

SALE OF THE HUB STOCK

On Tuesday last we purchased the entire stock of the Hub Clothing Company. This stock was invoiced by competent clothing men on the following basis: Goods bought in the last season at net cost, and those bought previous to that were taken up at value, that is, 10 to 25 per cent and even a larger discount.

We bought this stock at nearly 50 cents on the dollar from these already cut prices. We didn't buy this so much from the love of buying bargains as we did from the fact that somebody had to have the stock, and if there was anything to be made or lost we are willing to make or lose on it. Chances are, at the way we propose to sell it, to sell it cheap, to sell it quick, we won't make much. True to our policy that

NO SHODDY OR SATINET SHALL EVER APPEAR IN OUR HOUSE

THE LICHTY CHARGES

Sullivan dissenting, that was responsible for these payments. So in this case as in all the others, Mr. Lichty's charges were shown to be absolutely without any foundation in fact.

Mr. Palm was examined and required to tell the amount of the charges he had made which he did. In comparison with the charges made by republicans when they were in office, they were very much less.

Every year a large amount of government land is proved up and becomes subject to taxation. The law requires the auditor to employ some one to make an abstract of these lands and send them to the county authorities in each county so that they may be listed for taxation. There is a specific appropriation made for that purpose. The auditor employed Mr. Pool to do that work and the evidence showed that it was mostly done by Mr. Pool's wife and daughter. What time Mr. Pool spent upon it was done at his house at night. So her again the charges of Mr. Lichty were shown to be wholly false.

The evidence showed that the only party who had been violating the law was Mr. Lichty himself. It was proven beyond doubt that Mr. Lichty violated his sworn duty in issuing a license to an insolvent insurance company, that he had violated the law by attaching postage stamps instead of internal revenue stamps and writing on them "I R" to indicate that they were internal revenue stamps. That he received a suit of clothes worth $55.00 from a man who had business with the office, or desired to services rendered by clerks in that office.

A clerk in the auditor's office testified that a Falls City gentleman who was on an Auditor Eugene Moore's first term bond, had asked him and Mr. Lichty to ascertain whether Mr. Moore was short in his accounts during his first term. An examiner was then at work on records of the office and the information secured showed there was a shortage of only a few dollars during the first term. The Falls City man hit very good over the information and intimated in some way that he might furnish a suit of clothes for the favor performed. Mr. Lichty went to a Lincoln tailor and ordered a $55 suit and the bill was sent to the Falls City man, who paid it.

The evidence showed that the only irregularities in the auditor's office were the work of Mr. Lichty and no one else. When the legislative committee called upon the auditor he turned the whole office over to them and all there was in it. The committee took even his private letter book and many private letters, some of them being from his wife. No one supposes that the committee will make any use of these private letters. While a majority of the committee are republicans, they are not Lichtys and it is not to be supposed they will give private letters to the public.

The examination both by the governor's committee and that appointed at his request by the legislature is very thorough. Many witnesses have been called by both. The legislative committee is largely composed of lawyers, the governor's committee has the attorney general on it and Mr. Cornell is represented by Judge Bryant of Hartington and Ed P. Smith. There is no lack of legal talent to ferret out any wrong doing if there has been any. So far nothing at all has been discovered.

At the time of going to press the investigation is still in progress. The last witness on the stand was Mr. Agee of the R. & M. railroad. He positively denied the published statement of Mr. Lichty in regard to the pressure brought upon him by populist officials to fore him to issue passes and said he had never had any such conversation with him. Upon further questioning he said that Mr. Lichty had applied to him for a pass on the grounds of charity. Upon investigation it was found that the pass was asked for the daughter of his land lady and the road looked upon it as a scheme to pay his board bill and refused to grant it.

The investigation will last for several days, both republicans and fusionists insisting that it shall be made as thorough as possible.

MARSHALL BROS.

The Arlington Nursery, at Arlington, Washington county, Nebraska, was established by Marshall Bros, the present proprietors, 12 years ago, the first planting being done during March and April, 1887, and the entire nursery (acquired) for that year covering about 6 or 7 acres. Success crowned their efforts from the start, so that while their business has grown continually, with never a boom but a constant increase, enlarging the plant somewhat every year since its start, so that the actual stock now grown in all is more than can be carried successfully on the tract of land on which it was started (being all they had in that immediate neighborhood) viz. one sixty acres, they sought the first opportunity of securing another 160 directly adjoining the present plant, during June, 1895, too late for last spring's planting but will in the coming spring plant nursery stock over quite a good share of it. Their business is among the largest of any of the leading retail nurseries of the west, their mode of propagation, cultivation, etc., that of the foremost advanced that proves successful, their varieties which they advise planting most freely, is all of those that have been tested in Nebraska and found to be successful. They are located in one of the leading fruit belts of the state where all western varieties, to say the least, has given them good ideas as to its reliability, etc.

GOOD NIGHT COMRADE.

In memory of Sergeant Gettis, company C, First Nebraska, who died when five days out from San Francisco, and was buried at sea, being the first man in the regiment who gave his life for his country.

Good night, comrade, sink thee to rest, Beneath the sad seas heaving breast. Tho' for thy country thou hast died, A soldier's grave thou art denied. No shaft of marble can mark thy tomb, No flowers can o'er thee bloom. No ivy round thy couch can twine, Naught but the ocean's dark blue brine. No loved ones of Nebraska near, To shed for thee a parting tear. The vast Pacific's constant moan, Must sing thy requiem alone. Would I could give thee comrade, a bed, Where thy farewell to home was said. Amidst Nebraska's verdant hills, Along her crystal rippling hills, Where cottonwood could o'er thee wave, And the meadow lark sing round thy grave. Ah! it waters not, on assembly day, Thou'lt hear Mars trumpet where'er thou lay. For thy old mother and sweetest fair, Instead of tears the boys give a prayer, Good night comrade, may sea nymphs keep sweet watch o'er thee whilst thou sleep.

—Roller Allen, Pt. Co. "A."

The State Journal has been a "house of refuge" for all the wayward who ever claimed to be populists and found that they had an impediment in their virtue. Sam Elder went there, Bill Cook went there, Matt Howe went there and the poor Lichty found there a place to take him in.

GET YOUR HOGS INSURED.

A new insurance company called the Mutual Hog Insurance association has just been formed. Its object is to insure hogs against death by all kinds of disease, including cholera. Its incorporators are over 200 men scattered all over Nebraska. Its duration is for 20 years. This is the only insurance company of its kind in Nebraska and we do not know but what it is the only one in the world. Mr. J. M. Sanford is at the head of this, and has always made a great success in the insurance business and we do not doubt but that he will prove that the hog insurance is a success. They have $2,000 in premiums already pledged and policies will be issued as soon as $25,000 in premium is received, which they think will be about the middle of March. The general office is in Fairfield, Clay county, Nebraska, and branch office is 1232 O street, Lincoln, Neb. Anyone desiring to have the particulars of this company or to become a member, address J. M. Sanford, Fairfield, Neb., or C. B. Beall, 1232 O street, Lincoln, Neb.
