatic service, and it is known that while awaiting an opportunity to effect the transfer the President was at the same time favorably considering the suggestion of appointing Mr. Porter to the place.

VENAL LEGISLATION.

A late issue of the New York Sun, an outrageous bug apologist for the present prosperity (?) administration, states that a most careful investigation reveals the fact that in New York city, there to-day 50,000 women employ in various occupations, at wages so low that it is an utter impossibility for the women to live on them—and they are compelled to ask and accept charity or do worse.

COAL OIL INSPECTION.

A Woman Protests Against the Abolition of that Bureau for Good Reasons.

To the Members of the Nebraska Legislature: It is reported through the press that there has been introduced for the consideration of your honorable body a bill by which it is proposed to abolish the office of state inspector of oils and the system of oil inspection as at present established.

The introducers of this measure, as well as all who favor it, are doubtless actuated by a desire to promote economy in public affairs, a most commendable motive, but to the women of Nebraska who have so largely the handling and use of oils for domestic purposes, it cannot possibly mean economy.

KILLED AND WOUNDED.

A law was enacted in 1893 compelling the railroads to fit their cars with safety appliances, but a loophole was left whereby the interstate commerce commission could excuse them from obeying the law.

BEEF SIX YEARS OLD

General Miles Ferrets out the Ancient History of that Fat Egan Canned Beef.

The fight between the secretary of war and the general commanding the army, has reached an acute stage. The attack on Gen. Miles has been shrewdly concealed by General Alger by permitting General Egan, his staff officer, to accuse General Miles of misrepresenting the facts in the "embalmed" beef case.

General Miles charged that 200,000 pounds of beef were thrown overboard in New York harbor because of the mismanagement in the war department.

Secretary Alger replied by allowing General Egan, a subordinate of General Miles, to challenge his veracity. General Egan demanded from Miles a retraction of statements made by him. General Miles ignored the demand of his inferior officer.

General Egan's whole case rests on his ability to discredit the evidence of Major Daly, who testified before the war investigating committee that the beef at Tampa was embalmed and medicated for its preservation.

Inspector General Breekinridge will deny this emphatically on information furnished by General Miles. He will state that the fact is that the beef referred to by Major Daly was given to the soldiers at Tampa by order of General Egan, as it was issued to them by Colonel Weston, an officer acting under General Egan for the commissary department.

Notwithstanding the fact that Egan's beef was shown at Tampa to be medicated, it was sent in bulk on the Rio Grande and the Comal to Santiago. It was washed out to the soldiers there and it made them deathly sick.

General Egan will be asked to show where this beef came from. If it was not government beef, what right had the commissary department to experiment with it?

The war department will be obliged to answer if it carried out the statute of March 3, 1891. The whole matter of beef for the soldier goes back to a cabinet officer, Mr. Wilson. By the act referred to he should have inspected the beef supplied to the army.
